AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Do nacy, Miss Maggie Mitchell is greater in the character of Marie in "The Pearl of Savoy" than a Cast of Fanchon. There was such an immense crowd at the matinee last Saturday, that it will be as well for ladies who intend to go next Saturday, and who desire seats in the dress circle to secure them before hand. To-morrow night benefit of Miss Maggie Mitchell.

California Theatre.

"Divorce" with its beautiful scenery, sparkling dialogue, keen satire, startling situations, and well constructed plot continues to crowd the house. It will be played at the matinee on Saturday.

The Alhambra.

Add Ryman's capital burlesque of "Hamlet" is a popular feature of the entertainment offered at this favorite theatre. It is preceded by a splendid first part, in which Billy Sweetnam and Lew Simmons cause much fun, and by an interlude comprising songs and dances by Welch and Rice; banjo solo by Lew Simmons, and the laughable sketch of "The Kearny Street Milliner."

Bella Union.

The Reynolds Brothers met with a hearty reception on making their appearance at this popular theatre last night, and caused much amusement in their capital song and dance entitled "Gens D'Armes," and also in an amusing act entitled "Jem Ace's Cousin" M'lle Marie Gaugain, Miss Jennie Johnson, Johnny Tuers, Marie Zoel, Tommy Barton, and a host of others appeared in a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

American Theatre.

Crowds go every night to the American Theatre to marvel at the wonderful feats of M'lle Forrestelle, the female contortionist; a great number of amusing acts are performed, and a fine selection of songs and dances is given every evening. To-night, "Divorce" an original piece, "The Haunted House" and "The Two Rivals" will be performed.

Le Favre's Varieties.

First part with Lew Rattler and Charley Nickerson on the ends, Charles Coriell as middle-man, and a number of fine singers, incerinde of amusing acts, songs and dances, the performance of the Child Americus Troupe, and the extravaganza of "Abon Hassan," form the entertainment at this place of amusement. The first matinee will be given on Saturday.

San Francisco Circus.

The spectacular play of "Cinderella," was capitally performed at the matinee yesterday, and will from the finale, to a splendid programme of arenic feats by horsemen, acrobats and gymnasts to-night. The circus leaves next Monday. All should visit it once more and enjoy the new bill.

City Gardens.

The third annual picnic of the Butcher's Protective Brotherhood will be held at this popular place of resort on Sunday next. Foot-races, games, and diversions of various kinds will come off at the Gardens. A splendid prize will be awarded to the lady who makes the best shooting in the archery grounds. Dancing will be kept up day and evening in the new Pavilion, and at 8 o'clock a grand display of fireworks will be given, including the Order's Emblem and Motto as a finale.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

In addition to to the attractions of a grand skating Pavilion, boats on the lake, swings, croquet ground, [etc. Next Sunday Herr Schlam, a very clever professor of the art of legerdemain, will give an exhibition in the Pavilion and enable those visiting the Park to pa away an hour very pleasantly. Teetotallers may not be plessed as the Professor promises among other attractions a magic brewery, a distillery, and a devil's punch bowl.

Miss Edith O'Gorman.

On Tuesday evening next Miss Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, who has caused such a sensation in the various cities of the East by a disclosure of the secrets of her prison house, will deliver a lecture on the subject in Platt's Hall under the title of "Life in a Convent."

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Scott to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Scott are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. I

New York Dry Goods Store.

What they are Wearing at the East.

We glean the following fashion notes especially for the lady readers of FIGARO from the Washington Critic, one of the "best and brightest" of our exchanges:

A new color is called Ruesda.

Blade-o'-grass hats are appropriate with Dolly Vardens.

The "Parepa-Rosa" is the latest in ladies' neck-ties.

Venetian filagree work is once more very fashionable for jewelry of all kinds.

Colored linen collars are coming in fashion again this season, with cuffs to match.

Dolly Varden masquerades are the latest stigma on the good name of Dickens' unfortunate heroine.

Coral necklaces are superseding all other kinds, and the mania for rose-tinted coral seems rather on the increase than otherwise.

Worth's favorite combination of colors in costumes this season are black and salmon color, garnet and rose pink, and blue and a shade of light pink.

Ladies' house shoes are a sort of half low boot, of gray, blue or crimson kid, with heels the same color, to be worn with Dolly Varden costumes.

The lowest price for a silk costume made by Worth, of Paris, is one thousand francs to an American customer, and about half that sum to a French one.

Our ladies have come to the conclusion that they can't carry too much slung to their waist-belts. They all carry their fans and umdrellas in this fashion, and not a few "witch the world" with gilded portemonnaies, bronze-cased watch, Russian leather memorandum books, voluminous vinaigrettes, and we know not what besides. Report says that one young lady carries a pair of rubber boots slung by a gold chain to her waist, in cases of rainy weather.

Once More a Pleasure Garden.

The Jardin des Plantes at Paris is being restocked with carnivora; many of the animals belonging to Wombwell's menagerie, recently sold, were purchased for this delightful Summer resort of the Parisians. It is sad to think that the valuable animals formerly in this garden all had to be eaten during the siege. We hope that the Parisians have not acquired so great a taste for lion steak, entlette of camel, roast ostrich and other dishes of a like kind, that they will long to cut up these animals likewise.

English farmers have raised wages three shillings a week,

Chas. Schultz,

The leader of the California Theatre orchestra, has dedicated his last and best song, "Return to Me," to Miss Minnie Walton. M. Gray, publisher.

SHAKSPEARE.

At the unveiling and formal dedication of the statue of Shakspeare on May 20th in Central Park, New York, which, strange to say, is is the first monument worthy of note that has been erected on American soil to the memory of him "who wrote not for a day but for all time" a poem, written for the occasion by R. H. Stoddart, was read by Edwin Booth to the assembled thousands with wonderful magnetic effect. We quote the concluding verses;

Before he came his like was not,
Nor left he heirs to share his powers;
The mighty mother sent him here
To be her voice and ours!

To be her oracle to man;
To be what man may be to her—
Between the Maker and the made
The best interpreter.

The hearts of all men beat in his,
Alike in pleasure and in pain;
And he contained their myriad minds—
Mankind in heart and brain!

Shakspeare! What shapes are conjured up
By that one word! They come and go,
More real, shadows though they be,
Than many a man we know.

Hamlet the Dane, unhappy Prince,
Who most enjoys when suffering most;
His soul is haunted by itself—
There needs no other ghost!

The Thane, whose murderous fancy sees
The dagger painted in the air;
The guilty king, who stands apalled
When Banquo fills his chair!

Lear in the tempest, old and crazed—
"Blow winds! Spit fires, singes my white head!"
Or sadder, watching for the breath
Of dear Cordelia, dead!

The much abused relentless Jew;
Grave Prospero, in his magic isle;
And she who captivated Antony—
The serpent of old Nile!

Imperial forms, heroic souls,
Greek, Roman,—masters of the world;
Kings, queens; the soldier, scholar, priest;
The courtier, sleek and curled—

He knew and drew all ranks of men,
And did such life to them impart
They grow not old—immortal types,
The lords of life and art!

Their sovereign he, as she was his—
The awful mother of the race,
Who, hid from all her children's eyes,
Unveiled to him her face;

Spake to him till her speech was known,
Through him till man had learned it; then,
Enthroned him in her heavenly house,
The most supreme of men!

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
There 'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.'

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

GEORGE MAYES'

THE LATEST INVENTIO

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Erase

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmad Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; t used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-heading, rolling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; but in case of blot upon any printed form you can scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WHITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time on failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained parts into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Female Taste.

A cultivated taste marks a woman of elegance and refinement as decidedly as a knowledge of classical literature does a gentleman; and there is nothing in which female vulgarity is more clearly shown than in want of taste. This is an axiom that we think will not admit of dispute; but it is a question how far taste is natural, and how far it may be acquired. A delicate taste must, to a certain extent, depend upon the organization of the individual, and it is impossible for any rules to be laid down which will impart taste to persons entirely devoid of it. But this is very seldom the case with women, as it is one of the few points in which women naturally excel men. Men may be, and probably are, superior to women in all that requires profound thought and general knowledge, but in the arrangement of a house, and the introduction of ornamental furniture and articles of bijoutre, there can be no doubt of the innate superiority of women. Every one must have remarked the difference in the furnishing of a bachelor's house, and one where a lady presides; the thousand little elegancies of the latter, though nothing in themselves, adding like cyphers, prodigiously to the value of the solid articles they are appended to.

A Good Suggestion.

The Chronicle suggests that the law be amended so as to inflict capital punishment for an attempt at murder in cases where some innocent young girl, like Miss Hein, is shot down on the streets because she has too much good sense to listen to the protestations of what some brainless scoundrel calls his "love." All brutal cowards like Mansfield should have no sympathy shown them. The gallows is too good for them. Let their punishment be the severest the law can inflict, as their crime is the most heartless that man can commit.

Philosophical.

A philsophical Kentuckian, who was the envied possessor of one shirt, while lying in bed awaiting its return from the line where it was flapping in solitary grandeur, was startled by an exclamation from the better half of his bosom, to the effect that "the calf has eaten it." To this he replied, with an equanimity worthy of a better cause, "them who has must lose!"

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street.

"Happy Thoughts."

We make the following extracts from a late English publication entitled as above. It is by Mr. Burnand:

As a taste of its peculiar humor we quote some of the Happy Thinker's Sayings for Sundays:

First—Of the bee. If the bee could talk, he would always be boasting of his business and would do nothing.

Moral—Learn from the bee the lesson of silent perseverence.

(I think this is the lesson to be learned.)

Second—The wasp's sting is in his tail. So is a tale-bearers.

Moral—Avoid wasps and tale-bearers,

(This would come among the squibs. Still I think it would be a fair Sunday squib, for even a serious circle.

* * * * * * *

Seventhly—The sum of social Christianity: Love your neighbors and hate your relations.

(This will do for Sunday. Irony for Sunday. Fun for Friday apropos of irony: Who ought to have been the best writer of irony? Steele.)

Eighthly—In a woman's youth coquetry is natural. It is the expression of amiable indecision. At thirty it is a science.

(Somehow I think I've slid away from Sunday literature.)

Ninthly—A pretty woman well made-up is an angel—with false wings.

(The mention of an angel is something nearer to Sunday.)

* * * *

Sixteenthly—Marrying for love is like digging for gold. It is to be hoped the speculation will succeed.

Moral—Love in haste: Marry at leisure.

(Altogether, I fancy I'm wandering from Sunday Meditations. I don't think these are the jottings of Marcus Aurellus.

Seventeenthly—Here is something specially for Sunday: If you can't pay creditors, love them. It may not be exactly fulfilling the law of your country, but the sentiment is sublime and thoroughly Christian.

(This is a moral in itself. Happy Thought Make the moral first and invent the fable. Good.)

Eighteenthly—We are all so vain that we can't imagine eternal happiness for much of us. The reverse of the medal is unpalatable:

Moral—Be 'umble.

Nineteenthly—There are few men, if any, with whom it is possible to reason concerning either love or religion.

Moral—Don't try.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 331 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Empire—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $5 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can but let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in the sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX &

Metropolitan Theatre.

The beautiful character of Marie in "The Pearl of Savoy" shows Miss Maggie Mitchell to good advantage, and the visible effect her acting has upon the audience is a proof of its truthfulness. This play will be performed at the matinee to-morrow, for which seats should be secured in advance. To-night Miss Maggie Mitchell will take her first benefit and appear again in her great specialty of Fanchon. On this occasion the Metropolitan Theatre will doubtless be crowded with the fashionable people of the city.

The Alhambra.

A great entertainment is given at this very popular theatre by Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels. There is delightful singing and also plenty of fun in the first part; in the interlude Welch and Rice appear in a song and dance, Lew Simmons in an original banjo solo, the farce of "The Kearny-street Milliner" is performed, and Add Hyman's capital burlesque of "Hamlet" terminates the entertainment.

California Theatre.

"Divorce" is certainly up for a run, the house being crowded every night, Augustin Daly has handled a delicate subject with admirable good taste and our best people endorse his play. It will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

For variety of programme and excellence of performance the Bella Union can scarcely be surpassed. Mlle Marie Gaugain's shadow dance, the Reynolds Brothers' amusing song and dance acts, Johnny Tuers' acts, J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong's impersonations, Tommy Barton's comic songs, Marie Zoel's clog dances, and the extraordinary extravaganza of "Adam and Eve," in which all the company appear, are all received with shouts of applause. A great bill is in preparation for Saturday night.

American Theatre.

All the people in town are talking about "Divorce." The enterprising management of the American Theatre are first in the field with an amusing travestie of this popular play. The burlesque of "Divorce" and many other performances make up a good bill for to-night.

Le Favre's Varieties.

The Child Americus Troupe, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, J. H. Stout, and that musical marvel, the Child Americus, will all appear to-night in conjunction with a capital first part, an amusing interlude of songs, dances and acts, and the extravaganza of "Abon Hassan."

San Francisco Circus.

Only two nights more of the circus. If there is a boy or girl in San Francisco who has not yet been to the Circus he or she should be taken to the matinee to-morrow. The present programme is a capital one and "Cinderella has proved a great hit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Shocking.

Several of the young ladies of the Philadelphia bon ton are about forming a boat club, called the "Dolly Varden," and are to practice on the banks of the classic Schuylkill in a few weeks. This announcement is not so striking, but it is supplemented by another, made in that record of fashionable intelligence, Our Society, calculated to excite a little surprise, and that is, touching the costume to be worn by these fair dameels. This costume is to be simply a loose-fitting white flannel blouse, trimmed with blue ribbon, and a jaunty, white, sailor hat! Cool and elegant, doubtless, but not quite in keeping with the usual modesty of the Quaker city.

Matrimony is so popular now at the West that almost every stateroom on the river packets has been converted into a bridal chamber.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senate to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senate are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. AT THE MANAGERIE.

I like the armadillo. I respect the kangaroo,
I'm nuts upon the monkeys, and adore the cockatoo;
I believe there's latent talent in the wombat and the stoat,
And I think the hippopotamus entitled to a vote.

I know not why or wherefore, but, however it may be,
The beaver (Castor fiber) has a nameless charm for me;
I've met with true politeness from the lynx; and 'bon my soul,
I can not speak too highly of the common Yankee mole.

I love to watch the creatures, and to learn their little games;
I call them from my fancy all the prettiest pet names;
There's the camel, Humpty Dumpty; Neck-or-Nothing, the giraffe;
Jolly Gnash, the old hyena, with his idiotic laugh.

I mark the restless motions of the more ferocious lots—
How the tigers shift their places, and the leopards change their spots;
I visit too, the burly bear, and give my wonted dole,
(N.B.—The polar bear is not the bear that climbs the pole.)

Then let us be to every beast a patron and a friend;
Each tells his tale, each has his aim, as sure as he's his end;
A lesson's to be learned from them, and man himself may steal
Some new light from the tapir, some impression from the seal.

A Cool Relation.

How touching was the grief displayed in B—— at a funeral a little out of town! The undertaker, who was directing matters in a very professional and proper way, noticed a man giving orders, and, as he thought rather encroaching upon the duties and privileges of his office.

"And who are you, my friend, that are so busy about here?"

"Oh! don't you know me?"

"No, I don't."

"Well, I'm the corpse's brother."

A Maine lover gave up his bride when her father presented a bill for the young man's board during the four years they were engaged.

"Mr. Lo" is getting tiresome as a frisky term for the red man.

Gas is made from corn cobs in Council Bluffs.

What Cheer Laundry

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coziest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter beat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage.

GEORGE MAYES

DEALER IN OYSTERS, CLAMS and all kinds of SHELL FISH,

THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmadge Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to obtain a perfectly neat and clean erasure, rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printer's ink upon a printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finer laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure, therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications therefor, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last nine years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the success in treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST result in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

FRIDAY.....JUNE 14, 1872

Fanny Fern on Dolly Vardens.

When I say that the street dress of the majority of respectable woman at New York to-day is disgusting, I but feebly express my emotions. I say the respectable women, and yet, save to them who know them to be such, their appearance leaves a wide margin for doubt. The clown at a circus wears not a more parti-colored costume; in fact, has has the advantage of being sufficiently "taut," to use a nautical phrase, not to interfere with locomotion; while theirs—what with disgusting humps upon their backs, and big rosettes upon their shoulders, and loops, and folds, and buttons, and clasps, and bows upon their skirts, and striped satin petticoats, all too short to hide their clumsy ankles—and more colors and shades of colors heaped up on one poor little fashion-ridden body than ever was gathered in one rainbow—and all this worn without regard to temperature, or time, or place—I say this presents a spectacle which is comical. One cannot smile at the young girls who are one day—Heaven help them—to be wives and mothers!

"Pacific Law Reporter."

This valuable publication has entered on its fourth volume. It is indispensible to a lawyer's office and contains much matter of interest to the general public. For instance: In the Digest of Recent Decisions in No. 1 of Vol., IV., just published, there is a decision concerning the relations of Landlord and Tenant, and their respective rights that should be read by everyone who owns a house or pays rent for one.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come ont in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. O

"Music" in San Jose.

San Jose people won't patronize good entertainments when they are sent to them from San Francisco, don't seem to care about music and now fearful judgments are coming on them; the papers have been doing all they could to encourage amateur "dramatic" associations, "musical" associations, and even a band of amateur negro minstrels. In the way of amateur "musical" companies, the San Jose people have a "drum corps," of which the Mercury thus complains:

We supposed our playful hint, a few days since, concerning the disturbance of the peace and quiet of this portion of the city, caused by the practising of the Drum Corps would be all-sufficient, and the gentleman composing that corps would go out upon the public squares, or away from the thickly settled portion of the city to practice. But last night were tortured for another two hours of the same sort. The beating of a dozen drums in close proximity to a printing office, as a regular thing, becomes simply unbearable. Others, residing in the vicinity of the racket, are almost driven to madness, and declare they will not endure it any longer, if there is any virtue in the city ordinance concerning nuisances. We have the names of these nightly disturbers of the peace: and we are positively assured that if the disturbance occurs again, the corps will be proceeded against in due form of law as a public nuisance.

We consider this very unkind. A drum is easy to play, a good deal of noise can be made with it, and its music is quite good enough for the people of San Jose. When the minstrel band is organized and the Drum Corps is perfected, the San Jose people will have all the amusement and music they care for, and opera troupes, concert companies, and other professionals will not come and "take money out of the town." There are many talented amateur performers—on the drum—in San Jose, and they should be encouraged.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Launte," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the caricatures of Gilray," The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartanz, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the invention being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all that better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $11 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and remaining young, is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and drink melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could secure such a victory as this, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old bearding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—New York Tribune.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Miss Maggie Mitchell had a fine house on the occasion of her benefit last night, when she appeared in her great specialty of Fanchon. This afternoon the drama of "The Pearl of Savoy" will be performed, and this evening for the last time Maggie Mitchell will appear as Fanchon. To-morrow evening "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented, with Miss Maggie Moore as Topsy, and Mr. John Woodard in his capital impersonation of Uncle Tom. On Monday evening the dramatization of Charlotte Bronte's novel of "Jane Eyre," made expressly for Miss Maggie Mitchell, will be produced, and the public will have an opportunity of seeing her in a character utterly dissimilar to those which she has already appeared in.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The full bill which has delighted so many during the week will be played at the matinee to-day and this evening. Billy Sweetnam, Lew Simmons, J. G. Russell, C. Stevens, J. H. Murphy and others sing ballads and choruses in splendid style in the first part; Welch and Rice are every amusing in their songs and dances; Lew Simmons banjo solos cause much laughter; "The Kearny Street Milliner" is a funny sketch, and Add Ryman's burlesque of "Hamlet" is a decided hit. A burlesque of "Divorce is underlined.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"At the matinee to-day and again this evening "Divorce" will be performed. This drama, which ran for 200 nights at the Fifth-avenue Theatre, New York, bids fair to achieve quite a run at the California Theatre. Those who do not go to see it before it is withdrawn, will miss seeing the best American play ever written.

BELLA UNION.—Those splendid artists, the Reynolds Brothers, have created quite a furore at this establishment in their original dances and new acts. M'lle Marie Gaugain, one of the most graceful, attractive and talented danseuses in the profession, is a great favorite; Miss Jeanie Johnson is great in comic songs; Johnny Tuers is the most original of ethiopian performers; Marie Zoel one of the prettiest clog dancers ever seen; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong are inimitable in their Dutch acts: Minnie Fillmore and Fanny Garretson pleasing in ballads; Tommy Barton very amusing in comic songs; Mat Kelly and Harry Sinclair extremely clever in acts. All these performers and many more will appear to-night in the great programme published on our first page.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—Forrestelle, the wonderful contortionist; Fanny Webster, the favorite comic vocalist; May Leroy, the popular danseuse; Eva Silva, the sweet-voiced balladist; Clara Starr, the character vocalist, and many others will appear to-night. George Foster, Harry Devoy, and Harry Howard in laughable Ethiopian acts.

ALINE LE FAVRE'S VARIETIES.—There will be a matinee performance at 2 o'clock to-day for ladies and children, and all may attend without fear of hearing anything contrary to good taste. To-night a great variety bill will be presented. The Curtis Brothers, champion skaters, will appear; Johnny Manning will perform his great trapese act blindfolded, never before performed on this coast; Aline Le Favre will appear in poses plastiques; the talented Child Americus will perform selections on the violin; a variety of amusing acts will be performed, and Edwin Gravee, Chas. Coriell, Mrs. Coriell, H. D. Thompson, Lew Rattler Charley Nickerson, and Amy Pearl, will appear in the afterpiece entitled "Barnum's Elephant; or, the Showman's Strategy."

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPODROME. There will be a matinee performance to-day, and to-night the splendid troupe which has crowded the pavilion on Jackson street every night during a period of five weeks will give their last performance in San Francisco. The success of the San Francisco Circus is unprecedented in the annals of horse opera in this city. There never was such a success, and there never was such a performance. The spectacular fairy pantomime of "Cinderella," which terminates the evening's entertainment, is a most popular feature in the performance, and delights all who witness it. This great combination comprising the best performers in the profession, and a stud of horses of unexampled beauty and excellence, will commence their campaign in the interior next week.

MISS EDITH O'GORMAN'S LECTURE.—Miss Edith O'Gorman, for six years a nun in St. Joseph's Convent, Jersey City, New Jersey, and who since her escape from that establishment has caused great excitement in various cities in the East by telling what she knows of the internal arrangements of a convent, will lecture on Tuesday evening at Platt's Hall on "Life in a Convent." Miss O'Gorman is said to be a delightful lecturer and to convey information in a most pleasing manner. Tickets for her first lecture may be obtained at Bancroft & Co's, 721 Market street, Roman & Co's, 11 Montgomery street, and Eaton's, 128 Montgomery street. They are selling rapidly and she will doubtless have a crowded house.

CITY GARDENS—THE BUTCHERS' PICNIC.—The third annual picnic of the Butcher's Protective Brotherhood will be held at this popular place of resort to-morrow. Foot-races, games, and diversions of various kinds will come off at the Gardens. A splendid prize will be awarded to the lady who makes the best shooting in the archery grounds. Dancing will be kept up day and evening in the new Pavilion, and at 8 o'clock a grand display of fireworks will be given, including the Order's Emblem and Motto as a finale.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND.—In addition to the attractions of a grand skating Pavilion, boats on the lake, swings, croquet ground, etc., to-morrow Herr Schlam, a very clever professor of the art of legerdemain, will give an exhibition in the Pavilion and enable those visiting the Park to pass away an hour very pleasantly Tectotallers may not be pleased as the Professor promises among other attractions a magic brewery, a distillery, and a devil's punch bowl.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Sunshiny weather is the signal for all who can afford to hire a team and take a drive to Captain Foster's ne plus ultra of hostelries, the Cliff House, where can be found the best of entertainment for man and beast. Those who wish to go economically can get out at at small expense by Lone Mountain cars and om-

MERCANTILE LIBRARY HALL.—On Monday the Rev. Robert Scrimgeour will deliver a lecture

FOURTH JULY EXERCISES.—The management of the City Gardens have tendered the free use of the new Pavilion to the Fourth July Committee to hold the usual literary exercises in. The new galleries now in course of construction will seat 1,500 persons, and could be reserved for ladies exclusively. The body of the Pavilion will accommodate 2,500 persons. There is a good stage; the acoustic properties of the hall are faultless. When we consider that the Tenth and Eleventh Wards are by far the most populous ones in town, and that the procession every year marches and countermarches within two blocks of the gardens, we think it would be an improvement if the committee adopt the Eastern plan, and hold their literary exercises in the nearest rural resort. The City Gardens are commodious enough to accommodate the thousands that would flock thither on the occasion.

LEADING LADY.—Miss Annie Graham, from the Philadelphia theatres, will be leading lady at the California Theatre next season.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—The Berger Family performed at Brayton Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, and will give another entertainment to night..... On Tuesday "London Assurance" was produced at Brayton Hall by the Oakland Dramatic Association, assisted by Miss May Howard.....To-morrow Herr Schlam will give an entertainment entitled "An Hour in Magic Land," at the Pavilion in Badger's Grand Central Park. Admission to the Park and all the attractions, including the entertainment of Herr Schlam, will be 25 cents.

SACRAMENTO.—Miss Mary E. Wadsworth, Signor Bianchi and troupe gave the opera of "Crispino e la Comare" at the Metropolitan Theatre last night. To-night "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" will be given.

MARYSVILLE.—The Standard of the 12th says:

A large and fashionable audience was present at the Marysville Theatre last evening on the occasion of the rendition of the opera entitled "Crispino e la Comare" by Miss Mary E. Wadsworth and the San Francisco opera troupe. Every seat was filled, and the performance gave the highest satisfaction. All the parts were well sustained, and and more particularly that of Annetta.

On the following evening "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was performed, with Miss Mary E. Wadsworth as Rosina.....On Monday and Tuesday evenings the Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell will give their delightful entertainment at the theatre.

SANTA ROSA.—Nelson's Minstrels gave two performances last week. The Democrat says:

Large audiences were in attendances, and judging from the unanimity of the applause, all were well pleased. The clog dancing of the two Nelson Brothers was alone well worth the admission fee. We trust this troupe will have good audiences wherever they perform.

ALVISO.—The Fakir of Ooiu was to give an entertainment this week.

SAN JOSE.—They have an amateur drum corps in San Jose, and the amateur minstrels are rehearsing. On Monday next the San Jose Musical Society will give a concert at the Court House.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Charles Wheatleigh commenced an engagement at Piper's Opera House on Monday as Shaun the Post, in "Arrah na Pogue." This play was repeated on the following evening. On Wednesday "The Octoroon" was performed. 'After Dark" was underlined as in rehearsal. On Thursday "A Victim of Circumstances" was presented, after which Jem Mace made his appearance in his Classic Statues.

SALT LAKE CITY.—The Zavistowski Sisters appeared at the theatre on June 3d. Maze Edwards is travelling with them as agent.

PORTLAND.—Miss Mehlig gave her third concert on the 7th and on the following day gave a matinee performance. Geo. B. Waldron returned from his trip to Victoria on the 7th and will shortly give a season at the Gro Fino Theatre. Marshall & Co's Japs gave their last performance at East Portland Park on the 9th.

WALLA WALLA, W. T.—Marshall & Co's Japanese troupe gave their first performance on the 30th ult to a crowded house.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Our London dates are up to the 16th ult. At the Covent Garden Italian Opera, Pauline Lucca, Adelina Patti, Miss Albani were still the queens. At the Drury Lane Italian Opera, Marie Miramon Miss Kellogg, Miss Titiens were meeting with fair success. Capoul was to show 29th for the first time since his Yankee trip. The following were the pieces of the evening at theatres: Haymarket, Pygmalion and Galatea; Adelphi, Princess Springtime; Lyceum, Hilda; Gaiety, Virginian Mummy; Princess, Mr. and Mrs. Boucicault; Queen's, Mrs Scott Siddons; Olympic, Our Interest; St. James, Rabagas; Strand, By the Sea, and the Poor Gentleman, John S. Clarke; Prince of Wales, Money; Globe, A Postic Proposal; Opera Comique, opera bouffe; Royalty, As You Like It....Alhambra, ballet, "Nena Sahib." Siamese Dragon Troupe. "Clodhopper's Fortune." Comic ballet, "Twiddleumtwist," Evans Troupe....Holborn, "Out of the Frying Pan," Lionel Brough, Mesdames L. Venn and Sallie Turner. "La Vie Parisienne in London." .....Victoria Palace Theatre, "Aurora Floyd," "La Sylphide." Mesdames Anato and Burlette. "Ticket-of-Leave Man."....."Standard, "Wait and Hope," "Princess of Trebizonde."....."Philharmonic, "Slumber, my Darling," "Genevieve De Brabant."....."Grecian, "The Phantom Captain," "The Shipwrecked Sailor," "Blow for Blow"..... Nothing new at the music halls.....An attempt was made by Marsh on the 10th to sell the Surrey Theatre at auction. He announced that it accommodated 3,000 persons, occupied 1,600 feet of freehold land, and had cost £40,000. There was not a solitary bid, as it was understood £25,000 was the reserve price. Creswick was starring there in legitimate .....General and Mrs. Tom Thumb, Commodore Nutt and Minnie Warren proposed to return to America at an early date, and were exhibiting, prior to a final farewell to England, at the Pala's Royal, Regent street. The General was said to have grown somewhat portly, and looked quite a respectable middle-aged gentleman in miniature. The Commodore, whose figure had not developed into such aldermanic proportions, was very active, and sustains the chief part of the comic business.....Miss Nilsson will be married in Paris early in July to Mr. Ronzeaud, to whom she was engaged before coming to this country. She is to sing in Madrid toward the close of the summer. Nilsson's American tour netted her $427,332.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the cosiest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Erase

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmad
Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkee clerks, and the writing community in general; used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon the printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you can erase a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the ink is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; in case of blot upon any printed form you can erase it off without spoiling your form, if done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIFIC COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco. DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS, and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospital in London, the LOCK, he has again opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand where he can always be found. DR. TOZER has for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of diseases of the nature known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS. DR. TOZER is in every way responsible, binding himself to effect a permanent CURE, or making no charge. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice and medicine will be charged for medicine only. The MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at the office. Price $5 per box. Full direction on each box, sent by Express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertisements of Quacks who make it a practice to publish long affidavits and other false references, but refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed to cure.

Oyster Palace Restaurant,

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Thorne, Jr., Z. J. Little, Henry Otto, Charles Norris and others in the cast.....An English opera company are performing at Bryant's Opera House, Twenty-third street. The New York Home Journal of the 5th says:

The season opened on Monday night with "The Bohemian Girl," re-introducing Mrs. Seguin, Miss Emma Howson, Henri Drayton, W. Seguin and E. Bowler in the principal roles. To the ladies must be awarded the honors of the evening. Emma Howson is an established favorite, and Mrs. Seguin seems to improve with each fresh appearance. Her rich contralto, with its magnificent notes, is bound to receive much higher honors one of these days than has yet been bestowed upon it. Mr. Drayton did well as Count Arnheim, but of course we could not forget Santley in the same part. He, too, has the necessary vocal qualities of Devilshoof, but for acting depends too much upon his battered hat and the way he handles it. The chorus was as large as the size of the house demands; orchestra satisfactory; costumes good—altogether an excellent troupe, and one that should meet with encouragement.

The Washington papers mention that, previous to the close of Miss Kate Santley's very successful engagement in that city, the lady was presented to Iwakura, the Ambassador from Japan, at that dignitary's pressing request, through an interpreter, expressed his admiration for Miss Santley. He subsequently made her several costly presents.

The New York Mercury says:

The cow Beauty, which gives milk from an udder upon her back, and the bull Hercules, which also gives milk, are showing in Chicago, to good business.

We should have thought the Chicago people would since the fire hate the sight of a cow, and now no house of their quiet can enter the stage.

A sensational, equestrian drama, from the pen of J. H. Warwick, entitled "California; or, the Heathen Chinee," was produced for the first time on any stage at the Bowery Theatre, on Monday evening, May 27th. O. B. Collins, his trained horse "San Juan," and Charles Warwick having been especially engaged to act therein. It is in three acts, and gives some glimpses of the rough life led by the early settlers in the mountain ranches. The plot is slight, hinging upon an incident of matrimonial dereliction. A wife has been lured from the path of rectitude by a gambler, who afterwards maltreats her and she becomes an outcast, known as Wild Meg, and is believed to be insane, by the settlers. Her husband, Long Tom Russell, some time after the above incidents have occured, likewise emigrates to California and by chance settles near her abode. The betrayer of the wife, Bill Nye, seeks Long Tom's life, and after several fruitless attempts finally accomplishes his design, and in the moment of his victory is killed by Wild Meg, who reveals herself to Long Tom as his last wife, and ere his fast ebbing life has winged its flight, receives his forgiveness. Only the early and latter scenes of the drama are employed to develop this plot, the balance being made up of gambling scenes, entertainments by Chinese musicians and Ethiopian minstrels, etc. It is not particularly effective in construction, nor did it meet with great favor from the audience. It is fairly acted as a whole, and drew a fair attendance, the lower portion of the house being better filled than the upper tiers.

Charles Storms, vocalist, has arrived in New York from the West Indies.

John F Poole severed his connection with the Union Square Theatre on June the 1st.

George Clark and John Howson, who have been playing during the past season at the Varieties Theatre, New Orleans, La., are in New York.

Mrs. John Wood sailed for England, per steamship Russia, May 29th.

The Nathan Dramatic Troupe from Australia, have arrived in New York.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of precedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 86, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, splendid Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$23 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and trying to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit glor a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, becoming decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves so far into the fancy that they still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not exposing too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is based upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Last night "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was excellently well performed and pleased everyone present. Miss Maggie Moore was excellent as Topsy, a part in which she rivals Lotta herself. The present is the last week of the engagement of Miss Maggie Mitchell. To-night she will appear in the title role of "Jane Eyre," a play written for her by C. W. Taylerue and founded on Charlotte Brontes' novel of the same name.

The Alhambra.

There will be a new bill presented at this ever-popular theatre to-night. Add Ryman's burlesque of "Hamlet" has proved such a success that it will be repeated every evening during the present week. It will be preceeded by an excellent first part with a new finale and an interlude in which Sam Ricky and John Rice will appear in their original act of "The Malcahy Twins." Billy Sweatnam and Add Ryman in "Bruised and Cured;" Lew Simmons in original banjo solos, and Welch and Rice in their double Excelsior Jig.

California Theatre.

The rush to see "Divorce," one of the most popular and entertaining of modern plays, continues unabated. On Saturday there was the largest matinee attendance ever known since the theatre was opened, and an immense house in the evening. "Divorce" will run many nights longer.

Bella Union.

The Reynolds Brothers are great favorites at this place of amusement and give a series of capital performances. The ballet in which M'lle Marie Gaugain, Carrie Chapman, Fanny Garretson, Minnie Fillmore, Marie Zoel, Miss Josephine, Susie Robinson and Ida Fisk appear, is a very popular feature in the performance. Johnny Tuers, Harry Sinclair, and J. H. Larkin are immense in "Bad Dickey." Miss Jennie Johnson gains much applause for her comic songs, and the farce of "A Young Lady Wanted," is capitally played by Carrie Chapman, Harry Sinclair, and R. G. Marsh, winds up an entertainment which must suit all tastes. The bill for this week is a particularly full and entertaining one.

American Theatre.

A great ballet company of pretty girls, popular artists, such as Harry Howard, G. H. Foster and Harry Deyce in acts, pleasing vocalisms and graceful dances, make an evening spent at this house pass very pleasantly.

Le Favre's Varieties.

A splendid bill was presented on Saturday night and again last night to large audiences. Among its many attractive features, all of which are set forth on our first page, may be mentioned the comic act of the Curtis Brothers, the champion skaters of America; the beautiful poses plastiques by Aline Le Favre; the thrilling trapeze act by Johnny Manning, done blindfolded 30 feet above the stage; the new farce played by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, and the two new acts which Lew Rattler brought with him from the East entitled "The Other Fellow," and "Barnum's Elephant," were very amusing. Americus, the musical prodigy, was repeatedly encored, and gathered quite a harvest of silver half-dollars thrown to him on the stage. Kelly and Stewart were also encored in their new song and dance, and Jake Wallace in his new banjo solo. Same bill to-night.

French Zouaves' Picnic.

This company will hold their annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the Lafayette Guard. The programme embraces a grand exhibition drill, including the celebrated bayonet exercise, and an open air concert by the Societe Philharmonique, dancing, etc. In the evening the Gardens will be illuminated and a grand ball will be given in the spacious new pavilion. The Festival of the Zouaves will draw thousands to the Gardens.

Miss Edith O'Gorman.

Miss Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, will lecture to-morrow evening on "Life in a Convent." Tickets are for sale at Bancroft's and other stores specified on our first page.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

In consequence of the unpleasant state of the weather the attendance at these beautiful Gardens was not as large as usual. Herr Schlam, a remarkably clever professor of legerdemain, gave a performance in the Pavilion that pleased all present and drew much applause and laughter.

City Gardens.

The third annual picnic of the Butcher's Protective Brotherhood at the City Gardens yesterday was a success. The attendance was large and all enjoyed themselves heartily.

San Francisco Circus.

This brilliant troupe of equestrians and gymnasts closed a most successful season of five weeks on Saturday evening to as crowded a house as they had when they opened.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Advice to Housekeepers.

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

A Dolly Vardenized Man.

London is to have a tattooed man, whom a journal thus describes as covered with dark blue figures of animals and plants in the interspaces of which appear symbols in blue and in cinnabar red. On the forehead, one on either side, are two panthers, regardant, separated in the line by red text; and on the body appear no less than three hundred and eighty-eighty figures. All of these are of a blue color, representing apes, cats, tigers, cats, leopards, tigers, eagles, etc., etc. He was, he says, forced to this elaborate tattoo by the Chinese Government as a punishment for some political offence.

Matter of Fact Boy.

A lady was once reading to a little boy aged seven the story of the resurrection of Lazarus. Seeing a peculiar expression on his countenance when the condition of Lazarus' body was mentioned, she sought to divert his attention from the circumstances by asking what he supposed the disciples did when the grave was opened? "Don't know," says he, "I s'pose they held their noses."

The First Play.

Dr. Doran in his annals of the English Stage says that the first play regularly performed on this side of the Atlantis, was at Williamsburgh, Va., on the 5th of September, 1752; and was that of "The Merchant of Venice," in which Malone acted Shylock; Hallam, Launcelot Golbot, and Mrs. Hallam, Portia.

Good for Rheumatism.

An old lady followed up an Episcopal bishop as he travelled over his diocese, and was confirmed several times before she was detected. She wished the ordinance to be repeated because she had "understood it was good for rheumatism."

Nobody Responsible.

Somebody asked a Paris editor: "Where do you get your intelligence?" "From the papers." "Where do the papers get it?" "From other papers." "But who is the first author of it?" "Nobody."

That wicked Danbury News says: "A dying Bridgeport woman wanted to get buried in a Dolly Varden. A nice spectacle she would present on resurrection morning."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. I

Oak Poisoning.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

DO AS NEAR RIGHT AS YOU CAN.

The world stretches widely before you,
A field for your muscle and brain;
And though clouds may often float o'er you,
And often come tempests and rain,
Be fearless of storms which o'ertake you—
Push forward through all like a man—
Good fortune will never forsake you
If you do as near right as you can.

Remember, the WILL to do rightly,
If used, will the evil confound;
Live daily by conscience, that nightly
Your sleep may be peaceful and sound,
In contests of right never waver—
Let honesty shape every plan,
And life will of Paradise savor,
If you do as near right as you can.

Enthusiastic.

A Massachusetts citizen, who was recently elected a justice of the peace, took the first step in his career by providing himself with a law library, consisting of a copy of the revised statutes and a volume of Shakespears. He read both works diligently, but the Shakespearian book seemed to strike him most favorably. The other day he gave his opinion confidentially to a friend that he didn't suppose there were twenty men in Massachusetts who could have written such a volume.

Fair Warning.

There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmadg Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lancet or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchement, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printers ink upon a printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head, ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you readily erase mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ink, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the pen will spread and blot when written over again; and in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that writer will not injure, therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WHITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Lace, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITU

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco, DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that, after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospital in London, the LOCK, he has opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand, where he can always be found. DR. TOZER has for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of disease generally known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS. DR. TOZER is in every way responsible, binding himself to effect a permanent CURE, or making no charge. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice and medicine will be charged for medicine only. The MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at the office. Price $5 per box. Full directions on each box, sent by Express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertising Quacks who make it a practice to publish false affidavits and other false references, but refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed to cure.

Beecher Savage.

The Eastern papers extensively published the following, under the heading. "A Puff from Beecher";

During Miss Hight's engagement at Albany, N. Y., Henry Ward Beecher, who was among the audience, was so much pleased with Miss Jennie's acting that he waited upon her after the performance. The following morning appeared in the paper this article from him: "Those who had the good fortune to gain admittance to the theatre last evening enjoyed a pleasure we read of but seldom realize. That warm-hearted little lady, Miss Jennie, fairly carried her audience with her. Truly she is grand, and I can recommend her to the public of this country as the most finished artiste upon the stage. Those who know her love her. Farewell, Jennie; may your path through life be peaceful and happy, and when you are called to Him may your seat be beside those angels of which you are so truly one. Good-bye; God bless you!"

It elicited an angry snort from the reverend gentleman, making him so mad that he devoured all the good words he had said about theatres. He denied being responsible for a word of the above. Under these circumstances the publication of this forged criticism by Miss Jennie may be termed the Hight of impudence.

Long Branch Gossip.

We learn from our Eastern exchanges that Long Branch, the famous Atlantic seashore resort, is open for the season, and that indications are that the current will set stronger thitherward than ever this year. Cottages are renting from $500 to $3,000 for the season (when will they bring that price at Santa Cruz?) A library and reading room have been opened. All liquor saloons will be closed on Sundays, but a "Sea Side Chapel" will be opened for divine services. A bank is to be one of the new institutions this year—not a faro, but a currency bank. Edwin Booth's new cottage, a castellated red brick structure, is being finished. President Grant will summer at Long Branch again, but the four-in-hand turnouts of Potter Palmer, Helmbold and the late Col. Fisk, will be among the things missing. The new road along the beach to Seabright, five miles distance, will be sprinkled daily. Great will be Long Branch this year.

The Amelia Dean-Vincent Troupe.

This company when last heard of had got as far as Salt Lake City. They don't seem to be "winning golden opinions," but on the contrary, pretty rough notices. The following appeared in the Salt Lake Footlights of the 31st:

BILKS.—That party who appeared at Richards' Hall last week, and who were billed to appear at Liberal Hall last night, under the name of the Amelia Dean-Vincent Troupe, decamped yesterday morning, leaving more than one unfortunate creditor behind. Two or three weeks ago, before they came here, we published a notice from an exchange in reference to these persons, warning the public to look out for them.

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. he egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff. and is presided over by A. Bons, his worthy successor. U

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Hair Jewelry made to Order.

Very "Horsey" Talk.

We having said that the San Jose people did not patronize first-class companies when they visited that town, the Mercury thus takes us to task:

"First-class companies," forsooth! You send a lot of spavined, windgalled and splint legged melodeon stokers down here, who insult public taste with their obscenities and vulgarity, and then growl because they do not draw full houses. A good theatrical or minstrel troupe has never failed to do well in this city.

Now "spavined, windgalled and splint legged" might serve very well as a criticism on the stock of a one-horse circus—the Crystal Palace Circus, for instance, which the San Jose people patronized well — but such terms cannot be well applied to Proctor's Dramatic Company, the Emerson Minstrels, the Berger Family and many other deluded companies that have visited San Jose, given good performances, and not made expenses. Well, we won't quarrel about the matter. San Jose has an amateur drum corps of talented performers, and is going to have an amateur nigger minstrel show; many of the "best citizens" of San Jose intending to black their faces and cut up monkey shines for the amusement of the public in order that money may not be taken out of the town by travelling companies of professionals.

To Smokers.

Consumers of tobacco have for a long time remained under the impression that the hurtful principle in the plant is nicotine. It turns out that this is not the case. A German chemist has assured us lately that there are two elements in tobacco which tend to destroy life. The first of these, he tells us, is known to chemists by the signification C6H7N, and the second is C5H5N. None of us can be too glad that this important discovery has been made, because, if we are going to be killed by tobacco, it will be intensely satisfactory to know exactly to what we owe our decease. At any rate, almost any man would rather perish from C6H7N than from mere nicotine. But the better plan will be to avoid death altogether by refusing to buy any tobacco when you perceive anything in it that looks like C5H5N and the other. No man can be compelled to take half the alphabet and a portion of the multiplication table along with him when he purchases a cigar unless he wishes to do so.

A Heavy Blow at Sabbatarians.

The Sunday question has assumed a practical form in England, and certain religious circles greatly deprecate the fact that Queen Victoria started on her recent trip to Germany on Sunday. This feeling has been still further aroused by her subsequently giving a grand dinner party at Windsor Castle on the Sabbath, during which the boom of the cannon drowned the Sunday soun of bells. The religions papers are lend in their condemnation of these proceedings.

These be parlous times when the Defender of the Faith has people to dine with her on Sunday, and instead of obeying the canons of the church allows her engines of war to disturb the peace of the Sabbath and drown the music of the church bells. What is the Church of England coming to?

A Dutchman put the following sign on his premises: "Mebbe you don't petter had loaf around here ven you ton't get some peesness, ain't it?"

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory co vers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. G

Absurd.

The California State Dantal Association passed a series of resolutions, the construction of which in a literary point of view, is enough to set one's teeth on edge. One of them commences thus: "Resolved that we, as a body, discountenance the indiscriminate use of anæsthetics by dentists for the extraction of teeth." Just fancy a dentist using an anæsthetic for the extraction of teeth— pulling a tooth with an anæsthetic! The thing couldn't be done. Forceps should always be used.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 619 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray. The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

What H. Greeley

THINKS ABOUT THEM.—WHILST HE WAS sojourning in one of our Eastern cities he stopped at a first-class Hotel. In the morning he stated that he never slept so well before. When the landlord informed him that M. MURPHY made all his BEDDING MATTRESSES, "then," said Greeley, "never change your UPHOLSTERER." "Alas!" said the landlord, with a very heavy sigh, "he is now in SAN FRANCISCO, No. 7 POWELL, near Market street, where he MAKES and REPAIRS SPRING MATTRESSES, and the plan he has adopted for tying Springs will make them last for years." my20 1m

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incident to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest, as any rare, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above —so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$33 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$23 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a sale," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they were selling every day for twenty and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their natural jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, now smiles on with them, as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

Deceiving Children.

Is it any wonder that children grow up liars, when the example is set them daily as practiced on them by parents? A doctor who had been called on to visit a sick boy some 12 years old, was told by the mother as he entered the house that she could not get her boy to take any medicine unless she deceived him; to which the doctor replied that he would reason with him. Going to the boy he told him that he was very sick and must take some medicine, which would taste very badly for a short time and then it would make him feel better. He then prepared the medicine, and the boy took it like a man, without any resistance; and he would take from his mother anything that the physician prescribed, but would take nothing else from her. She had so often deceived him and told him that it was good, when she gave him medicine, that he would not trust to anything she said. Honesty with children, as well as in all circumstances is the best policy. A mother's feelings under such circumstances, must be anything but enviable, and this incident should teach them not to lie to the children.

A Large Theatre.

Barney Williams, the actor, employs some of his leisure time abroad in corresponding for American papers. He had a letter in the Sunday Times, dated at Naples, May 2d. Of course he looks at things from a theatrical point of view, and says: "Naples is, to me, more beautiful and cheerful in darkness than London is in sunshine. The San Carlo Theatre is the largest with one exception in Europe. I do not know its exact size, but as far as my judgment serves, I think you could put Wallack's Theatre on the stage for a set scene. It has six tiers of boxes, a pit and parquette, and an orchestra of one hundred musicians.

A Good Fighter.

An old fellow who took part in the late rebellion was one day blowing in the village tavern, to a crowd of admiring listeners, and boasting of his many exploits, when he was interrupted by this question:

"I say, Joe, how many rebels did you kill during the war?"

"How many rebels did I kill, sir; I don't know 'zactly how many; but I do know this much, I killed as many of them as they did o 'me.

Changes.

A young lady, in a class studying physiology, made answer to a question put, that in six years a human body became entirely changed, so that not a particle which was in it at the commencement of the period would remain at the close of it.

"Then," said the young tutor, "in six years you will cease to be Miss L.?"

"Why, yes, sir, I suppose so," said she, very modestly looking at the floor.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Beecher on Grammar.

Mrs. Stowe gives a characteristic account of a grammatical exercise at which her brother, Henry Ward Beecher, assisted in his youth. Young Beecher was about eleven years old, and as full of fun and mischief as at present. The teacher was drilling him in the rudiments:

"Now, Henry," said she, "A is the indefinite article, you see, and must be used only with the singular number. You can say "a man,' but you can't say 'a men," can you?"

"Yes, I can say 'amen,' too," was the rejoinder. "Father always says it at the end of his prayers."

"Come, Henry, don't be joking. Decline 'he.'"

"Nominative he, possessive his, objective him."

"You see 'his' is possessive. Now, you can say 'his book,' but you cannot say 'him book."

"Yes, I do say 'hymn book,' too," said the impracticable pupil, with a quizzical look.

Each of these sallies made his young teacher laugh, which was the victory he wanted.

But now, Henry, seriously, just attend to the active and passive voice. Now, 'I strike' is active, you see, because if you strike you do something. But 'I am struck' is passive, because if you are struck, you don't do anything, do you?"

"Yes I do; I strike back again."

After about six months Henry was returned on his parents' hands, with the reputation of being an inveterate joker and an indifferent scholar.

Sublime.

A distinguished, but erratic general of the Confederate Army, was in the habit of giving the following toast: "A legend of the river Pecos, which rises from its silvery bed in the territory of Arizona, and flows south into the Colorado. Its rippling waves lave banks enameled by the most beautiful flowers. When the sun has ceased to scorch this wicked world, and disappeared below the western horizon, twilight appears, and a most beautiful woman is seen flitting to and fro over its bosom, with dishevelled locks, and arms folded across her upheaving breast, exclaiming in all the agony of her soul, its a d—d long time between drinks!"

Summer Resorts.

Newport is the most aristocratic of our summer resorts; Long Branch the most democratic and promiscuous; Saratoga the most cosmopolitan and fashionable; Richfield and Sharon quiet and select; Lake George select and substantial; Narragansett genteel, fashionable and a trifle shoddy; New London exclusive, and Cape May most dangerous, socially.

Very Frenchy.

Paris innocents gamble on destiny with a four-sided top marked "Legitimacy," "Orleansism," "Bonapartism" and "Republic." The game is to spin it and bet on the name that may turn up.

A queer individual at Keokuk, Iowa, called on an undertaker, and, and got measured for a coffin. He said he wanted no measuring tapes about his remains.

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed." a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. C

A Nice Present.

Pennsylvania young man had a young lady friend, who was the fortunate possessor of half dezen gold fish. He was angling one day and caught a pound trout. He preserved it alive, thinking it would be a nice companion for a gold fish, and concluded to surprise the young lady by putting it in the aquarium while she was away. The surprise was complete; for the trout swallowed all the goldfish, and then calmly turned over on its dorsal fin and died of indigestion.

An Old Policeman.

Boston has a policeman ninety years old, who has been in the department nearly forty-four years.

He ought to be worth at least five million dollars if Boston policemen make money at the same rate our San Francisco guardians of the peace do.

A new sensation is to be afforded in London by the appearance of "Davoe Carson Sahib Ka Plucka Tumasho," who is to give portraitures of the humorous aspects of the Hindoo character.

Gay Chicago.

The great Chicago fire did not burn any of the vanity out of the women. A few months ago the whole city was reaching out its arms for help, and yet the Spring opening of dry goods were the most magnificent ever seen in that section, and the most extravagant purchases are reported as being made by women whose husbands and fathers were not long ago considered almost ruined.

Barnum's Last.

It now turns out that the fearful story of the cannibals attached to Barnum's show attempting to eat the corpse of one of their number while at York, Pa., was an entire fabrication. The story was prepared for Barnum and published and paid for at so much a line in the York Daily. The story is contradicted in the Telegraph.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray, The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Divorce," which will compare favorably with any of the modern comedies is drawing large houses. It will probably be withdrawn after this week, as "Julius Cæsar" must be produced before the termination of Mr. Barrett's engagement.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The production of a dramatization of Charlotte Brontes' "Jane Eyre"—one of the most remarkable novels in the English language—drew a fashionable audience last night. Miss Maggie Mitchell has formed her own conception of the character of Jane Eyre and carries it out with abundant vigor. The play is divided into four acts, which are entitled Anger, Hope, Happiness, Fear and Love. In the delineation of these passions Miss Maggie Mitchell is remarkably successful and her efforts won much applause. W. J. Coggswell, who played Lord Rochester, presented a careful and consistent carrying out of his conception of the character and made his points with telling effect. Miss Osborne played the character of Mrs. Reed in her usual forcible style, and Miss Fanny Young was very good as Georgiana. John Woodard caused considerable amusement in the character of the canting Blackhorst, and Miss Maggie Moore played he part of Hannah capitally, making the most of every point it afforded her, and keeping the audience in high good humor all the time she was on the stage. Harry Colton, T. E. Jackson, Mrs. Frank Rea, Miss Susie Foster and others were good in their respective parts. So many who have read the novel, will wish to see the play with such an exponent of the passions as Miss Maggie Mitchell in the title role, that "Jane Eyre" should draw crowded houses for many nights to come.

The Alhambra.

There are thousands who never sit out a five-act drama, and who, when they desire amusement, seek something light and entertaining. This our hard-working business men, lawyers, brokers and others find at the Alhambra Theatre. The new bill is a very attractive one. Sam Rickey and John Rice are immensely funny in "The Mulcahy Twins;" Billy Sweatnam sends the audience into fits of laughter in the amusing sketch of "Bruised and Cured," in which he is ably supported by Add Hayman; Lew Simmons gains much applause for his banjo solos; the excelsior jig of J. Welch and J. Rice is a great success, and the capital extravaganza of "The Big Ingin" concludes the entertainment.

Bella Union.

The artistes engaged at this theatre are admirable in their various specialties, M'lle Marie Gangain, as all are aware, is a danseuse who ranks high in her profession; the Reynolds Brothers are equalled by few in eccentric double song and dance business; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong are capital in Dutch acts; Miss Jennie Johnson is an excellent serio-comic vocalist, and Marie Zoel, J. Tucca, Harry Sinclair, Miss Josephine, Minnie Fillmore, Mat Kelly and many others, whose names appear as taking part in the excellent programme on our first page, are stars in the profession. On Thursday, Arthur Gregory (of the famous Gregory Family), and George Talbot, gymnasts and acrobats who have just arrived from Mexico, will make their first appearance at this house.

Le Favre's Varieties.

A very strong combination of talent appears nightly at this house, M'lle Garretta is a favorite in her globe act; Johnny Manning is great on the trapeze; Alice Le Favre is graceful in her poses plastiques; the Curtis Brothers are very amusing in their comic skating act: Mrs. Charles Coriell, Mr. Coriell, and Charley Nickerson, present a neat little farce; the Child Americus astonishes and delights the audience by his performance on the violin; Jake Wallace is popular in banjo solos; Lydia Livingstone performs a hornpipe in good style, and Lew Rattler's new acts, "The Other Fellow," and "Barnum's Elephant," are received with roars of laughter.

American Theatre.

There is great variety in the programme presented at this house and the fun kept up till 13 o'clock at night. Amusing acts, pretty dances, sweet ballads, and lively chorus, make up an entertainment which pleases all who visit this house.

Miss Edith O'Gorman.

Miss Edith O'Gorman the escaped nun, who has created so great an excitement in many cities in the East by exposing the secrets of Romish ecclesiastical establishments, will lecture to-night on "Life in a Convent." Miss O'Gorman is said to be a fine speaker, and thoroughly in earnest in her work. There need be no fear of a disturbance, as a large police force will be in attendance to keep order.

Advice to Housekeepers.

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightened the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

USE BRODIE'S WONDERFUL RHEUMATIC LINIMENT.

"Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim."

The Sacramento Bee doesn't like Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim, who filters the songs of Zion through his nose. An announcement that he is about to return to California calls forth the following angry buzz from the busy Bee:

"Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim," has been ringing in our ears for a year past. Every paper we picked up last Summer had something to say about "Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim." All the Sunday-school children were talking about the expected coming of Philip Phillips, and every time his name was mentioned or printed in a newspaper the "Singing Pilgrim" followed it. We had begun to hope that Philip Phillips (the Singing Pilgrim) had gone to Kamschatka, or Greenland, or some place where there is no newspaper; but here he is again coming to California! For mercy's sake call him something else—call him Phillip, the wandering minstrel—call him anything else, but give us a rest on "Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim."

No Accounting for Tastes.

The Petaluma Journal and Argus has the following paragraph:

COL. PANDER.—This energetic news agent is entitled to the handle of "Colonel," but he prefers to be called "plain" Pander. "Plain" Pander has our thanks for the American Farmer's Advocate, just what we wanted, and other periodicals.

Plain "Pander" isn't such a pretty name that it doesn't require any handle, and Colonel is a good Pan-der handle enough.

Thoughtful Woman.

A French wife called on an apothecary in Paris for some medicine for her husband, who was ill. The prescription was put up and handed to the lady with a smile. "It will be three francs." "Three francs!" she exclaimed. "If it costs so much as that perhaps you had better keep it, for he may be dead when I return."

Compositors' Tricks.

The intelligent compositor has broken out at Natick, where, aided by the vigilant proof-reader, he entered into a conspiracy against a dead clergyman, and 'remarked: "Fraud after fraud departs!" The same youth described a May-Day ceremony as "Drowning of the May Queen."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

OH, WHISPER THAT YOU LOVE ME, DARLING.

BY GEORGE COOPER.

Oh, whisper that you love me, darling,
I long to hear your sweet reply;
This world is dark, and cold, and dreary,
But sunlight beams when you are by.
I'd fold your hands in mine so fondly,
And lay my head upon your breast;
My heart is like some weary birdling
That longs to find its downy nest.

Oh, whisper that you love me, darling,
And I will whisper back to you;
I'll gaze in eyes so fond and gentle,
I'll know their story will be true;
I care not for the day of sadness,
If we may linger side by side;
Tho' life may joy or sorrow bring us,
You still shall be my hope and pride.

Oh, whisper that you love me, darling,
And kiss me sweetly when you tell;
My throbbing heart would softly murmur
How it has loved you long and well.
Your dear and blissful little secret,
Your beaming eyes would have me guess.
Oh, whisper that you love me, darling,
Oh, whisper, fondly whisper, "Yes."

Too Little Recreation.

Within the last twenty years there has been a great increase in the number of deaths from heart disease in the same population. This increase is almost exclusively among men. This is believed to be the result, in a great degree, of the mental strain and hurried excitement of the times, to business competition, and the sleeplessness attendant on over-exhausting labor. Incessant labor cannot be endured by any one continuously. Business men require some definite recreation, and they may well be alarmed when care and thought intrude into the hours of night and prevent healthful sleep.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of sex and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmates.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, content in the strength of their "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the field without machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have replaced the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of them, in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 321 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was stocked and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$36 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$26 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking their machine down in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not so improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies: there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their admiration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and fears, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Pablo Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has preceded it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune, April 13.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Jane Eyre" was presented again last night before a very fashionable audience. The applause was frequent and all present appeared to thoroughly enjoy the vivid acting of Miss Maggie Mitchell. But a few nights remain of the engagement of this famous actress. "Jane Eyre" will be repeated to-night, and to-morrow night the very pretty play of "Little Barefoot," a companion piece to "Fanchon," will be presented.

California Theatre.

"Divorce" is running to crowded houses. It is a good piece excellently well-played. It must be withdrawn after this week to make way for "Julius Cæsar." It will be kept on the stage only four nights longer. Everyone should see "Divorce."

The Alhambra.

"The Original Mulcahy Twins," by Sam Rickey and John Rice, is one of the most laughable acts ever seen on any stage; J. Rice and J. Welch have caused a veritable sensation in their Excelsior Jig; Lew Simmons is great in banjo solos; Billy Sweetman and Add Ryman cause great fun in "Bruised and Cured," and the laughable afterpiece entitled "The Big Injun" closes the entertainment. J. G. Russell takes a benefit on Friday.

Bella Union.

The new ballet under the direction of the charming and vivacious M'lle Marie Gangain, and carried out by Carrie Chapman, Fanny Garretson, Minnie Fillmore, Marie Zoel, Susie Robinson, Miss Ida Fisk, and Miss Josephine, is a most enjoyable feature in the splendid entertainment given at this house. Johnny Thers, J. H. Larkin, and Harry Sinclair cause immense fun in "Bad Dickey;" the Reynolds Brothers are great in song and dance, and also in their great act of "Jem Aces' Cousin," and the extravagant act entitled "A Young Lady Wanted," which winds up the performance, puts the audience in high good humor. To-morrow night Frank Gregory and John Talbot will make their appearance.

American Theatre.

Forrestelle did her great feat of untying herself in the presence of the audience after being literally tied up in a rope, by two volunteers from the audience, last night to rounds of applause. This was one of the Davenport great cabinet feats, and Forrestelle will show how it is done every night. In addition to the usual interlude entertainment to-night "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be produced; "Classical Tableaux" will be revived and several Ethiopian acts will be performed, altogether presenting a programme of unusual excellence.

Le Favre's Varieties.

"Novelty" is to be the motto of this place of amusement. The latest engagements are those of the comical Curtis Brothers, who do most amusing things on skates, and M'lle Gerretta, who is much applauded nightly for her graceful globe act. Aline Le Favre is the star of the evening in her beautiful poses plastiques; Kelly and Stewart do a remarkably clever double song and dance; Jake Wallace plays banjo solos; Charles Coriell is a host in himself, appearing in first part, interlude and afterpiece, and the performance of the Child Americus is a most pleasing feature in the evening's entertainment.

Miss Edith O'Gorman's Lecture.

Platt's Hall was thronged last night, every seat being occupied, and standing room hard to obtain. Miss Edith O'Gorman made a most decided success. She is bright, witty and sarcastic, is thoroughly in earnest, and speaks with much feeling. From the commencement of her lecture until its close she carried her audience with her, and though there may have been many in the hall who disapproved of the sentiments expressed by Miss O'Gorman, they were in such a decided minority that they uttered no protest, and loud and long applause followed many of the hard hits dealt at the monastic system by the fair orator. She gave a detailed account of life in a convent and its irksome restraints. She will deliver another lecture to-morrow night, and relate how she became a Protestant and escaped from the convent.

Art Association Reception.

The reception of the Art Association took place last night at their new rooms, 313 Pine street. There was a brilliant gathering of fashion, and all who attended were delighted with the pictures, some 400 in number. The great pictures were Mount Hood, by Bierstadt; The Golden Gate, by Hill, and a beautiful cattle piece by Kidd. Irwin has a beautiful portait; Wilson two pleasing landscapes; Keith, three landscapes; Loomis has two or three nice little bits of nature; Brooks, some good still life, and Denny, four of his best sea pictures. Miss Dingeon, Miss Helen Marble, and others contributed to the pleasure of the evening by singing. To hear Miss Helen Dingeon sing "Robert Adair" is a rich treat. Altogether the reception of the Art Association was a brilliant success, and their exhibition does credit to San Francisco.

Advice to Housekeepers,

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

Nervous People.

People who have no nerves must be happy. People like Mr. Gilmore, for instance, who get up anvil and cannon choruses, and think them pleasant; and truckmen who unload bars of iron, and survive the jarring discord. And there are the rope dancers and mountain climbers, and snake charmers and the people who read bad manuscript in newspaper offices. There are, however, people, with nerves, and they have rights which others ought to respect; but the public does not seem to think so. The people who live in the house with nervous people do not recognize their sufferings, or their right to forbearance. We have known men who were habitual philanthropists, who would always stop to guide a blind beggar, who took a profound interest in the construction of almshouses, and who habitually trod with rough boot heels across the sensitive nerves of wives and children. They were not inhuman, nor did they mean to be cruel; they were kind-hearted people, only they could not understand the more refined sort of suffering and thus occasioned as much agony as though they had been deliberately brutal. They laughed at all nervous suffering as imaginary. But there is no agony in the world more real. Carelessly upset a chair or drop a piece of China suddenly in the presence of a person so afflicted, and the start, the shudder, the contortion of the face, will be evidence of the ecstasy of pain which one endures. And yet many persons, otherwise kind, disregards all these, and says: "You should'nt be so nervous; I control myself." You control yourself because you have been blessed with a more equable physical temper, and self-control is, for you, comparatively easy. You control your nervousness, but could you control an irritability twenty times more intense? Children afflicted with an irritable nervous system get the least pity and are treated the worst. Grown people think they have a right to monoplize all the nervousness in the world; and so, while forgiving their own sins on the score of nervousness, they set down those of a child, who has inherited their own nervous temperament, to total depravity.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Considerate.

In the Chronicle's report of the proceedings at the Stock Exchange on Tuesday the following occurred:

In the morning Board it was suggested that there should be an adjournment to attend the funeral of the late R. B. Swain, but it was argued that although Mr. Swain was a leading citizen and merchant, he had not been identified with stocks, and it might do his family more harm than good.

This was kindly considerate. Stock brokers wouldn't look well at a funeral, anyhow. They would look like a lot of sleek wolves on their best behavior, wild cats trying to look domesticated, cannibals at a christening, divorce lawyers at a wedding breakfast. They were right to stay away.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray. The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are officially worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the war into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must, in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter could be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machine, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adopted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 351 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded, indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest manufactured by several manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 86, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $16 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 85, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for the Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking their rival's machine in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies, these machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their admiration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and the public favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, grabbed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that the courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 13.

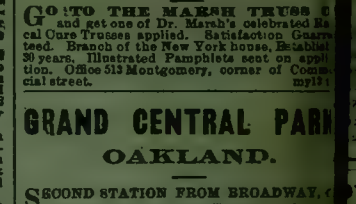
DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE



N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT READICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco. DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospital in London, the LOCK, he has opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand, where he can always be found. DR. TOZER, for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of disease generally known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS. DR. TOZER is in every way responsible, binding himself effect a permanent CURE, or making no charge. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice and medicine will be charged for medicine only. The MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at the office. Price $5 per box. Full direction on each box, sent by Express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertising Quacks who make it a practice to publish false affidavits and other false references. But refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed to cure.

Officious Advice.

The San Jose Press says:

The San Francisco Chronicle without doubt is the spiciest and liviest paper on the coast, and having a large circulation of, course its prosperity is assured. We recently paid their office, in San Francisco, a visit, and must say no finer arrangement could have been made unless it was under the management of Mr. M. DeYoung, who, with Charley, his brother complete the force that has so ably and successfuly conducted the Chronicle from its earliest infancy.

Gus, Charley and Mike are all hard workers, and each one of them has contributed his share towards the success of the Chronicle. We think it rather officious of the Press to suggest that Mike, the youngest should take the management of the Chronicle office out of Charley's hands. We don't imagine that the expression "Mr. M. DeYoung who with Charley his brother" was very palatable to Charles DeYoung, head of the firm. Mike mustn't get too big a head on him; he is very well in his place, but certainly Charley deserves most of the credit of "managing" the Chronicle.

San Francisco News in the Eastern Papers.

Among the items of San Francisco news going the rounds of the Eastern press, we find the following:

The San Francisco Figaro has furnished its office with an organ.

We never said we had an organ. FIGARO is an organ—the organ of amusements on the Pacific Coast. We said we thought we should buy an organ to complete the furniture of our office, but we havn't got it yet. We don't want all the organ builders in the United States to take this as a hint, and send each of them an organ as a present. We don't accept presents—we're not like Grant.

Americanized Japanese.

The five ladies with the Japanese embassy, at the suggestion of their American hostess, recently consented to be laced up and tied down, ruffled, paniered, flounced, bowed and trained in the "style." Then they were powdered up from an orange peel hue to a delicate lemon, and pronounced perfect as far as dress goes. Half an hour later their dismayed civilizers found them smiling and happy in their half-petticoat, half-pantaloon dress. "Too muchee," said the gentle Japanese.

Love Not Blind.

"Thomas," said a father to his son, "don't I tell that girl make a fool of you. Look sharp. Remember the old adage, that "Love is blind." "Oh, that adage won't wash," said Tom; "talk about love being blind? why, I see ten times as much in that girl as you do!"

Vesuvius in Eruption—How the Lava Flows.

The following gives a very graphic description of the last great eruption of Vesuvius:

As we advanced the roaring of the mountain began to be heard above the noise of the crowd of carriages, and now the stream of fugitives from all the villages round the mountain meet us. The panic was indescribable, the horrid bellowing having demoralized the population more than anything else; for never in the memory of living man, had it ever been heard before, and who could say what it might portend?

Just at the foot of the mountain, separated once by a valley, stood the villages of Massa and Santo Sebastino; in 1855 a lava stream flowed between them, and left a mountain where once the valley was. I now found the lava coming down the same track and already in an incredible short space of time it had reached within gunshot of the villages, menacing both. There it was, the fiery stream oozing along like molten metal laden with scoriæ, that fell over and over as it rolled more than house-high along, with deadly, irresistible might. It reached a tree, the tree burst into flames: it touched a house, a heap of smoking ruins was all that remained, to disappear into the great black heaving smoking sea of destruction. A deep quarry lay in its way; it slowly approached the edge, the people paused in awe, and a great shout went up as the first fiery wave heaved over and plunged below; a cataract of molten fire and great glowing rocks poured in for a few moments, and the quarry was filled, and the mighty mass rolled undiminished on.

Meanwhile, in both villages all was confusion; all the carts that could be got stood in the streets, and all the wretched peasants' household goods were hurriedly piled on them, and as hurriedly driven away, for soon the lava will have cut the road. Some had already fled and their houses were shut; others were wildly flinging everything into the street, to be ready with their turn at the carts; others, having made bundles of their best, were carrying them off on their heads—fathers, mothers and little ones fleeing together; and over the shouting of the men and the weeping of the women, and the calling to each other, and the voices of the drivers as they urged on their horses, came ever and incessantly the thundering roar of the mountain. And now the road is cut, and the carts have to take by-paths, soon also to be intercepted; and then the police push back the crowd, and the lava is at the houses, and first one falls, and then another. But what is that shout and rush? The lava has reached a house where on the terrace appears a woman screaming for help. She wanted to rescue yet another bundle, and her retreat is cut off; the lava is rising against the walls, and soon all will be a ruin, and she wrings her hands wildly, and a shout is raised, "A ladder, a ladder!" and the crowd fall back, and the police hurry on, a few brave fellows carrying one between them; it is placed against the tottering house, a brave man (he is a common soldier) rushes up and brings down the almost senseless woman; not a moment too soon, for with a rumble the house falls, and the lava occupies its place. But see! it advances no further: it has turned, it passes on down to the plain, to new destruction, but the rest of the village is saved. This lava stream ran between four and five miles in the twenty-four hours, or about one hundred yards an hour.

The mountain was, at this time, a sublime and wonderful spectacle; half shrouded in the smoke that rose from all its sides, it seemed of more than usual height; a great stream of glowing lava descended on the left, and plunging down a precipice in waves of liquid fire, could be traced far out into the plain, its dull red glare lightened at intervals by the more yellow flame of burning houses: a similar stream on the right traced the curves of the mountain in than direction, while at the base the great stream that menaced Santo Jorio and all the plain below could be traced in its majestic breadth; other minor streams of fire furrowed the mountain in different directions; while above the majestic pile of vapor was divided by the ever renewed column of flame and incandescent stones, which, after shooting to unknown heights, might be seen falling in showers of brilliant sparks and rolling down the mountain side.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

BLACK EYES AND BLUE.

Black eyes most dazzle at a ball,
Blue eyes most please at evening fall.
Black a conquest soonest gain;
The blue a conquest most retain;
The black bespeaks a lively heart,
Whose soft emotions soon depart;
The blue a steadier flame betray,
That burns and lives beyond a day;
The black may features best disclose;
In blue may feelings all repose,
Then let each reign without control,
The black all mind—the blue all soul.

Fie, for Shame!

Oh! Reverend Horatio, ponder and reflect.

Honor or shame from no condition rise,
Act well your part; there all the honor lies.

Bethink thee that thou art living in a republican country, where one man is as good as another. Look not with scorn on the poor but honest ticket-seller, but let him be a son unto thee in thine old age. Why not let him accomplish his heart's desire and make his marriage a Stebbinstone to fortune. Be a Unitarian and forgive.

The Cold Water Cure.

Pouring cold water on the face and head destroys the effect of narcotic poison. A girl poisoned with laudanum in England, was saved in this way, after all other remedies had failed. It is good for "drunk" also.

The wicked fleas, which no man pursues, will soon be in season, and the humble song of the mosquito will soon again be heard throughout the land.

No Fancy Prices.

It is not necessary in these days to give fancy prices for the best brands of cigars. At the Custom House Cigar Store, 518 Battery street, the following brands can be obtained at the subjoined low prices: Espanola, $4 50 per box; Estrella Figa, $3 50 per box; El Rodo, $2 50 per box. These cigars are made of Havana tobacco, and are warranted equal to those imported. The store is directly opposite the Custom House. S

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. O

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The drama of "Jane Eyre," which has drawn large and fashionable audiences, will retain possession of the stage all the week and will be played for Saturday's matinee. Miss Maggie Mitchell will take her farewell benefit to-morrow night, when a very large attendance may be expected.

California Theatre.

"Divorce" is drawing like a house on fire. Those who have not yet seen it should go to the California Theatre before it is wishdrawn to make room for "Julius Cæsar." It would be wise to secure seats in advance as the theatre has been crowded every night this week, and will doubtless remain so until "Divorce" is taken off on Saturday, by force of limitation, as a week must be devoted out of Mr. Barrett's engagement to the great production of "Julius Cæsar."

The Alhambra.

Those who like beautiful vocal music enjoy a great treat in listening to the first part performance. This is followed by a most amusing melange of songs, dances and sketches, and the screaming burlesque entitled "Big Injun; or, the Last of the Mohicans," terminates the evening's amusement.

Bella Union.

To-night the great gymnasts, Arthur Gregory and Geo. Talbot will make their first appearance; the Reynolds Brothers will appear in some of their best specialties: Mlle Marie Gaugain in a pretty ballet; Johnny Toers, J. H. Larkin, Mat Kelly, H. Sinclair, and others will take part in the performance of an excellently arranged programme.

American Theatre.

Novelties are constantly introduced in the programme at this place of amusement. The latest are the rope tying feat of M'lle Forrestalle, in which she does what the Davenport Brothers did in a closet in full view of the audience, and the production of the drama of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Le Favre's Varieties.

The ever-popular Aline Le Favre; the graceful M'lle Gerretta; the comical Curtis Brothers, Johnny Manning, the Prince of gymnasts; Lew Rattler, the most original of Ethiopian comedians; the Child Americus, the musical marvel of the nineteenth century, and about a score more of the most popular artistes in the variety profession will appear to-night in a splendid programme which is set forth on our first page.

Miss Edith O'Gorman's Lecture.

To-night the naive and piquante Miss Edith O'Gorman, whose first lecture was such a decided success, will deliver a second lecture at Platt's Hall entitled "The Romish Priesthood: their Power over the People." In the course of this lecture she will relate how she escaped from the convent and was converted to Protestantism. Those who wish to attend this lecture will do well to reserve seats, as at the first it was hard to obtain Circus Actors.

Circus actors frequently live to an old age providing they are temperate and take care of themselves. A London paper says the "artists" of the circus find their profession remarkably healthy, and they are a long-lived race. Joe Wallet, the famous clown in London, is considerably over seventy, and is as lively and active as he was forty years ago. Old Orde, whose out-door ring is still visible on many a village green, and who was the instructor of Batty, lived to considerably over ninety, and a short time before his death he was jumping over a tobacco pipe and an open razor on his bare-backed steed. Batty was a "Courier of St. Petersburg" till he was past sixty. Franks, who is now tumbling somersaults and posturing at Hengler's, is considerably over sixty years old, and fresh as a daisy.

Ungrammatical.

The following is told as having recently occurred in this city: A lady from the country entered one of our grocery stores and asked the clerk if he wanted to purchase some chickens—a couple of them—at the same time throwing a couple of live ones on the counter. The clerk replied that he did, and as the tied pair showed considerable anxiety to be freed from their unpleasant fix, he asked her if they would lay there—meaning would they lie a few moments on the counter until he could attend to them. "Lay there?" indignantly asked the old lady; "of course not. Them's roosters—they won't lay nowhere!"

Something to Remember Rome by.

A chapter of "Notes on Rome" in an old English magazine opens with the following anecdote: "Did you visit Rome in your travels?" asked a gentleman, in the interval of a waltz, of his partner, who had just returned from doing the Continent of Europe. "Rome? Rome?" replied the young lady, in a hesitating voice; "let me see. Did we go to Rome? Oh, yes! That is where we saw a woman shaving a dog on the steps of a church."

Too Bad.

The following appears among other "sanitary notes:" "Never go to bed with cold or damp feet." Muffington on reading it said: "I guess I'll have to go to bed with cold feet until they are allowed as a cause for divorce; Mrs. Muffington's feet are always cold and she warms them on me."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. 1

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage Stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. A German Play.

The German mind is dramatic, and the writers at once behold the picturesque points in every historic incident. Already they have dramatized the Chicago fire. The play according to the following description must be cheering to behold. The drama is nightly performed before large audiences at a theatre in Berlin. After several acts, the fire is ended by the Prussian consul rushing upon the stage, mounting the engine, and waving the red, white and black flag of Deutchland. This is supposed to revive the exhausted energies of those who are fighting against the flames, and, striking up "Wacht am Rhein," they again attack the blaze, and are victorious. Appreciative Germans implicitly believe that that the Chicago fire was extinguished in precisely the manner indicated.

The Curse of Brooklyn.

The New York Dispatch says:

The lady of Henry street, Brooklyn, who forgets her night-key every time she goes out, has a very melodious voice; but the neighbors don't care to hear it elevated to its highest pitch at one o'clock in the morning when she calls to her husband: "Hener-eeee! throw the latch-key out of the window, so that I can let myself in." Notwithstanding that the neighborhood is a pious one it is not unusual to hear such remarks as: "There's that d—d woman again shrieking for her night-key. I wish Heneree would throw a bootjack at her d—d head!"

"Heloise and Abelard" are to be resurrected in opera.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray, The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the cosiest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having unbearably all the advantages of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The look-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, would not be too generous to claim the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could get all the benefits of the look-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their machine was quite native to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest look-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the look-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 331 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 60, 4 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $15 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 68, 9 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit glor.a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly union. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousy and dislike in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding wars when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 15.

What to Wear.

Perpendicular stripes in dresses give height and increased fullness, and are therefore particularly suited to very slight, small people, and particularly unfitted for stout figures. To fair persons, blue is becoming, but not very blue; dark blue, or too brilliant a blue is unbecoming to that kind of a complexion, and makes the skin yellow and the hair sandy. It is the old, pale, dull pale blue that really makes sand gold. Pink especially the old-fashioned yellow pink, is, when it is not too brilliant, becoming to all complexions except that which goes with red hair. Light green may be safely worn by the very dark, the very rosy, and by the very pale when the skin is very clear, but to ordinary faces it is a trying color. Green, mixed with pale blue, is very becoming indeed. Gray is the most beautiful color, for old and young; I mean the soft, silver gray which is formed by equal parts of black and white, with no touch of mauve in it. It admits of any color in trimming, and throws up the bloom of the skin. Rose color, for some people, is pretty, and not unbecoming. White, so disastrous to rooms, is generally becoming in dress, only very coarse complexions are spoilt by it. Short women should never wear double skirts or tunics, they decrease the height so much; unless, indeed, the tunic is very short and the skirt very long. So, also, do large sprawling patterns used for trimming. Let these be left to women tall enough to carry them off. Neither let a very little woman wear her hair half down her back; let her lift it clear up as high as possible.—St. Paul's Magazine.

Saving a Wife.

Out in Michigan, a few days ago, a man and his wife, and two men not blessed or burdened with wives, went out in a leaky boat, which sank in the river. The husband and one unmarried man struck out vigorously for the shore, while the other stopped and saved the woman's life at the risk of his own. Probably the married man knew what he was about, but we pity him since his wife was rescued. His sleep will not always be like his who "wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams." There isn't the slightest doubt but that he will feel eternally grateful to the man who preserved his wife's life.

Doesn't Mind It.

LITERARY NOTES.

Ambrose Bierce, formerly "Town Crier" of the News-Letter, is engaged as London correspondent of the New York Herald at a salary of $8,000 a year. Mr. Bierce was for a long time engaged on FIGARO.

James Watkins, formerly of the Times of this city, and for some time on FIGARO, has returned to this city.

The present writer of the "Town Crier" of the News-Letter receives the magnificent weekly salary of $5. Bierce used to get $50.

J. F. Bowman is writing novels for Eastern weekly papers, is a contributor to the Overland Monthly, and writes miscellaneous matter for the Call.

Charles De Young, of the Chronicle, has gone East to make arrangements for telegraphic dispatches.

W. A. Kendall, the poet, is at Pescadero, in very bad health.

Joaquin Miller, because the boys laugh at his long hair, now does it up with hair-pins.

Prentice Mulford is writing letters from England to the Bulletin.

The dramatic "critic" of the Bulletin cannot be over seventeen years of age, judging from his writings.

Charley Stoddard is still at Honolulu, luxuriating "under a banana tree," and writing prose sketches for the Overland.

Calvin B. McDonald, formerly on FIGARO, and one of the best newspaper writers in California, left yesterday for St. Louis to take a position on one of the leading journals there.

Tommy Newcomb is to be the Alumni poet this year over the bay. W. H. L. Barnes proses to Newcomb's rhymes. On the same Commencement occasion, W. H. Rhodes (Caxton) does the versifying for the Durant Rhetorical Society, and John B. Felton the orating. All four are members of the Bohemian Club. Great is Bohemia!

Mark Twain's Frog Surpassed.

The frog of Calaveras county may hide his diminished head. He might have had points, but he is altogether surpassed by an English frog. A woman in England was eating boiled potatoes lately. She took up one that was large, mealy and inviting; she laid it on her plate and cut it in two. So far there is nothing in this story which is at all strange or singular. But here comes the wonderful part. So soon as the potato was cut out jumped a frog, which threw several somersaults, and then croaked a pean of joy at its delivery. The woman has declared her readiness to swear to the truth of this story. The scientists are all agog with excitement over this wonderful freak of nature. What they consider the most extraordinary part of the story is not the fact of the frog being inside of the potato, instead of the potato being inside of the frog, but that it was not even parboiled. It seems to us that a frog which had sufficient ingenuity to get inside of a potato without cutting the skin, would be able to sit in a smelting furnace and croak "God save the Queen" with infinite relish.

A Genial Picnic.

The—we have forgotten how many "teenth"—annual picnic of Captain Engles, of the "Queen of the Bay," came off yesterday near California City. There was a genial party of genial friends of the genial Captain, both old and young, aboard the commodious "Queen," and everything was propitious in adding to the enjoyment of the occasion except the weather—and that was a little too genial, especially about midday.

The Poor Potato Bugs.

An Illinois paper says: "Millions of potato bugs sit up on their hind legs on the fences around Burlington, and weep over the backwardness of the Spring. If the vines don't come up soon it is supposed the bugs will begin to dig for the seed."

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. C

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

The Alhambra.

"The Original Malcahy Twins," "Bruised and Cured," and "Big Injun," will be performed at the matinee to-morrow in conjunction with the first part, and melange of songs, dances, and amusing acts which make up the bill for this evening.

California Theatre.

Only to-night, to-morrow night and at the matinee to-morrow will "Divorce" be presented, and those who have not yet seen this admirable play, should avail themselves of these opportunities.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Jane Eyre," which has drawn such fashionable audiences during the last few nights, will be played this evening, at the matinee to-morrow and to-morrow night for the last time.

Bella Union.

Arthur Gregory and Geo. Talbot, gymnasts, whose fame is world-wide, made a prodigious hit at the Bella Union Theatre last night. Their performance on the three horizontal bars is wonderful, and their tumbling, for skill and variety, can scarcely be surpassed. These stars of the profession will appear to-night in conjunction with M'lle Marie Gaugain, the pet of the ballet; the inimitable Reynolds Brothers; Johnny Tuers, the most eccentric of nigs; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin, the clever Dutch impersonators; Miss Marie Zoel, the brightest of jig dancers; the light and graceful Miss Josephine; Miss Minnie Fillmore, the pleasing balladist; Miss Jennie Johnson, the clever serio-comic vocalist; Miss Fanny Garretson, and many others whose names appear on our page.

Le Favre's Varieties.

Aline Le Favre, Johnny Manning, Lew Rattler, M'lle Garretta, the Curtis Brothers, and many more favorite artists will appear to-night in a fine programme of songs, dances, gymnastic feats, acts, amusing farces, and poses plastiques. Mr. Charles Coriell gains three and four encores nightly for her songs; Charles Coriell eclipses Joe Murphy himself in his bone solo, and the entertainment from beginning to end is capital. To-morrow night M. Perrier, the modern Sampson, who caused such a sensation at the Crystal Palace London, will make his appearance and perform wonderful feats of strength.

American Theatre.

Emma Forrestelle the great contortionist, Chris Matthews, Geo. Foster, Clara Starr, Fanny Webster and many others will appear to-night in a varied programme, concluding with "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Platt's Hall.

Miss Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, lectured to another immense audience last night, and that the majority of her hearers were well pleased was testified to by the loud applause which followed many of her remarks. To-morrow afternoon Miss O'Gorman will deliver a lecture in Platt's Hall which will be for ladies only.

City Gardens.

On Sunday next the French Zouaves, Col. E. B. Buffandeau commanding, escorted by the Lafayette Guard, H. Perrier commanding, will have a grand exhibition drill, including the celebrated bayonet exercise, on a plateau around which 5,000 persons can find seats. In the afternoon there will be an open-air concert by the Societe Philharmonique and Lafayette Guard. In the evening the gardens will be illuminated and there will be a grand ball. The French manage these affairs so well that all who visit the City Gardens on Sunday are sure to enjoy themselves.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Over four thousand people visited these beautiful grounds on Monday, when the Tuolumne Association held their annual reunion. All enjoyed themselves thoroughly amidst the many attractions of the museum, the menagerie, the skating pavilion, boats on the lake, shady groves, etc. On Sunday, in addition to the regular attractions there will be a varied entertainment in the Pavilion by Miss May Leslie, a very accomplished balladist, the ever popular Miss Lulu Wilson, who will on this occasion sing, "Ten Thousand Miles Away" in character, Edgar Stanley, the pleasing tenor, and M'lle Eugenie Gerretta, whose graceful performances on the running globes are generally admired. Twenty-five cents is the price of admission to all the entertainments and another two bits pays for a return ticket to the Park and back.

Free Lecture.

This evening a Catholic lady, for a long time associated indirectly with convents in the Canadas and British Provinces, will undertake to refute the assertions of Miss Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, and relate what she knows about convents in a free lecture at Platt's Hall.

Personal.

Mr. J. Z Zimmerman, the advance agent of the Aimee Opera Bouffe Troupe, arrived yesterday. The troupe, numbering over thirty persons in the organization, will be due here on Wednesday, and will open at the California Theatre on Monday week.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

No Fancy Prices.

It is not necessary in these days to give fancy prices for the best brands of cigars. At the Custom House Cigar Store, 518 Battery street, the following brands can be obtained at the subjoined low prices: Espanola, $4 50 per box; Estrella Figa, $3 50 per box; El Rodo, $2 50 per box. These cigars are made of Havana tobacco, and are warranted equal to those imported. The store is directly opposite the Custom House. s

Anecdote of Barry.

During the run of "Tom and Jerry," which was played in Dublin some fifty or more nights successively, Barry's originally white duck trowsers, which he continued to wear night after night, began to assume rather a dusky shade, indicating their innocence of soap and water. At last when those long enduring duck trowsers made their appearance on the twentieth night encasing Barry's legs as if they grew there and were never to undergo a change, fresh water, or other, one of Barry's persecutors cried out

"Whist, Barry, ye divil!"

"What do you want, you blackguard?" said Barry, nothing moved by a style of address with which he was familiar,

"Wait till I whisper you," said a voice.

All the house was silent.

"When did your ducks take the water last?"

The audience roared with laughter for several minutes, and Barry, for the first time in his life, was beaten by the gallery. The next night, however, a change was evident, and his Russia ducks were as white as Russia's snows.

Advice to Housekeepers,

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

JUST SUITED TO THESE FINE NIGHTS.

Come, dearest, accept my gallanting,
And take a ride out to the Cliff;
The night now is actually enchanting,
And the moonlight is really "magnif."
The cool air, too, softly is sweeping
In freshness from o'er the broad sea,
And the pale stars are weary with keeping
Their vigils, fair Stella, for thee.
Come, take a ride out to the Cliff.

I've thoughts that I long have cherished,
And would whisper them only to thee;
And hopes that have faded, not perished,
In the voyage o'er Life's troubled sea.
I'd tell thee how oft thou hast cheered me
In this voyage, though lonely and drear;
How thy beauty and goodness endeared thee—
But, dearest, I'd not tell thee here.
Come, take a ride out to the Cliff.

We'll need not the Cup's wines and ices,
As we sit by the sea so blue—
Though, perchance, if the feeling entices,
We'll get away with a bottle or two.
We'll roam down on the beach so golden,
By the side of the murmuring sea,
Where I'll tell you the tale so olden,
That I only can whisper to thee—
Come, take a ride out to the Cliff!

The sea lions shall sing thy praises,
The winds kiss thy cheeks with delight,
And, if no one objection raises,
I'll do so myself to-night.
The wild waves shall dance in beauty
At thy feet, O Queen of Love!
And the stars, as it is their duty,
Shall record all our vows above.
Come, take a ride out to the Cliff! E.

Sewing Machines for Sale or to Rent,

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use the two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly of the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machine were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howe, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve second-hand lock and double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above and crowded together, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Raiptio—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $16 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 83, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$25 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $18 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "we transit for a month," while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their admiration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, smiles by and by on them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but the sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—New York Tribune April 12.

Sick Men.

Mrs. E. C. Stanton thinks that the most pitiful of all pitiful sights is a sick man. A woman arrayed in rich dressing-gown and cap can look quite interesting, pale and thin in an easy chair; but a man with his Adam's core, unkempt beard, irritable temper, his hopeless views of the future, and his long, long legs that no one can lift to bed or out, is enough to appal the most patient and loving of Eve's daughters.

On the contrary there are some women who se far from being appalled at the sight of a sick man, luxuriate in the delight of nursing. They never weary and enjoy the pleasure of being for a time the stronger instead of the weaker vessel. Often a woman is actually pleased when the one she loves falls sick that she may be able to prove to him how she loves him. We are sure that Mrs. E. C. Stanton, though she expresses herself as above recorded, is herself the most affectionate of nurses, and likes a little sick room experience for a change.

A Pleasant Woman.

Lady Holland once sent her page round the table to Macauley to tell him to stop talking. She told Rogers: "Your poetry is bad enough, so pray be sparing of your prose." At a dinner in South street, she fidgeted Lord Melbourne so much by making him shift his place when he was seated to his liking, that he rose and exclaimed: "I'll be d—d if I dine with you at all," and walked off to his own house, fortunately at hand. She requested a celebrated dandy to move a little farther off, on the ground that her olfactory nerves were offended by his blacking which he vowed was diluted with champagne!

It is Good to be in Debt.

The Bureau of Statistics has issued a circular from which we gather that our whole foreign indebtedness amounts to nine hundred million dollars, which, so far from being an incubus on our industry, is, on the contrary, a great benefit as furnishing capital, which we much need, for valuable and necessary improvements, and a greatly increased power to our various industries.

A Forsaken "Dorg."

One of Baltimore's loveliest belles has made a runaway match, to the intense delight of the gossippers. A sympathising chronicler says that the "bride left behind a disconsolate poodle to mourn the pangs of unrequited love."

A Warning.

A Newburgh damsel has framed the verdict a jury gave in her favor in a suit for breach of promise of marriage, and has hung it conspicuously in her parlor as a frightful warning to all trifers.

VICTIMS.

Many a woman plays the role of a victim throughout her life. Her path may lie in pleasant places, but that does not alter her description: she is a victim—will be a victim until the end of her days. The victim wears the badge of her profession on her countenance, in the drawn-down corners of her mouth or constantly wrinkled forehead. She is a constant source of irritation to all with whom she comes in contact. They treat her as well as they know how, do everything they possibly can to please her, but still she bears that same look of patient resignation. Charitable people try to find some excuse for her sad demeanor, suggest that she must have some hidden grief, has been crossed in love, or something of that kind. But nothing of the kind has happened to the victim. She plays victim because she likes the role. She isn't miserable, but she likes to appear so. When by herself she is as cheerful as a lark, but let any one come in and the corners of her mouth drop, and her whole demeanor seems to claim their sympathy. Ask her, "Are you going to see 'Divorce' at the California Theatre?" and she will heave a deep sigh and reply, "I don't know," conveying in that sigh a reflection on her husband as a brute who will never take her anywhere, when the fact is he denies her no pleasure she may desire. Tell her her child is looking very well, she sighs again and says, "Do you think so? He was terribly sick last week, and I'm afraid he's going to be sick again." A woman of this kind drives her husband to drink, or if not to drink, to seek pleasure elsewhere than in his own home. He tries his best to make her happy, and expects in return some outward and visible signs of the happiness which he aims to give her. But he doesn't get it. He asks her if she wishes for anything? she sighs and says, "Oh, no, I require nothing." He can't get mad at that, but he feels mad, and thinks, "what do you mean by sighing as if you never had anything you wanted?" If he brings her home a present and asks her if she likes it, she sighs and says, "Oh, yes, it's very well." One might think that the seeming indifference to worldly things manifested by these victims is caused by their hopes being set on things above, but it is not. This sighing is half the time nothing but a silly habit of which victims would cure themselves if they knew how insufferably annoying it was to those about them. Snoring is unpleasant, but sighing is detestable. We have known of victims being cured by a course of tonics when the kindest treatment failed; their digestions were out of order. Quiet children who sit in corners poring over books and never making any noise, ought not to be praised; they ought to be stirred up and sent out in the sunshine. There is great danger that they will study to play a quiet, resigned role through life and become nuisances—victims.

The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. G

The St. Louis Chronicle.

Wm. B. Oranna, formerly of this city, has started a Chroniole in St. Louis. He has taken the San Francisco Chroniele for a model in some things. The following, which appeared in his issue of the 8th inst., reads like one of the San Francisco Chroniele's squibs against Mr. Pickering:

Old Peanuts publishes the following: "If Greeley's opponents do not slacken fire soon they will use up their ammunition before the day of battle comes." Stolen from the Chronicle! The above was our advice to Old Peanuts some ten days ago. If we can get Ticknor's consent we will let him have our Bob.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. r

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The very successful play of "Jane Eyre," with Miss Maggie Mitchell in the leading role, will be presented at the matinee to-day, and this evening for the last time. To-morrow evening the thrilling drama of the "Fortune Teller of Lynne" will be played, with Miss Henrietta Osborne, Miss Maggie Moore, Miss Fanny Young, J. H. Cogswell in the cast. Next week the domestic drama of "Little Barefoot" will be produced, with Miss Maggie Mitchell in the principal character.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—There will be a matinee performance at this theatre to-day, when Lew Simmons, Billy Sweatnam, J. Welch and J. R. Rice, and the other brilliant artists forming the combination known as Simmons and Slocum's minstrels will appear. An excellent bill will be performed this evening, ending with "Big Injun; or the Last of the Mohicans."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Divorce" will be presented at the matinee to-day, and for the last time this evening. Those who have not yet seen "Diverce" should certainly take these last opportunities of witnessing an American play by an American author, which has accomplished its success by force of sheer merit, and not through the adventitious aids of scenery, mechanical effects and impossible sensations.

BELLA UNION—There is a great array of talent at this very popular theatre. The unapproachable Reynolds Brothers, the wonderful Arthur Gregory and George Talbot, the fascinating M'lle Marie Gaugain, the talented Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin, the original Johnny Toers, and a host of others will appear to-night in a very attractive and varied entertainment. The Bella Union is one of the best ventilated theatres in the United States, so that even on a hot evening the performance can be enjoyed. After a capital first part and melange of songs, acts, dances and gymnastic feats, a new and original sketch entitled "Grounds for a Divorce" will be produced, in which nearly all the company will appear. A burlesque on "Julius Cæsar" is underlined for speedy production.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—The company at this house present a programme of great attractions. M'lle Forrestelle has caused quite a sensation in her rope-tying feat, in which she eclipses the Davenport Brothers, and at the same time exposes their modus operandi; Chris Matthews, Harry Howard, Eva Silva, George Foster, and many others, whose names are on our first page will appear this evening in a great Saturday night bill.

LE FAVRE'S VARIETIES.—The great combination of variety artistes at this house will present an extraordinary entertainment this evening. In addition to the Curtis Brothers, the Americus Troupe, Aline Le Favre, Johnny Manning, Lew Rattler, Jake Wallace, Charley Nickerson, Kelly and Stewart and a score of others who will appear to-night the management announce the first appearance of Alfred Ferrier, "the man with the arm of iron," from the Hippodrome of Paris, who will perform a number of Herculean feats assisted by Johnny Manning. The first appearance of Miss Ella La Rue, comedienne, vocalist and banjoist is also announced. The bill for to-night is new throughout. It appears in full on our first page and gives promise of a rich treat to those who visit the Varieties to-night.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. To-morrow, in addition to the regular attractions, there will be a varied entertainment in the Pavilion by Miss May Leslie, a very accomplished balladist, the ever popular Miss Lulu Wilson, who will on this occasion sing, "Ten Thousand Miles Away" in character. Edgar Stanley, the pleasing tenor, and M'lle Eugenie Gerretta, whose graceful performances on the running globes are generally admired. Twenty-five cents is the price of admission to all the entertainments and another two bits pays for a return ticket to the Park and back.

GRAND PICNIC OF THE FRENCH ZOUAVES. To-morrow the French Zouaves, Colonel E. B. Buffandeau commanding, escorted by the Lafayette Guard, H. Perrier commanding, will have a grand exhibition drill, including the celebrated bagenet exercise, on a plateau around which 5,000 persons can find seats. In the afternoon there will be an open-air concert by the Societe Philharmonique and Lafayette Guard. In the evening the gardens will be illuminated and there will be a grand ball. The French manage these affairs so well that all who visit the City Gardens on Sunday are sure to enjoy themselves.

THE CLIFF HOUSE—To-morrow all San Francisco will go out of town. The rush to the Cliff House is immense since the hot weather set in. Over three hundred teams were hitched up at Captain Foster's famous boatery on Thursday, and to-morrow the road will be thronged with people going there to enjoy a cool sea breeze.

PLATT'S HALL—MISS EDITH O'GORMAN.—Miss Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, lectured to an immense audience Thursday night and that the majority of her hearers were well pleased was testified to by the loud applause which followed many of her remarks. This afternoon Miss Edith O'Gorman will deliver a lecture in Platt's Hall which will be for ladies only.

MISS ANNA MEHLIG.—This famous pianiste is due in San Francisco by the Oregon steamer which arrives to-morrow. Miss Mehlig gave four concerts in Portland to densely crowded houses. She will give a series of farewell concerts in this city previous to returning East.

CHARLES VIVIAN.—This favorite character vocalist left for Portland, Oregon, by the last steamer. He will play an engagement of two weeks at the Oro Fino Theatre and we doubt if the Portland People will be willing to part with him then.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PLATT'S HALL.—The Catholic had a very good audience last night to listen to her counterblast against Miss Edith O'Gorman. She made some points in a style which evoked warm applause.

CITY GARDENS—The Annual Festival of St. Mary's Parish will be held here on Monday next. The Festival was set for the 27th, but the day has been changed so as not to conflict with the Picnic of the Hibernians.

JOE MURPHY.—This California favorite will arrive in San Francisco this evening, under engagement to the management of the Metropolitan SIGNOR CHIARINI IN BAD LUCK.—Some time ago we received advices from Signor Chiarini, the famous circus manager, dated at St. Thomas, West Indies, from which we gathered that he was on his way to exhibit in Havana. By letters received a day or two ago, we learn that it was not so easy for Chiarini to exhibit in Havana as he supposed. Orrin, his advance agent, secured an eligible lot in that city, and proceeded to construct a monster amphitheatre, when an order came from the authorities to suspend work, as Chiarini would not under any consideration be allowed to perform there; Chiarini arrived and was immediately taken in charge by the authorities, and placed under arrest on board a vessel in the harbor. Asking for an explanation of this harsh treatment, he was informed that he was suspected of sympathy with the Cuban insurgents, and had given a benefit for the purpose of raising funds for them while he was performing in Mexico (which is supposed, was invented by the proprietor of a rival circus company in order to prevent Chiarini from showing in Havana. For a time it had its effect, but Chiarini having sent to Mexico for proof of his innocence of the "crime" laid to his charge hoped soon to be at liberty, to is now doubtless delighting both loyal and disloyal Cubans with his magnificent equestrian entertainment.

JULIUS CÆSAR.—On Monday evening Shakspeare's play of "Julius Cæsar" will be produced at the California Theatre in a style never before thought of in San Francisco. The scenery will be new throughout and will represent Rome as it must have been in the days of Julius Cæsar. This has been painted by Messrs. Porter, Bell and assistants. There will be a whole army of supernumeraries clad in gorgeous armors and correct Roman costumes imported expressly for the occasion from London, Paris and New York under the supervision of Mr. Pauli; appointments, ancient weapons and other properties have been manufactured by Thomas Gorman, and a corps of 100 trained auxiliaries will execute marches and processions under the direction of E. J. Preston. A grand mounting for a grand play. The cast of the play is strong—Lawrence Barrett in the character of Cassius is unapproachable; he is a perfect realisation of the man he represents; John McCullough in either Brutus or Marc Antony finds a part which shows his talents to advantage, and he will alternate in these parts during the week with Henry Edwards, who is excellent in both.

MASTER J. THEO. PLANEL'S CONCERT.—On Thursday evening, Master Planel, the young California violinist and pianist, will give a Concert at Platt's Hall, assisted by the Lafayette Philharmonic Society, Signor and Signora Bianchi, L. Cortini, Fulvio Rigo, Messrs. Schlott and Schmitz, and G. Scott, and other artistes. Many will be interested in noting the improvement made by the young violinist and he will doubtless have a large audience.

ANOTHER LECTURE.—We understand the lady who lectured last night in refutation of Miss O'Gorman's lectures has been requested to repeat her lecture next week, as many persons were purposly misled as to where it was to take place, but the lady has declined now that she has had her "say;" unless she receives sanction from headquarters. During her lecture she clearly refuted twenty-five of Miss O'Gorman's accusations.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—To-morrow many will seek the shady groves of Bidger's Grand Central Park to escape from the dust and heat. A grand concert will be given in the Pavilion by Miss May Leslie, Edgar Stanley, Lulu Wilson and Charles Alpers' Metropolitan Band, and Miss Eugenie Gerretta will give a performance on the running globes.

PORTLAND, O.—G. B. Waldron and dramatic company were at the Oro Fino Theatre playing to light houses. "Dora" was produced on the 12th and played on Saturday at the matinee and again in the evening. After this performance the theatre closed to await the arrival of Vivian.

SALT LAKE CITY.—The Emerson Minstrels opened at the theatre, for three nights, on the 17th, and did a fine business. "The Great Franco-German War Panorama" was exhibited "for one night only," at the Skating Rink on the 5th. "the proprietors having effected an engagement of 20 consecutive nights in San Francisco."

STOCKTON.—The San Francisco Circus will perform on the 26th and 27th.

GRASS VALLEY.—The Berger Family are to perform at Hamilton Hall on June 24th and 25th.

SACRAMENTO.—The Berger Family gave four entertainments at the Metropolitan Theatre, commencing on Wednesday. They will give a matinee to day.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Charles Wheatleight continued at Piper's Opera House during the present week producing "After Dark," "The Lottery of Life," and for his benefit on Thursday evening, "Under the Gaslight." His engagement closes to-night. ....."The Crystal Palace Circus" showed yesterday.

CARSON CITY.—"The Crystal Palace Circus" gave an exhibition on Wednesday to good business.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Ptinee Poniatowski's new opera, entitled "Galmica," was produced at the Royal Italian Opera, Convent Garden, London, on May 24th, with Madame Adelina Patti, and Signors Naudin, Ootogni and Bagaglio in the cast.

M'lle Christine Nilsson made her first appearance in England, since her return from America, as Violetta Valery in Verdi's opera "La Traviata," at Her Majesty's Opera, Drury Lane, London, May 23.

A new drama by Dion Boucicault, entitled "Daddy O'Dowd," is announced to be produced at the Gaiety Theatre, London, prior to his departure for America.

Mr. John S. Clarke is playing Master Wadlove in "To Parents and Guardians," at the Strand Theatre, London.

Miss Elise Holt is playing in "Oledhopper's Fortune," at the Alhambra Theatre Royal, London.

A beautiful monument has just been erected at the Bromptom, (England) Cemetery, bearing the following inscriptions: "To the memory of Walter Montgomery, Esq., who died on the 1st of Sept., 1871, aged 41 years. 'Take him for all in all, I shall not look upon his like again.'"

Cause —A want of appreciation of the first-class management on the part of a fastidious public.....Sam Sharpley's Minstrels are meeting with more than ordinary success. Delehanty and Hengler produced their sketch of "The Hottentots".....The Union Square Theatre will open in the middle of September next, as a first-class comedy theatre. Amongst the engagements are Agnes Ethel, Plessy Merchant, Miss Griswold, Jennie Lee, Mark Smith, Geo Parks, Claude Burroughs and Edward Lamb.

Miss Adah Griswold, who during her engagement at the St. James Theatre, under Mr. Mackaye's management, exhibited dramatic powers of the highest order, has been engaged for the next season at the Union Square Theatre.

A new combination has been formed at Chicago entitled The Sydney Cowell Combination. It will include Mr. and Mrs. Giddons, M. Allerton, Belvil Ryan, Miss Florence Bowell, and others.

The Chapman Sisters and M. W. Leffingwell are at the Howard Athenæum, Boston.

Mr. John Hart is at the Howard Athenæum.

The Summer season at the Globe, Boston, was inaugurated on the 19th by the engagement of Janauschek.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hall and the Vokes Family are at the Boston Theatre.

The San Francisco Minstrels delighted the Hubbites at the St. James Theatre.

Bartley Campbell's play of "Through Fire" will be produced at the Globe Theatre, Chicago, early in June.

The graceful and daring gymnast, M'lle Geraldine, is, with Mons. Leopold, at Nixon's Amphitheatre, Chicago.

A new play called "A Rock Ahead," was produced by the Wyndham Comedy Company, at the Globe Theatre, Chicago.

The latest New York Clipper received says:

Little Nell, the "California Diamond," has returned to New York to make her fall and winter engagements.

The New York Clipper has the following:

D. C. Anderson, after a professional career which has extended through a period of forty years, is about to retire from the stage, and in view of that fact a complimentary matinee benefit has been tendered him to take place at Booth's Theatre on June 12th.

A New York paper says:—

Miss Le Hudson after a protracted tour on the Pacific slope, returned to this city on the 6th inst., looking hale and hearty, and decidedly increased in avoirdupois. She brought her "Mazeppa" steed with her, which she has rechristianed "Dolly Varden." Miss Eva West, a young lady who has performed in chamber-maid parts in several of the California Theatres, accompanied her, with the view, we understand of securing an engagement in this city. Miss Hudson intends resting for the summer at her residence at Baltimore.

The Clipper says:—

Mrs F. S. Chanfrau will be the first star at McCullough's rejuvenated California Theatre, San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Albaugh will produce J. J. McCloskey's drama, "Poverty Flat," at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., on June 24th.

The Miss Montague who has been acting for some time past at Albany, N. Y., is none other than the lady who was married to the late Walter Montgomery ere his demise.

Extensive improvements are to be made in some of the Boston Theatres before the Fall season. The Museum is to be entirely remodelled. The floor is to be lowered and what is now the balcony will be the second circle. The present parquet circle will then be the balcony. The whole interior will present an entirely different aspect, besides being greatly enlarged. The Globe is also to undergo considerable alteration, the principal improvement being the digging of a sub-cellar, so that the grandest spectacular plays may be produced. "King Carrot" will probably be the opening piece for next season, performed as in Paris. The St. James will be materially improved during the Summer vacation.

Miss Jennie Kempton, the well-known Boston contralto, has been engaged to sing in church at Springfield, Mass. This will not interfere with her numerous concert engagements.

Dexter Smith's paper says:

About two weeks ago Carl Rosa dropped the "Herr" and became "Mister," or in other words he is now a naturalized American citizen. He has no reason to regret his coming to America. From a violinist in a concert troupe he has risen to the position of one of the leading impresarios of the country. He also wooed and won the gifted and lovely Parepa here.

The lively veteran, Charles Mathews, went recently yachting with Lester Wallack, and was nearly jerked from his berth by the falling of the centre board with great violence upon the keel. He will soon return to England, and then visit Italy.

Celia Logan Kellogg was recently divorced in Washington from her husband, Miner K. Kellogg, the artiste, on account of incompatibility.

Robert McWade, Fort Wayne, 16th, one week.

An engagement to sing at Buckingham Palace, June 29th, has been engineered for Miss Kellogg by her agent in London, and the fact duly telegraphed.

The New York Mercury says:

The child Americus, violinist, Mr. and Mrs. Ocriel, and J. H. Stoer, vocalists, and Professor J. Striegler, violinist and musical director, are playing at Central Park, Oakland, Cal.

The Mercury editor did not read his FIGARO very carefully or he would have perceived they were only engaged for one Sunday at Badger's Grand Central Park.

Mrs Yeamans and child Jennie have been engaged at the Grand Opera House next season.

We make the following extracts from a letter recently from Wm. Painter, at present traveling with O. W. Noyes's Crescent City Circus. It is dated Tuskaloosa, Tenn., June 5th:

We travel by railroad. We have a large engine and 16 cars to transport all. All the people except the business men and performers sleep in cars. Two niggar cooks and 4 nigger waiters, astonish their bowels three times a day. They have also banks to sleep in, and many times they is a better than that. Nights many are ahead of the show to work it up. "Most extravagant comes Georgy Bacchus-mow." Yesterday in Shellbyville, receipts two thousand dollars, guess our business has not been good as expected, because money is scarce at this season of the year in the cotton states. Miss Eadie Ismael, homesick, she dances in the concert. Our balloon man landed in the Tennessee river and was drowned. We expect to snow in Baltimore on the 4th of July, when all our show props, shady stands, gambling bricks, auctioneer table, stool in motion, it looks like a young town turned loose. I send you one of our country programmes, but since this was published we have engaged the Kentucky Troupe—two young men and one lady singers; the lady also sings ballads in concert. They think of going to California.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has them, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is when you want a carriage, go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel.

That Indecent Letter.

Ed Montague, whom we could scarcely believe signed his name to the blackguard letter we referred to last week as having been received from a man named Dodge, connected with Ryland's "Crystal Palace Circus," writes as follows:

CARSON CITY, June 18th, 1872.

Your note together with a copy of the letter Jerry Dodge sent you I received to-day enclosed in one from my wife. I never was so upset and astonished in my life as I was at the idea of a man having the baseness to sign the names of hard-working professionals to such a low document.

We, that is Samwells, Dave Long, and myself, were innocent of any knowledge of such a letter being sent, until your letter arrived to-day. Mr. Ryland and Samuel Carrington also denied all knowledge of the same, but what astonishes me is the exact copy or forgery of everybody's name, except Samwells & Montague. We neither of us sign our names in that manner, and you will notice also that in Dodge's letter Samwell's name contains but one "l."

Had Jerry Dodge been in Carson City to-day he would have been arrested for forgery, and punished too, if it had been possible. I, as well as the rest of us, have always held the FIGARO and its Editor in high esteem, and we feel very much annoyed at the degradation attached to the circumstance. Please to keep the original letter received from Dodge as it may be useful in the future. I will keep the copy you sent me and will take care of same. Please to do the honorable thing for us and lift from our names the disgrace attached to them; my wife says it is in everybody's mouth and everybody is down on us, and if such was the truth we would be deserving of such censure, but we are innocent, as God is our judge; and now, hoping you are satisfied that the signing of names to Jerry Dodge's letter was a forgery, I am truly yours, EDWARD B. MONTAGUE.

We have received another impertinent letter from Dodge, couched, however, in language which will bear publication, and from it we make the following extracts:

Enclosed you will find a notice of the one-horse circus, it is doing a pretty good business for a wandering gymnastic party, but never mind I'll get even with you some way or other, and I have often written letters to you before as I believe I never have done anything against you that you could go and serve me "mean." Furthermore I wish to state that I took it upon myself to sign names to that letter; it was my own doing I trust you will look into this matter and see how far you have tried to injure us by circulating over 7,000 copies of your paper with that article in it right where we were showing—Marysville. Every member of the company got one and read for themselves. Sincerely yours, JERRY A. DODGE.

The cool manner in which this man confesses to having forged the names of respectable people, one of them a lady, to a filthily indecent letter is is positively refreshing during the present heated spell.

A Historical Bill.

We are indebted to Mr. Frank Bea for a copy of the following bill of the performance given at the Winter Garden Theatre, New York, on the evening of Friday, November 25th, 1864, for the benefit of the Shakespeare Statue Fund, which had for its object the erection of a statue to Shakespeare in Central Park, in that city. The occasion is made memorable as being the only one on which the three sons of Junius Brutus Booth ever appeared together before the public on the same stage. After a period of nearly ten years the statue was completed, and was dedicated on the 23d of May last in the presence of a vast concourse of people. William Cullen Bryant delivered the address, and Edwin Booth finished the work by reciting, with great effect, a fine Shakspearian poem written for the occasion by R. H. Stoddart. We return to our bill:—

STAGE MANAGER.....Mr. J. G. HANLEY

.....FOR THE.....

SHAKESPEARE STATUE FUND

MR. STUART has pleasure in announcing that, owing to the generous zeal and untiring devotion of Mr. Edwin Booth, a performance will be given at this Theatre, on FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 24,

(Mr. J. S. Clarke having kindly ceded that evening for the occasion,) for the Benefit of the Fund to raise a Statue to Shakespeare in the Central Park, being the second benefit for that object at this Theatre.

The evening will be made memorable by the appearance in the same piece of the three sons of the great Booth,

JUNIUS BRUTUS
EDWIN and JOHN WILKES

"Filii Patri Digne Dignioresque,"

Who have come forward with cheerful alacrity to do honor to the immortal bard, and from whose works the genius of their father caught its inspiration, and of many of whose greatest creations he was the best and noblest illustrator the stage has ever seen.

The play selected for the occasion is the tragedy of

Mr. Stuart trusts those of the public who have paid high prices for their seats will remember that in addition to the value they receive in intellectual enjoyment, they are contributing to a great national work, and not to the personal advantage of any individual.

The Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Robert Stoepel, will perform: Overture, "Beatrice" Bellini: selections from "La Juive," Haley; "Stradella," Flotow; Polonaise, Meyerbeer; Grand March from "Lohengrin," R. Wagner; "Dinorah," Masourka, Meyerbeer.

The benefit was an immense success, and, on the day of the performance, tickets rose to almost fabulous prices. Twenty and twenty-five dollars were offered in vain for single seats, and one hundred dollars for a box. We annex a notice of the performance from the New York Evening Post of the day following it. After speaking of the occasion and the immense audience present, the Post says: "It is not usual to criticise performances for benefit purposes; were it so, the critic would have, in this instance, a most agreeable task. It was in every respect admirable, and worthy of the occasion. Without breach of this honored custom we may, however, remark that the individual characteristic of Mr. Junius Booth, as exhibited in the performance of last night, seemed to us a careful conception and vigorous execution; that of Mr. Edwin Booth, a certain classic beauty and scholarly refinement which mark all his impersonations, and that of Mr. John W. Booth, an elan and fire which at times fairly electrifies the audience and whirls them along with him.

"They were received with unbounded enthusiasm, which accompanied them through the piece, and found expression in repeated tumultuous calls before the curtain. Indeed, as they entered together, at the opening of the piece, it would be difficult to look on three finer types of physical and intellectual perfection, and Mrs. Booth, who was present in a private box, to witness the performance of her sons, might well be pardoned for exclaiming, with the mother of the Gracchii: "These are my jewels." This benefit has not been given without some sacrifice, but we are happy to find we have some who are prepared to make it in such a cause, and are glad to think that Mr. Edwin Booth, who has labored with such unwearied exertion for the object of last night's performance, Messrs. Junius Brutus Booth and John Wilkes Booth, who came at pecuniary loss, and considerable inconvenience, from other and distant engagements, to give their services toward it, and Mr. Stuart, who has twice devoted the Winter Garden to it, will find some compensation in such a scene of triumph as that of last night. The receipts of the house were a little over $4,000.

Dear Me! How She Paints!

N. B.—Use DICKEY'S famous CREME DE LYS and they can't see it.

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 to 2,500 persons. Over 650,000 in use; 250,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens.

To Those who Are Bald.

Do not fail to call at 218 Bush street (Mercantile Library Building) and obtain a bottle of Prof. Hayden's Hair Restorative.

After going to the Post Office for your letters, go to the great repository of White & Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant.

An Old Landmark.

The Verandah Cigar Store, at the N.E. corner of Kearny and Washington streets, kept by Henry Schmidt, has been famous for the last eleven years for keeping the best Havana cigars, tobacco, choice meerschaum pipes, etc.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 569 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray. The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand. Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BRAVLVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BRAVLVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few doors below What Cheer House.

CLAIRVOYANT.—Madame Clara Antonia, the clairvoyant, Independent Trance Medium. Office, 426 Kearney Street. Consultations in English, French and German.

For Washing

Shirts, $1 50 per doz.; small pieces, 50c. per doz. At the What Cheer Laundry.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CARD.

The Anniversary Celebration Committee, Knights of Pythias, for 1872, take this opportunity to return their thanks to MR. STEVENS, proprietor of the City Gardens, for the gentlemanly and business-like manner with which he treated us on the occasion of our second Annual Celebration on the 1st of June inst., and it is with great pleasure we recommend him and his Gardens to the public.

The Entrance and all the other exercises of the day having been so satisfactory to the whole Order of Knights of Pythias and the public generally, is in a great measure due to the liberal and honorable arrangements of MR. STEVENS, and we feel that this tribute is due him, and we take great pleasure in offering it. By order of the General Committee

Metropolitan Theatre.

"The Fortune Teller of Lynn" was presented last night. Miss Henrietta Ceborne played the title role particularly well and was much applauded. Harry Colton was very good as Maladine, W. J. Cogswell as Jotham Hook, did some good acting, and the comic portion of the play was well carried out by W. Simms as Jotham Hook, Jr., and Miss Maggie Moore as Nabby Squealer, an eccentric Yankee girl. This evening Miss Maggie Mitchell will appear in her favorite character of Amry, in "Little Barefoot," a companion play to "Fanchon." Miss Mitchell's engagement is extended for only six nights more. All who have seen her in "Fanchon," will wish to witness her impersonation of Amry in "Little Barefoot."

The Alhambra.

An entirely new bill has been prepared for the amusement of the patrons of this popular theatre. New ballads and choruses, new comic songs, and new jokes by Billy Sweatnam and Lew Simmons will enliven the first part. In the second part Welch and Rice will present their capital act, "Riding in a Street Car;" Lew Simmons will sing new banjo solos; Billy Sweatnam and Add Ryman appear in the sketch of "The Rival Policy Agents;" Welch and Rice will perform a double jig; Simmons and Slocum will present the faces of "In and Out:" and the evening's performance will conclude with "Divorce," a burlesque of the latest San Francisco sensation, in which the whole company will appear.

California Theatre.

To-night Shakespeare's play of "Julius Cæsar" will be produced at this house in a style never before thought of in San Francisco. The scenery will be new throughout and will represent Rome as it must have been in the days of Julius Cæsar. This has been painted by Messrs. Porter, Bell and assistants. There will be a whole army of supernumeraries clad in gorgeous armors and correct Roman costumes imported expressly for the occasion from London, Paris and New York under the supervision of Mr. Paullin; appointments, ancient weapons and other properties have been manufactured by Thomas Gossman, and a corps of 100 trained auxiliaries will execute marches and processions under the direction of R. J Preston. A grand mounting for a grand play. The cast of the play is strong—Lawrence Barrett in the character of Cassius is unapproachable: he is a perfect realization of the man he represents; John McCullough in either Brutus or Marc Antony finds a part which shows his talents to advantage, and he will alternate in these parts during the week with Henry Edwards, who is excellent in both.

Bella Union.

This popular theatre was thronged on Saturday night and again last night. The performance was excellent. The remarkably clever gymnasts appeared in some of their cleverest feats including the terrific giant swing; the Reynolds Brothers in original grotesque dances; M'lle Marie Gaugain with Carrie Chapman performed a charming pas de Gezelle; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong in a new Dutch act; Jennie Johnson in sensation songs; Miss Josephine in a sprightly song and dance; Johnny Tuers in the amusing act of "The first Rehearsal;" Susie Robinson and Tommy Barton in "The Nerves," and the rest of the company in various specialties. The performance concludes with the new and "original" sketch of "The Female Swimmers; or, Grounds for a Divorce." The same capital bill will be presented to-night.

American Theatre.

Pretty tableaux, lively dances, well sung choruses, amusing acts, and wonderful gymnastic feats are some of the many attractive features of the performance at this house. It concludes with the drama of "The Drunkard," with J. H. Foster, Harry Devoy, Chris Matthews, Harry Howard, Fanny Webster, Miss Leroy, Clara Starr and others in the cast.

Le Favre's Varieties.

Mons. Alfred Perrier, who made his first appearance at this house on Saturday night, created a decided sensation. His feats of strength far eclipse anything ever seen here before, he tosses about hundred pound weights as easily as if they were apples, swings from a trapeze supporting the whole weight of his body by a piece of leather which he catches hold of with his teeth, and does many more astonishing things which must be seen to be appreciated. Miss Ella Le Rue and Jake Wallace caused much amusement in the farce of "Woman's Rights;" Miss May Leslie and Edgar Stanley sang the prison duet from "Il Trovatore" splendidly; the Curtis Brothers created much fun in the skating scene, and the play of "Talent under Difficulties," in which the dashing Aline Le Favre appeared as the Blonde of the Period, terminate a capital bill which will be presented again this evening.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Edith O'Gorman's last lecture will be given on Wednesday evening, June 26th, at Pacific Hall, and will be entitled "Mysteries of the Confessional, the Mass and Ceremonies," and will also answer the different slanderous reports published in different newspapers.

Complimentary Concert.

To-morrow evening Senor M. Y. Ferrer, the talented performer on the guitar, will be the recipient of a benefit at Mercantile Library Hall. Signora Bianchi, Miss Helen Dingeon, Miss Zerboni di Sposetti, Signorita Angelo Alvarez, Signor Bianchi, Signor Mancusi, and other artistes have volunteered. The box-plan is now open at Gray's Music Store.

Aimee's French Opera Bouffe.

The famous French Opera bouffe artiste, M'lle Aimee, whose performances throughout the United States have been a series of uninterrupted triumphs, will open with her great troupe at the California theatre on Monday, July 1st. The names of the artists appear in an advertisement in another column. Amongst the operas to be performed during the season are: "La Grande Duchesse," "La Belle Helene," "Les Brigandes," "Genevie de Brabant," "La Fleur de The." This will be the most complete Operatic Troupe that ever visited this city, and will undoubtedly do immense business.

The San Francisco Circus.

The San Francisco Circus is doing an immense business in the country. It will exhibit at Napa to-night and at Vallejo to-morrow night. From Vallejo it will proceed to Stockton direct by a steamer chartered expressly to transport the company there.

City Gardens.

A large attendance was present at the picnic of the French Zouaves yesterday at the City Gardens, and everything passed off most pleasantly. The Festival was continued in the evening in the bar pavilion.

Joe Murphy.

Joe Murphy returned on Saturday night in excellent health. He played a most successful engagement at the Salt Lake Theatre, where the Mormons were even more inclined to "help" Joe than they were to help Brigham. One of the faithful wrote to the Salt Lake Tribune complaing that such was the case and declaring that it was a shame that Joe Murphy should take away so much money when the prophet wanted it so bad.

Capt. Badger' Grand Central Park.

A very pleasant entertainment was given at these gardens yesterday, and many went there to escape the winds prevailing on this side of the Bay. A great bill will be given on Sunday next.

Base Ball Match.

The return match between the clubs of the Alhambra and California Theatres will come off tomorrow afternoon at the Recreation Grounds.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A Good Example.

New Hampshire leads the way in an effort to prevent eccentric advertisers from abusing nature by painting up rocks and fences in the usual fantastical styles. The general statutes of the State provide that any person painting the names of any wares or occupation on fences or private property, or on any rock or natural object, without the leave of the owner, shall be fined $10 one-half to the use of the prosecutor. New Hampshire journalists should hold a jubilee.

Down with the Taxes.

The import duties on tea and coffee have only one week longer to run. After June 30th these commodities will be admitted free of duty. Congress should have passed an espicial act of abolishment of taxes on these articles to have gone into effect on June 17th, in honor to old Bunker Hill. It would have awakened renewed patriotism.

Advice to Housekeepers.

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray, The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

The Greeley Hat.

A large invoice of the Greeley Hats, as well as other hats of the latest styles has just been received at THE HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. Each hat is sold at a dollar less than is charged at any other store. R

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

A Nice Show.

The claimant to the Tichborne estates is travelling through England and holds meetings in the principal towns. He charges for admission, and crowds go to see him and hear him speak. At two meetings in Bristol he had most enthusiastic audiences. In commencing his speech on the second evening he stated that a kind lady had given him a Bible that day, and if his enemies did not take it away from him he would never part with it. Mr. Guilford Onslow, M. P., the claimant's right hand man also spoke at the same meeting. For a presumptive Baronet to go about exhibiting himself something in the way of Mrs. Jarley's wax works is rather damaging to any belief in the righteousness of his claims. As he is unfortunately only out on bail, Barnum can't engage him to show in this country.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

[From Our Edition of Saturday.]

As our Eastern dramatic news summary was not printed in our whole editions on Saturday, we reprint it to-day.

In New York there is English opera at Bryant's Opera House.....At Wallack's "On the Jury".....Union Square Theatre, Mrs. Jas. A. Oates' Burlesque Company in "Fortunio".....Booth's Theatre, Edwin Adams in "Enoch Arden".....The panoramic play of "Chicago" a great success at the Theatre Comique; Charles R. Thorne, Jr., in the leading role.....Johnny Thompson the lively fraud, in a play he probably had written for him and refused to pay for, entitled "Our Colored Brother," at Wood's Museum.....Fifth-avenue Theatre closed on the 15th for the season.....At the Bowery, Foster's new play of "The Swamp Angels." was produced on the 10th.....The new faces at Tony Pastor's Opera House, were Carroll Family, Frank Gibbons, gymnast, and Fanny Kent, dancer..... Lina Edwin's Theatre collapsed suddenly after the performance of the 1st inst. Cause—A want of appreciation of the first-class management on the part of a fastidious public.....Sam Sharpley's Minstrels are meeting with more than ordinary success. De'hanty and Hengler produced their sketch of "The Hottentots".....The Union Square Theatre will open in the middle of September next, as a first-class comedy theatre. Amongst the engagements are Agnes Ethel, Plessy Mordaunt, Miss Griswold, Jennie Lee, Mark Smith, Geo Parks, Claude Burroughs and Edward Lamb.

Miss Adah Griswold, who during her engagement at the St. James Theatre, under Mr. Mackaye's management, exhibited dramatic powers of the highest order, has been engaged for the next season at the Union Square Theatre.

A new combination has been formed at Chicago entitled The Sydney Cowell Combination. It will include Mr. and Mrs. Giddons, M. Allerton, Belvil Ryan, Miss Florence Bowell, and others.

The Chapman Sisters and M. W. Leffingwell are at the Howard Athenæum, Boston.

Mr. John Hart is at the Howard Athenæum.

The Summer season at the Globe, Boston, was inaugurated on the 10th by the engagement of Janauschek.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hall and the Vokes Family are at the Boston Theatre.

The San Francisco Minstrels delighted the Hubbites at the St. James Theatre.

Bartley Campbell's play of "Through Fire" will be produced at the Globe Theatre, Chicago, early in June.

The graceful and daring gymnast, M'lle Geraldine, is, with Mons. Leopold, at Nixon's Amphitheatre, Chicago.

A new play called "A Rock Ahead," was produced by the Wyndham Comedy Company, at the Globe Theatre, Chicago.

The latest New York Clipper received says:

Charles A. Boyd left the city to-day, June 10th, to join Emerson's Minstrels, taking with him the following performers:—Leferbre, A. Bent, E. Butler, Charley Sutton and a full orchestra.

Little Nell, the "California Diamond," has returned to New York to make her fall and winter engagements.

The New York Clipper has the following:

D. C. Anderson, after a professional career which has extended through a period of forty years, is about to retire from the stage, and in view of that fact a complimentary matinee benefit has been tendered him to take place at Booth's Theatre on June 12th.

A New York paper says:—

Miss Lee Hudson, after a protracted tour on the Pacific slope, returned to this city on the 6th inst., looking hale and hearty, and decidedly increased in avoirdupois. She brought her "Mazeppa" steed with her, which she has rechristianed "Dolly Varden." Miss Eva West, a young lady who has performed in chambermaid parts in several of the California Theatres, accompanied her, with the view, we understand, of seeking an engagement in this city. Miss Hudson intends resting for the summer at her residence at Baltimore.

The Clipper says:—

Mrs F. S. Chanfrau will be the first star at McCullough's rejuvenated California Theatre, San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Albaugh will produce J. J McCloskey's drama, "Poverty Flat," at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., on June 24th.

The Miss Montague who has been acting for some time past at Albany, N. Y., is none other than the lady who was married to the late Walter Montgomery ere his demise.

Extensive improvements are to be made in some of the Boston Theatres before the Fall season. The Museum is to be entirely remodelled. The floor is to be lowered and what is now the balcony will be the second circle. The present parquet circle will then be the balcony. The whole interior will present an entirely different aspect, besides being greatly enlarged. The Globe is also to undergo considerable alteration, the principal improvement being the digging of a sub-cellar, so that the grandest spectacular plays may be produced. "King Carrot" will probably be the opening piece for next season, performed as in Paris. The St. James will be materially improved during the Summer vacation.

Miss Jennie Kempton, the well-known Boston contralto, has been engaged to sing in church at Springfield, Mass. This will not interfere with her numerous concert engagements.

Dexter Smith's paper says:

About two weeks ago Carl Rosa dropped the "Herr" and became "Mister," or in other words he is now a naturalized American citizen. He has no reason to regret his coming to America. From a violinist in a concert troupe he has risen to the position of one of the leading impresarios of the country. He also wooed and won the gifted and lovely Parepa here.

The lively vet ran, Charles Mathews, went recently yachting with Lester Wallack, and was nearly jerked from his berth by the falling of the centre board with great violence upon the reel. He will soon return to England, and then visit Italy.

Celia Logan Kellogg was recently divorced in Washington from her husband, Miner K. Kellogg the artist, on account of incompatibility.

Robert McWade, Fort Wayne, 10th, one week.

An engagement to sing at Buckingham Palace, June 20th, has been engineered for Miss Kellogg by her agent in London, and the fact duly telegraphed.

The New York Mercury says:

The Child Americus, violinist, Mr. and Mrs. Correll, and J. H. Stone, vocalists, and Professor J. Speight, violinist and musical director, are playing at Central Park Oakland, Cal.

The Mercury editor did not read his FIGARO very carefully or he would have perceived they were only engaged for one Sunday at Badger's Grand Central Park.

Mrs Yeamans and child Jennie have been engaged at the Grand Opera House next season.

We make the following extracts from a letter received from Wm. Painter, at present traveling with O. W. Noyes's Crescent City Circus, it is dated Tullahoma, Tenn., June 5th:

We travel by railroad. One large engine and 16 cars transport us all. All the people except the business men and performers stop in cars. Two nigger cooks and 4 nigger waiters, astonish their bowels three times a day. They have also bunks to sleep in, and many times they fare better than us all. Eight men are ahead of the show to work it up. "What extravagance" says George Bartholomew." Yesterday in Shelbyville, receipts two thousand dollars, still our business has not been good as expected, because money is scarce at this season of the year in the cotton states. Miss Zadie Zelma is here, she manages in the concert. Our balloon man landed in the Tennessee river and was drowned. We expect to show in Baltimore on the 4th of July, when all our show shops, candy stands, gambling tricks, auctioneer fakes, etc., are in motion. It looks like a young town turned loose. I send you one of our country programmes, but since this was published we have engaged the Zantello Troupe—two young men and

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco. DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospital in London, the LOCK, he has re-opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand where he can always be found. DR. TOZER has for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of disease generally known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS. DR. TOZER is in every way responsible, binding himself to effect a permanent CURE, or making no charge. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice and medicine will be charged for medicine only. The MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at the office. Price $5 per box. Full direction on each box, sent by express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertising Quacks who make it a practice to publish false affidavits and other false references, but refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed to cure.

What H. Greeley

THINKS ABOUT THEM.—WHILST HE WAS sojourning in one of our Eastern cities he stopped at a first-class Hotel. In the morning he stated that he never slept so well before. When the landlord informed him that M. MURPHY made all his SPRING MATTRESSES, "then," said Greeley, "never change your UPHOLSTERER." "Alas!" said the landlord, with a very heavy sigh, "he is now in SAN FRANCISCO, No. 7 POWELL, near Market street, where he MAKES and REPAIRS SPRING MATTRESSES and the plan he has adopted for tying Springs will make them last for years." my20 1m Figaro's Ajisms.

A man very seldom begins to "look after his health" until he has lost it.

It is a remarkable fact that a man will take a great deal of trouble to gain an appetite, and when he has done so he is not satisfied until he has got rid of it.

Your wife does not give you a piece of her mind with the object of increasing your peace of mind.

When you meet a man who "knows it all," hold your tongue. He has left nothing for you to know.

Some men would try to hurry up the hens and make them lay, and then cackle over the eggs as if half the credit belonged to them.

The mingled sweet and sour of love are expressed in the word sweetheart, as pronounced by the Cockney: "sweet-tart.

It is doubtful whether the invitation, "Suffer little children, etc.," would be accepted in a right spirit by San Francisco hoodlums.

When a woman says "I don't care," she is breaking her heart.

No Encore Necessary.

It appears that it is the custom, in some of the theatres in Moscow, for the performers to converse quite familiarly and confidentially, during the progress of the entertainment, with the audience assembled. A short time ago, when Offenbach's "Belle Helene" was being given, the box-on-the-ear which Helen gives to Menelaus was delivered in such a rattling and effective style, that the audience enthusiastically demanded an "encore." This demonstration did not, it seems find a ready supporter in Menelaus, the recipient of the blow, for, turning to some of the loudest applauders, he said, "Gentlemen no encore is necessary, I assure you, as Helen has a heavy hand.

Unpoetical.

An exchange says:—

On Thursday night, June 6th, at Pittsburg, Pa., Emilie Limberger, a young and beautiful girl who had been employed as Mad. Jananschek's dresser, committed suicide by taking morphine. She loved Frederick Pilot, Jananschek's business agent, but he did not reciprocate. She left behind her the following declaration in writing: "I took my life on this 5th day of June, 1872, for the man I love. I love a dear man and nobody can tear him from me, and this man is Mr. Fred. Pilot."

Who could love a girl called Limburger? Phew!

Boys Will be Boys.

At New Harmony, Ind., youth, inebriated, thirsting for gore, tore his sister's pet canary limb from wing and devoured it raw. He then descended to the cellar and pitched coits, using pies for implements. Twenty-five dollars covered the damage.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

A Brutal Suggestion.

The author of "Country Homes," says: I know a young dressmaker who persuaded a neighbor to lend her money enough to make the first payment on a sewing-machine. She found all the dressmaking she could do, at double her usual price per day, and she began to save money. Your wife may not be able to do much housework, but she can run a sewing-machine with ease. In a few months she would save enough to pay for an extra servant, and pay for the sewing machine also. She could make all your pants, vests, etc., besides her own clothes, and thus save enough from tailors' and dressmakers' bills to pay for the machine. My advice is to every young lady who has only a few dollars in money, to expend it towards purchasing a good sewing-machine. We think this suggestion is likely to excite some little indignation. Buy your wife a sewing-machine and "she can make all your pants, vests, coats, etc., besides her own clothes!" Beware young ladies of the young man who, while he is courting you makes you a present of a sewing machine. He has an eye to saving his tailors' bills. Since the publication of that abominable paragraph there are many who say, "Can you love me dearest?" "Will you be Mine?" "Have you a sewing-machine?" all in the same breath. Buy your wife a sewing machine and keep her at it. When she has made all your pants, coats, shirts, vests, etc., she can make some for your friends and you can swap them off for cigars and whisky. The ladies must love the author of "Country Homes" for his kind suggestion.

Sabbath Breaking.

Here is a terrible warning to boys who go upon Sunday School picnics. The other day a lad named Moore, of Monroe, Mich., went on one. He smoked a cigar, which made him sick. He then threw himself on the wet grass, and was attacked with fever and ague, which shook the life out of him. The moral of this is obvious: Boys who go to Sunday school picnics should not smoke unless they know how, for if they do they may die, and then they are sure to get their names printed in all the religious papers, and have themselves held up as a warning for future daring and disobedient boys. It is bad enough to die, but to be obituaried in a religious paper is still worse.

Complimenting an Actress.

Our agreeable friend Mrs. —— entertained me with anecdotes of all interesting folks. Among others she told me of a famous actress in Rome, who gained great admiration from Lord —— and the Colonnas, who vied with one another in the number and magnificence of the bouquets they threw her. At last Lord —— tied his flowers up with gold chains! Another gentleman showed his affections by presenting her with bracelets blessed by the Pope, and on her departure procured masses to be said on her behalf, sending her the receipts of the priests!

The Last New Song.

Mary bought a Hoosier Trap
And set it on the shelf,
And every time she took it down
You know how it is yourself.

J. Armstrong, Manufacturer, 240 sixth st. L

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city — English breakfast tea — Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeister, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. Over 650,000 in use; 250,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolising all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens, H

The Post Office.

After going to the Post Office for your letters, go to the great repository of White & Baner, pioneer newsdealers, for your papers.

A Wonderful Metal, and what to do with it.

The Washington Critic says: "A valuable and wonderful metal, appropriately called Sterling metal, is now being manufactured near Hartford. It is harder even than cast steel, is not affected by air or earth, and can be cast with perfect ease into any form. Preparations are being made to use it for works of sculpture, and specimens are to be sent to the principal bronze founders of Europe." If anyone "can cast with perfect ease" any metal that becomes harder than steel, and is imperishable; we think the best thing the manufacturers of such metal can do is to establish an immense type foundry, and supply all the news paper and printing offices in the country with type made from it. There is more money in it thus applied, than there would be in supplying "Sterling Metal" to all the bronze founders in the world. Hurry along the "Sterling Imperishable Type, harder than steel!" We want a new dress.

Reasons Demanded.

A near sighted gentleman met an acquaintance one afternoon, whom he saluted by name. "That ain't my name," protested the other. "That ain't your name," repeated the saluter, with some asperity. "Certainly not," said the stranger. "What's the reason it ain't?" demanded the near-sighted gentleman, with a severe look. But not having prepared himself for such a question, the abashed stranger shrank away, and finally answered: "I'm blowed if I know; but I can prove it."

A Small Giantess.

Anna Swan the Nova Scotia ginantess, who is married to giant Bates, had an 18 pound baby recently, 28 inches in length. It was born dead, and was of the female persuasion.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam-and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senats to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senats are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the Bivalve, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Next to "Panchon," "Little Barefoot" is the most popular of all the plays in which Miss Maggie Mitchell appears. As a matter of course it drew a large and fashionable audience last night and Miss Mitchell in the character of Amry played upon the sensibilities of the auditors and moved them to smiles and tears at her will But a few nights more remain of the management of this famous actress, and all will be anxious to see her in the play which is known as the companion piece to "Panchon." "Little Barefoot" will be played this evening and probably through the week.

The Alhambra.

Last night after a capital first part and interlude which gave the greatest satisfaction to all present, the screaming burlesque of "Divorce on the Half Shell "was presented. In this amusing travestie of one of the most popular pieces of the day, Add Ryman was very funny as the jealous Alfred Benjamin A-drinks; Sam Rickey full of fun as Benjamin De Woolf De Witt, and Billy Sweatman and Justin Robinson as the charming Lu and Fanny Ten Eyes were particularly good. E. N. Slocum, Lew Simmons, and others played their respective parts to perfection and the piece made such a hit that it will be played for many nights to come.

California Theatre.

This theatre was absolutely thronged last night, every inch of room in dress-circle, parquet, family circle and gallery being occupied, and many standing through a play divided into six acts. "Julius Cæsar" has never been presented on this coast nearly so well as it was last night. The best monument to Shakespeare is the production of his plays in all the costly trappings which scenic artistes can devise to cause themmind to realise more fully the time and place of the action. This was done last night. The Senate Chamber, with its seats of massive marble, was an admirable reproduction of one of the institutions of old Rome and the spacious forum was by the art of that fine scenic artist, Mr. Potter, represented with admirable fidelity, the perspective being wonderfully good. The stage was well filled with supernumeraries in correct costumes, and their hearty shouts given in unison sounded much better than the feeble applause of the usual crowd of nine or ten often considered enough to represent the citizens of Rome. The banners, eagles, and insignia were very fine and the processions were well arranged. So much for the manner in which the play was put on the stage. Lawrence Barrett on making his appearance as Cassius received a hearty round of applause We spoke in terms of the highest commendation of Mr. Barrett's acting in this character before he went East, and there received the endorsement of the critics of New York, and have only to repeat what we then said: that a more perfect realization of the lean and hungry Cassius cannot be found. Mr. Barrett is a little more set in his delivery and in his acting than he was two years ago, and his strong, sometimes false accentuation of syllables is no improvement on his former method. "Ce—lossus" is one instance of Mr. Barrett's murdering a word with wrong emphasis. John McCullough as Brutus is as acceptable a realisation of that character as is Mr. Barrett of Cassius; he played it splendidly throughout last night, and with Mr. Barrett received a recall. Geary Edwards is a capital Marc Antony, his soliloquy over the body of Cæsar in the Senate, was most feelingly delivered, and gained for him a most enthusiastic call before the curtain. In the next act, after the oration over the body of Cæsar, Mr. Edwards was again recalled, and again bowed his acknowledgements. Altogether this sterling actor achieved a triumph last night which must have gratified him much, as it assuredly did his many friends. John Wilson as Cæsar read his lines with good discretion, and filled the role well. All engaged in the representation of this noble tragedy showed that their souls were in their work, and did their very best. Walter Leman as Casca made his points exceedingly well E. J. Buckley as Octavius Cæsar, W. A. Mestayer as Trebonius, Edward Leathes as Ligarius, Owen Marlowe as Decius Brutus, and Ebed Plympton as Metellus Cimber were all good, and George French gained applause for the clever manner in which he played Servius. Miss Minnie Walton, who is always pleasing in page parts, was charming as Lucius. The parts of Portia and Calphurnia were played by Miss Helen Tracy and Imogene Van Dyke respectively. Of course "Julius Cæsar" could not run eight weeks here as it did at Booth' Theatre, New York, but we may hope that during the five nights it is to be retained on the stage the attendance will not fall off, as another opportunity of seeing this tragedy produced in such a style and with so good a cast may not occur for a long time. To-night John McCullough will take the character of Marc Antony, and Henry Edwards will play Brutus.

Bella Union.

The surprising performances of Gregory and Talbot on the horizontal bars; the Reynolds Bros. in song and dance; Marie Gaugain in a graceful dance; Johnny Toers in first part, interlude and afterpiece: J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong in amusing Dutch acts, and the extravaganza of "The Female Swimmers; or, Grounds for a Divorce," are some of the attractions offered to-night.

American Theatre.

A fine programme of songs, dances, tableaux, amusing negro acts, and gymnastic feats is given at this house. The performance concludes with the play of "The Drunkard," in which J. H. Foster does some clever acting as Joe Morgan; Harry Dorse causes much fun as Billy Button; Clara Starr is very good as Mrs. Morgan, and Louise Somers plays the part of Mary very well. There is a little of everything in the bill at the American.

WHAT THE GIRLS SAID ABOUT THE NEW BONNET.

A foolish little maiden bought a foolish little bonnet,
With a ribbon and a feather, and a bit of lace upon it.
And that the other maidens of the little town might know it
She thought she'd go to meeting the next Sunday, just to show it.

But though the little bonnet was scarce larger than a dime,
The getting of it settled proved to be a work of time:
So when 'twas fairly tied, all the bells had stopped their ringing,
And when she came to meeting, sure enough the folks were singing.

So this foolish little maiden stood at the door;
And she shook her ruffles out behind, and smoothed them down before,
'Hallelujah! hallelujah!" sang the choir above her head,—
"Hardly knew you!" were the words she thought they said.

This made the little maiden feel so very, very cross,
That she gave her little mouth a twist, her little head a toss;
For she thought the very hymn they sang was all about her bonnet.
With the ribbon, and the feather, and the bit of lace upon it,

And she would not wait to listen to the sermon or the prayer,
But pattered down the silent street and hurried up the stair,
Till she'd reached her little bureau, and in a handbox on it
Had hidden, safe from critic's eye, her foolish little bonnet.

Which proves, my little maidens, that each of you will find
In every Sabbath service but an echo of your mind;
And that the little head that's filled with silly little airs
Will never get a blessing from sermons or from prayers.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence upon Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GRAND AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the object of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above —so crowded indeed as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was conducted by clerks in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 50, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 85, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$30 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to oblivion," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "a transient gore a mood," while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly smiles from as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not exposing too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the naval battle days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

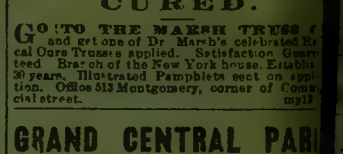
DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE



N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco. DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS, and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospitals in London, the LOCK, he has opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand where he can always be found. DR. TOZER has for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of diseases generally known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS. DR. TOZER is in every way responsible, binding himself to effect a permanent CURE, or making no charge. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice or medicine will be charged for medicine only. The MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at the office. Price $5 per box. Full direction on each box, sent by Express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertising Quacks who make it a practice to publish in Sidewise and other false references, but refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed

Change the Name.

The San Joaquin Valley Argus has a correspondent who writes from Snelling and enlarges upon the beauties of that place. He says:

Snelling certainly is the parterre of Merced. The garden of Mrs. Dr. Fitzhugh is the oldest, and consequently contains the greatest variety of highly cultivated plants, consisting of trees, vines and shrubs, and very many roses and other beautiful flowers. Mrs. Fitzhugh, although in delicate health, has devoted many hours of labor in the arrangement and cultivation of her flower beds, and she is well repaid for her exertions by the pleasure she enjoys in gazing upon their exquisite beauty and inhaling their delicious odors.

Call the place Smelling, and write another letter on "the delights of Smelling."

Stocks Up, Stocks Down.

There is a whole sermon in the following, which we clip from the Gold Hill News:

A San Francisco chambermaid recently gave a month's warning, alleging that she had made $200,000 in stocks, and was no longer dependent on her broom for support. —Exchange.

We are grieved to record that before the month was up the aforesaid chambermaid was flat broke, that nice little pile being swept off smoother than any broom could do it by a little old "buyer thirty" investment in Savage.

Colonel of the Black Guards.

Tennie Claflin has at last reached the summit of her ambition. She is now entitled to wear the breeches, sport any quantity of gold lace, flourish a sword, and give the command of "forward march." She has been elected Colonel of a regiment of New York colored soldiers, but not without opposition, there being another Richmond in the field, and whose defeat caused considerable of an uproar when the vote was announced.

Consequential Damages.

JUDGE—I fine Tim Leary $5 for assault and battery on Pat Maloy.

PAT MALOY—But, your honor, I want more damages. He blacked me eye, and if I had been invited to a tea-party I couldn't have gone.

JUDGE—The Court knows nothing about consequences. You must carry your case to Geneva.

Sarcastic.

A Cincinnati correspondent returning from the East, was about to file himself away in one of the pigeon holes of a sleeping car, when the somnolent passengers were aroused by the voice of a huge Kentuckian, who holding up a pillow between his thumb and finger, roared out to the attendant, "I say, you boy, come back and take this away; "What for sah?" "Because I'm afraid the darned thing will get into my ear!"

Stupid Stuff.

some one is writing bosh for the Call under the title of "Charcoal Sketches." "The Little Vagrant," which appeared in last Sunday's issue, is an absurd picture of the California boy, utterly false and unnatural.

Got Even.

The New York Dispatch says: "A young gentleman who wears good clothes, curls his hair, and waxes his moustache, is in the habit of standing in front of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and peering impudently into the faces of ladies who pass. He met his more than match the other afternoon. A very neatly dressed and modest appearing young lady was passing. Of course, our gallant friend had to look her insultingly in the face. She stopped and gazed at him with the greatest apparent interest—admiration and wonder were mingled in her gaze. He stood it for a few months unblushingly, and then said: "You appear to find something to please you in my looks." "It can speak too," said the lady in amazement. "Can speak!" he said. "Why, what the deuce do you take me for?" "Ain't you one of the monkeys that was recently at the Central Park menagerie? If you ain't I don't know what to cal you." The last few few days the neighborhood of the Fifth Avenue Hotel hasn't seen much of that interesting youth.

A Noodle.

"Emma, my love!" said a much enamored, newly-married husband, "you have such pretty feet that I wonder you do not wear short dresses." "I declare, George," she replied, "you're a greater noodle than I thought you were. Don't you see that if I wear long dresses, I can have an excuse to lift my skirts much higher than I dare wear them if made short." Exit wife for a walk. Husband sits down to reflect upon the subtleties of feminine strategy.

Discouraging to Temperance Men.

The body of a dead horse, closely followed by the body of a dog, an old coat, a lot of onions and a dozen heads of cabbage, has been seen floating toward the Detroit water works, and the Free Press threatens to abandon the temperance society.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Over 650,000 in use; 200,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. *

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Women Conventions.

A Western paper, speaking of women's clubs, says: "Women generally have an instinct against organizations composed of woman only, and they are right; no great good can ever be effected by them, because, sooner or later they fall into the hands of that one among them who has the strongest will, the greatest spirit of appropriation, the most persistent selfishness—the one, in short, who is most like a man—and the whole machine becomes her own, and is used for her individual purposes."

An Expert.

TEACHER—What bird did Noah send out of the ark?

SMALL BOY—Dove, sir.

TEACHER—Very well. But I should have thought that some of you big boys would have known that.

TALL PUPIL—Please, sir, that boy ought to know 'cause his father's a bird ketcher.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game.
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Everyone seems delighted with "Little Barefoot" and Miss Maggie Mitchell's performance of Amy. The demand, however, for the reproduction of "Jane Eyre" is so great that the management have consented to present it once more tomorrow evening. On Friday evening Miss Maggie Mitchell will take her farewell benefit and make er last appearance but one.

The Alhambra.

"Divorce on the Half Shell" is full of fun and all who have seen the original piece should enjoy this mirth-provoking travestie. Master Donald Harold's sweet ballad, "Now Kiss Me Quick, Mamma," in the first part, draws much applause; J. Welch and J. Rice are capital in their song and dance business, and the performance throughout is pleasing.

California Theatre.

"Julius Cæsar" drew another large house last night. John McCullough gained his full share of applause in the character of Marc. Antony and read the speeches which occur in that part with good effect. Harry Edwards made a fine, manly Brutus and left nothing to be desired in his rendition of that role. Of the manner in which the other characters were performed we spoke at length in yesterday's issue. To-night John McCullough and Henry Edwards will resume the roles in which they respectively appeared on Monday.

Bella Union.

The Reynolds Brothers in song and dance; M'lle Marie Gaugain in a beautiful pas de deux with Miss Carrie Chapman; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong in new Dutch acts; Mat Kelly and J. Tuers in amusing acts, and Gregory and Talbo in wonderful feats, are some of the attractions offered at this lively place of amusement to-night.

American Theatre.

The classical tableaux under the supervision of Miss May Leroy, which were such a popular feature in the programme at this house, have been revived. New acts, songs and dances, will be produced to-night.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Edith O'Gorman's last lecture will be given on Wednesday evening, June 26th, at Pacific Hall and will be entitled "Mysteries of the Confessional, the Mass and Ceremonies," and will also answer the different slanderous reports published.

Platt's Hall.

To-morrow night Master J. Theo. Planel, the young California violinist and pianist, who went to Paris some time ago for the purpose of pursuing his musical studies, and has recently returned from the Conservatory, will give his first grand concert, in which he will be assisted by the Lafayette Philharmonic Society, Signora Bianchi, Signor Bianchi, L. Contini, Fulvio Rigo, Messrs. Schlotte and Schmidt, Professor G. Scott, and other celebrated artistes, who will appear in an excellent programme which may be seen on our first page. There will doubtless be a full assemblage of the lovers of music to welcome the young art ste home and note the improvement he has made.

City Gardens.

On Sunday, the festival and picnic of the Independent Order of S. F. O. I. C.'s will be held at these popular gardens. A grand open air concert will be given by the band from 12 to 2 P. M Herr Schlam has been engaged to give exhibitions in magic and sleight-of-hand in the Grand Pavilion, from 2 to 3. At 3 o'clock, the racing and athletic sports will be commenced on the level ground near the Lake. At eight o'clock the prizes will be awarded in the Grand Pavilion, the whole to conclude with a grand ball. Dancing in the lower pavilion all the afternoon. For full programme, which is published in FIGARO only, see advertisement in another column.

The Aimee Opera Troupe.

Among the passengers to arrive in this city tonight are the Aimee Opera Troupe; the most complete operatic company that ever visited this city. In spite of the immense expense attendant on the transportation of such a troupe to this far-off city, we understand that the price of admission will not be raised. The troupe commence their engagement on Monday next at the California Theatre, opening in Offenbach's "La Perichole. The box-sheet will be opened to morrow.

Benefit of J. H. Vinson.

On Sunday evening J. H. Vinson, who is a capital actor in such parts as Master Walter in "The Hunchback," the 'Old Guard,' and stage manager of long experience, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre. A fine entertainment will be presented on this occasion.

Owen Marlowe.

This clever actor and popular gentleman will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the California Theatre on Wednesday afternoon, July 10th. This testimonial is tendered him by John McCullough and members of the dramatic profession.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

When a couple of young people, strongly attached to each other, commence to eat onions, it is safe to pronounce them engaged.

New Style Jewelry.

Strangers and others contemplating making purchases of Jewelry should inspect A. Hirschman's elegant stock of new styles of jewelry, watches and silverware, at 133 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post. Everything at lowest cash rates. F

Sam Moore,

Formerly of Russ House Carriages, can be found in front of Coleman Bros. clothing establishment, southwest corner Bush and Montgomery sts., or Dexter Stables. Carriage orders left at either place promptly attended to day or night, at reduced rates. BG

Horace Greeley.

Horace Greeley, though careless about his hat and coat, is particular as to his linen. He wears well-fitting shirts, such as are made at the PIONEER SHIRT MANUFACTORY, 327 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush. tf

New York Dry Goods Store.

513 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

Well Schooled.

A bishop was examining the children in one of the Sunday Schools in his diocese, and among other questions he asked if any of them could repeat the parable of the good Samaritan. After a slight pause, a small boy, with a very tight jacket and very short pantaloons, held up his hand.

"I am glad to see that one of you can remember the parable," said the bishop; "and now, my boy, let me hear you repeat it."

The small boy arose and commenced quite glibly:

"A certain man went down from Jerusalem and fell—and fell—" Here his memory began to fall him. "And fell—and fell—and fell by the roadside, and the thorns sprang up and choked him."

Severe Criticism.

Art critic (who having "liquored up" considerably, fails to observed that as yet he is only in the lobby of the sale-room, and is standing before a mirror, which, purchased at a previous sale, still retains its ticket)—Ah! portrait 'f gen'lman, I sh'pose—(biccl writes)—drawing exsh'cr'ble—great want 'taste in the choice of subject!—fit only for a place in tap-room of a public-house!

Hard on the Trumpeters.

The Boston Jubilee is conducted on strictly temperate principles, no wines nor liquors being allowed with the single exception of lager beer, which is to be allowed to foreign musicians exclusively. Native trumpeters are naturally indignant at being deprived of their horns.

Didn't Know Much About Milking.

A theoretical farmer was asked to milk a cow down in Texas. He immediately procured the assistance of six men, threw the cow down, turned her over on her back with legs in the air, and then he tried to milk her with a clothes-pin.

Foreign and Domestic Drugs.

Assayers, Bakers, Confectioners, Hair Dressers, Dyers, and all manufacturers needing druggist's articles, will find it to their advantage to examine the cash price list of Stroh, Schmidt & Co., importers, (successors to Hug & Schmidt) 535 Commercial st., one door below Montgomery. Agents for Horton's Tobacco Amidote. M

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 128 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. x

Elegant Jewelry.

Do You Know

The leader of the California Theatre orchestra, has dedicated his last and best song, "Return to Me," to Miss Minnie Walton. M. Gray, publisher.

Advice to House-keepers,

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 9 8 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. 9

Good Things.

Those who can appreciate anything rich, luscious and piquante, are invited to call in at 330 Bush street, nearly opposite the Alhambra Theatre, and try Jones & Schroeder's celebrated crab chowder, served from 12 M. to 12 at night. GA

TO BABY.

BY MRS. ESTER A. BENEDICT.

"Come to my arms, my baby!
My bonnie beautiful girl
My little white lamb with the restless feet,
My blossom of blossoms, dainty and sweet,
My lily, my rose, my pearl!

"Come to my arms, my baby!
The dews are over the grass,
That nod to the buttercups, gold as your hair,
And the hands of the shadows, purple and bare
Are parted to let you pass.

"Whither away, my baby!
Kissing your wee white hand,
And tossing it back, like a flake of snow,
Toward the roses clustering low
By the terrace where I stand?

"Come to my arms, my baby!
My bonnie beautiful girl!
For my lips are heavy with kisses sweet
For your dimpled face and your dimpled feet,
My lily, my rose, my pearl!"

D. C. Anderson.

"Uncle Dave"—who has just taken his farewell of the New York stage, writes to a friend that he will visit San Francisco in August.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gilray, The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to a machines using two threads. The lock-stitch on the other hand, making the most of their "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to c[illegible] the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and [illegible] every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public, that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, these prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

The issue of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 86, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, sabine, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $3 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$30 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to do console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "so transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, who are solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to expect that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long range, pushed their ships alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—(New York Tribune April 18.

The American Giant's watch.

Captain Bates has been ordering a new watch of the "gigantic" pattern, to suit himself. It is an English lever, Keyler's hunting repeater, and is of the highest order of workmanship throughout. The case weighs eight ounces, gorgeously engraved with emblematic insignia representing the Goddess of Liberty upholding the national flag, on which the stars and stripes are enamelled. Such an immense watch requires of course a guard chain of proportionable dimensions to "fix" it, and a chain weighing twelve ounces and measuring six feet in length has been manufactured. The chain is also emblematic of the Captain's nationality. This purchase will be a valuable addition to the show, already enriched by the presence of the Kentucky Giant, and that monstrosity whom royalty delighteth to honor, the two-headed nightingale, and Miss Jean.

Really, Now!

The Woman's Journal says that a Newark life assurance company refuses to insure a married woman's life at any price. The reason, of course, is that poisoning women by men in order to collect insurance upon their lives has become too common to take the risk attendant thereupon. Until we read the Woman's Journal we thought it was quite the other way, and that more husbands were poisoned by their wives than wives by their husbands.

Pile on the Agony.

One of the down-trodden in Indiana applied for a divorce recently, and the Judge intimated his intention to decide against her. The lady, alarmed, began to shed tears, and her dignified counsel, edging his chair close to hers, whispered: "That is right! cry—cry like the devil, and you will get your decree." In less than ten minutes she was made a femme sole.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senats to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Bonifacs of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senats are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. Thrilling Scene.

The wreck of a railroad train near Erie, Pa., a few days ago, was accompanied by the following incidents, described by the Titusville Courier:

As the incident happened about two o'clock in the morning, and the night being cloudy and dark, the confusion that reigned must be imagined, for it cannot be described.

It was speedily discovered that a cage containing two royal Asiatic lions was among the wreck, and the terrified performers were not long in ascertaining that these two monarchs of the jungle were loose and unharmed. This fact added to the terror of the scene, and a stampede for safety immediately ensued. Prof. Chas. White, the celebrated lion tamer, alone remained undismayed, immediately began perfecting arrangements to secure his pets, a feat, as may be supposed not easily accomplished.

Providing himself with an ordinary rawhide, Professor White advanced towards the spot where the two brutes stood, but he had not approached very near them when he was greeted with a terrific roar by the male which broke the stillness of the night in a very startling manner. It meant business and as the great beast stood erect lashing his tawny sides with his tail, it was evident for a time that he was monarch of all he surveyed.

The little kitten or baby lion partook of the general excitement and mewed piteously. At times the lioness would seize it in her mouth and look furiously around, as if upon the point of leaping into the darkness in search of a safe retreat, and for a time things looked squally. The lion tamer was at work, and procuring a stout rope he succeeded in throwing it over the head of the male lion and in a few minutes he was securely fastened to a tree. The female, however, with a perverseness peculiar to her sex, and perhaps infuriated by the loss of two of her "kittens," was not so tractable, and showed fight, but Professor White's determined manner soon brought her to terms, and slipnooseing the younger, an slowly drawing it into an empty cage, the mother was induced to follow, and thus were both the ferocious beasts secured, and all immediate danger from them was over. The other animals were captured without much trouble, and at about ten o'clock the show arrived in Corry, where an immense crowd of people were patiently awaiting their coming.

Free and Easy.

The marriage ceremony in Japan consists of the man and woman drinking from the same cup. Divorce is not much more elaborate than marriage. The husband gives the wife a piece of paper with a few lines of characters on it, and the knot is untied. A translation of the lines is given by a traveller as follows: "I no likee you—I thinkee you likee other man more better. I give you a piece of paper. You can go." Victoria Woodhull ought to go to Japan.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Very Funny.

An Eastern exchange says:

A somewhat laughable "ring" has been formed in California where this year's grain crop is very large. Knowing this fact, some wily gentlemen have by purchase bagged the entire stock of grain sacks, so that the farmer's are at their wits' end to know how to bestow their grain.

That's very funny isn't it? Such a joke on the farmers! Ah ha! ah! And of course bread will be dearer, and the poor people won't be able to eat so much, and the gentleman who formed the sack "ring" will be amused at that for they must have their joke.

"Dolly Varden Dumplings," with "Polonaise Sauce," are the latest novelty in a city restaurant.

Miss Nilsson will have two hundred pounds sterling a night at Drury Lane.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little stoners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The management, complying with a very general request for its reproduction, will present the drama of "Jane Eyre" once more this evening. To-morrow evening, Miss Maggie Mitchell will take her farewell benefit, and make her last appearance but one.

California Theatre.

Julius Cæsar, with its magnificent scenes of Rome in its glory, and fine distribution of characters, is drawing good houses. To-night, John McCullough will play Marc Antony, and Henry Edwards will appear as Brutus. Lawrence Barrett will present his artistic delineation of the character of Cassius; to-morrow night he will take his farewell benefit.

The Alhambra.

Among the many attractive features in the programme for to-night are the acts of "The Rival Policy Agents" and "In and Out," banjo solos by Lew Simmons, and the screaming burlesque of "Divorce on the Half Shell." P. W. Slocum's great sensation entitled "The Great City; or, Across the Plains," is underlined for speedy production.

Bella Union.

Arthur Gregory and George Talbot draw crowds nightly to see their really wonderful performances on the horizontal bars. George and Charles Reynolds appear in "Golden Showers;" Mlle Marie Gangais and Miss Carrie Chapman in a pas de deux; J. H. Larkin and Miss Carrie Armstrong in "Habbiest Gouble Oud;" others in various specialties, and the female swimmers appear in the new sketch of "Grounds for a Divorce."

American Theatre.

Classical tableaux, shoo fly, "Inside and Outside Servants," "The Fenian Soother," and the drama of "The Drunkard," are the features of the bill for this evening.

Platt's Hall.

This evening, Master J. Theo. Planel, the young California violinist and pianist, who went to Paris some time ago for the purpose of pursuing his musical studies, and has recently returned from the Conservatory, will give his first grand concert, in which he will be assisted by the Lafayette Philharmonic Society, Signora Bianchi, Signor Bianchi, L. Contini, Fulvio Rigo, Messrs. Schlotte and Schmidt, Professor G. Scott, and other celebrated artistes, who will appear in an excellent programme which may be seen on our first page. There will doubtless be a full assemblage of the lovers of music to welcome the young artiste home and note the improvement he has made.

City Gardens.

The First Social Concert and Ball, under the supervision of a competent committee, will be given at the Grand Pavilion to-morrow evening. The programme of concert music by Schmidt & Schlotte's Band embraces selections from "The Barber," "Ernani," "Trovatore," "Lucrezia," "Martha," and other operas. Tickets $1, to be had of the Committee only.

Capt. Badger' Grand Central Park.

On Sunday there will be in addition to other attractions at this popular pleasure resort a great acrobatic and gymnastic entertainment by the Lascelles Brothers, all stars in the profession. The standing attractions of the museum, menagerie, skating, boats on the lake, gymnasium, etc., draw many visitors during the week, and doubtless on Sunday thousands will enjoy a day in the country, trip by boat and rail and a fine entertainment, the whole cost of which is covered by four bits, the admission to the Park and all the amusements being 25 cents, while a return ticket costs only another two bits.

Fancy Dress Ball.

There will be a carnival and fancy dress ball by McCarty Brothers and Sisters' juvenile dancing classes at Union Hall this evening. The parties given by these professors of the calisthenic art are always highly successful, and this will prove no exception to the rule.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Food.

Some diet sharp says those persons whose diet is rather coarse, as bread of unbolted flour, large fruit eaters, bread and milk people in the country, etc., are exempt from the pains of dyspepsia. Those sustained mainly on very fine, concentrated delicate food, washed down with tea, are gaunt in form, weak in muscle, and always taking medicine. Their food should have more bulk.

Squarza's Branch.

Mr. A. Bona, the proprietor of the old established Squarza Saloon on Leidesdorff street, is fitting up a new and elegant saloon at 317 Kearny street, just above Bush, which will be opened next week. The fame of the unrivalled Squarza punches will insure the branch a good run of business, for there are no punches so popular as Squarza's.

New Style Jewelry.

Strangers and others contemplating making purchases of Jewelry should inspect A. Hirschman's elegant stock of new styles of jewelry, watches and silverware, at 133 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post. Everything at lowest cash rates.

Sam Moore,

Formerly of Bass House Carriages, can be found in front of Coleman Bros. clothing establishment, southwest corner Bush and Montgomery sts., or Dexter Stables. Carriage orders left at either place promptly attended to day or night, at reduced rates.

Horace Greeley.

Horace Greeley, though careless about his hat and coat, is particular as to his linen. He wears well-fitting shirts, such as are made at the PIONEER SHIRT MANUFACTORY, 327 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush.

New York Dry Goods Store.

313 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York.

Senseless Blunderers.

It would not be easy, says the New York Mail, to estimate how much false information is disseminated by the blunders of printers. A special dispatch to a Western paper tells of the arrest of a mail robber "upon whose person were found rifled letters and two nail kegs." Now a person unused to the peculiar humor of the type-setter might wonder as to why the fellow should be lugging nail kegs about with him, but the editor, who has often been the victim of such jokes, sees that mail keys were the articles captured. Of course he does.

Joe Jefferson's Eyes.

The numerous friends of Mr. Joseph Jefferson will be gratified to know that the operation which was performed on his eyes at his residence at Hobokus, New Jersey, by Prof. Reuling, of Baltimore, on the 13th, promises to be entirely successful, and that the Doctor is hopeful that when the next theatrical season opens Mr. Jefferson will be able to resume the stage with a better pair of eyes than he has had for many years.

Goodness Gracious.

We clip from a religious weekly: All honest and graceful dress should follow, as far as possible, the shape of the body as devised and found good by the great Artificer.' Silk tights would be about the thing, according to that revered gentleman's notions.

Exit Dolly Varden.

A Eastern exchange says:

Dolly Varden seems to have died out as suddenly as she came into popularity. At the last race-meeting at Jerome Park, which was attended by over 2,000 of the most fashionable ladies of New York, not a single Dolly Varden could be seen.

Foreign and Domestic Drugs.

Assayers, Bakers, Confectioners, Hair Dressers, Dyers, and all manufacturers needing druggist's articles, will find it to their advantage to examine the cash price list of Stroh, Schmidt & Co., importers, (successors to Hay & Schmidt) 535 Commercial st., one door below Montgomery. Agents for Horton's Tobacco Amidote.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Elegant Jewelry.

Hirschman, at 133 Kearny street, is attracting particular attention to his windows by the elegant display of jewelry therein. Hirschman is an artist in his line, and should be Court Jeweler.

Do You Know

Advice to Housekeepers,

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs.

ARCTIC EXPEDITIONS.

The Cincinnati Weekly Times has a poetical contributor who would not approve of M. Pavy's expedition in search of the North Pole, and who quite differs with Judge Dwinelle as to the practical use of the discovery of a Northwest Passage. She expresses herself as follows:

IS IT WORTH THE PRICE?

BY ETHEL LYNN.

More men in search of the icy pole,
The mythic staff around which we roll.
More treasure, ships, and lives may be
All sacrificed to the Polar Sea.

What if they find both the Pole and Sea?
What better than shall earth's children be?
Who wants a home that he needs must share
With a friendly seal or polar bear.

Silence and glaciers, snows and fogs,
Train-oil and darkness, and wolfish dogs;
And though Aurora may gild the night,
One needs must freeze while he sees the sight.

No ship on the errands of Commerce bent
Would cross by the new-found continent;
No church will rival the iceberg's spire,
No chimney shelters a household fire.

"Science?" I know. As the old wife waits,
Going backward down to the Blessed Gates,
Looking earthward yet for some tokenets
Of the brave Sir John, whom she can't forget.

Think you, all the charts that explorers gave
Can hide from her that unsodded grave?
Think you the wives of the missing men
Can say God speed to the search again?

There shall be new tales of belesgured ships,
Amid toppling bergs and the ice-floe "nips;"
Of men homesick for the meadow sod,
And the sound of bells in the house of God.

Snow-blind, and faint with the ceaseless stare,
They shall stumble on through the summer's glare;
Weary and worn for the vanished light,
They shall fight the gloom of the Arctic night.

Is there life to aid, or soul to save,
E'en a cairn to lay on a brave man's grave;
Is there wrong to right, or a heart to bless,
Shall the search go on? Yes, in God's name, Yes.

But this: to outline on a chart anew,
Where a good ship carried her colors through,
To claim fresh fields of sterile ice
At such fearful cost—Is it worth the price?

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 649 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "The Dore Gallery," 250 full page engravings of Dore's greatest works, Dore's "Dante," and Dore's "Milton," all published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London and New York, "The Wilkie Gallery," engravings of Sir David Wilkie's best pictures, "The Gallery of Modern Sculpture," 81 full page steel engravings, original full size editions of "Hogarth," and the Caricatures of Gillray, The Clans of the Scottish Highlands," with engravings of the dresses, tartans, arms etc., colored by hand, Roberts' "Spain," twenty-five pictures painted in water colors, the only complete set on this coast. These books are bound in heavy morocco, with bevelled edges, and though costly are really cheap and profitable investments.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Oak Poisoning.

The scientific, certain cure discovered and practised at Dr. Bourne's Baths, No. 10 Masonic Temple. Entrance on Post street. No cure, no pay.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage Stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced. His charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT.

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claim upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invension of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complexity incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the fight into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, these prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, as any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

The kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 321 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of trying. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 69, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $16 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$23 50 each for the Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to reconcile them to the circumstance. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is no one consolation for the double-thread companies: there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quite relieved, while the object of their solicitation walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of sympathetic reasoning their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been vanquished, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machines, has delivered, in this sale and what has led to it, a second vote in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but this is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

Foreign Relattons.

The Chronicle is an out-and-out Grant paper. It says:

Rumor says Nellie Grant is engaged to marry a Scotch lord. We don't believe it. She ought to marry one of Queen Victoria's sons.

Grant being the reigning monarch in the United States, the Chronicle thinks that a marriage between Princess Nellie and one of the princes of England would strengthen our friendly relations with England. Some of the Grant papers, particularly the Chronicle, seem to look upon opposition to Grant as the crime of high treason, and would hear of an order for the beheading of Greeley with great pleasure. Until it is definitely settled that Grant is to remain President of the United States during his natural life and that his heirs shall succeed him, we do not think the marriage suggested by the Chronicle would be an even thing for England.

Libelled Ladies.

Mrs. Loomis writes to the same paper denying that she shook her fist at Mr. Meeker, and saying she couldn't shake her fist at anyone because she is a member of the Peace Society. What a pity it is it was not known before that these ladies were members of the Peace Society! They should wear badges.

Oyster Trade.

Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. Slavery in New Jersey.

A friend sends us a permit which is now used by the unfortunate married men of New Jersey:

PERMIT.

Permission is hereby granted by me, the lawful wife of ——, and I declare and witness by my own signature that my husband has the perfect right and liberty to drink as often as he chooses to drink, and what he chooses to drink, and I hereby relinquish all claims arising therefrom.

[SEAL.]

Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, passed February 22, 1872.

This act must have been passed in order to secure woman in her "rights." A little piece of paper like the one in our possession has often, no doubt, been used by a New Jersey woman to get her husband to do what she wished. We fancy we hear her say: "Get me a new bonnet and I'll give you a permit to get as drunk as you like." "Take me to the theatre and I'll give you a permit." An act somewhat similar to the one above mentioned was introduced during the last session of the California Legislature, but failed to pass. The women of New Jersey by this act are invested with too much power. Every man has been at some period of his existence dependant upon a woman for his drink, but it is very unpleasant to be so after one is weaned.

Maidenly Symptoms of Celibacy.

When a woman begins to drink her tea without sugar—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to read love stories abed—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to sigh on hearing of a wedding—that's a sign.

When a woman begins to have a little dog trotting after her—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to say that a servant has no business to have a sweetheart—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to refuse to tell her age—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to put her fingers before her mouth when talking to a man, for fear he should see that she is losing her teeth—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to go to bed with her stockings and a flannel night-cap on—that's a symptom.

When a woman begins to grumble about cold draughts and stops up the crevices in the doors and windows—that's a symptom.

Too Bad.

The Washington Critic of the 10th has the following:

A thief who is an admirer of fine jewelry burst in the window of Prigg's store yesterday and grabbed a number of articles which had attracted his fancy, but while making away with them he was stopped by an officer, who will doubtless introduce him to his honor, Judge Snell, this morning.

One "prig" robbing another Prigg is disgraceful. Prigg is a pretty name for a jeweller! "Prigg's jewelry," eh?

Can This be Thus?

Is it possible that the organ-grinder who used to afflict us every Saturday night has turned up in Hartford, Conn.? If so, we are happy to announce that he will never draw tears of bitter agony again from our eyes. A portion of the music-loving people of that city gathered together and took the malicious organist, tarred and feathered him, rode him on a rail, and then smashed and burned his long-suffering organ. Vengeance was slow in this case, but it was annihilating when it came.

The Last New Song.

Mary bought a Hoosier Trap
And set it on the shelf,
And every time she took it down
You know how it is yourself.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everythin the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. H

The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, an Francisco. C

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A Worthy Actor.

Mr. Sothern goes to London this Summer expressly to give a benefit performance for the general theatrical fund. He will sail on June 10th, and will act early in July. Sothern is an ornament to the honorable profession to which he belongs, and forms a pleasing contrast to the greedy, selfish stars who blaze with false fire in the theatrical firmament in this country. These "stars" revel in luxury, while the "actors" who support them get barely sufficient to keep body and soul together. We seldom hear their doing anything to relieve the necessities of their brother professionals when they are in want—they seldom do it. All honor to Mr. Sothern, who is an artist possessing real talent and a gentleman with a good heart.

Hasty Young Man.

In Cincinnati a couple of weeks ago a minister kissed a young lady formerly member of his church, and the kiss will in all probability cost him his life. A young man who had been waiting upon the young lady witnessed the affectionate kiss of the pastor, and becoming enraged, seized a hatchet and hacked the head of the divine in a terrible manner.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senats to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Jane Eyre" drew a large and fashionable audience last night. To-night Miss Maggie Mitchell, whose performances have given such pleasure to a large class of our citizens, will take her benefit and make her last appearances but one. To-morrow the last Maggie Mitchell matinee will be given, and to-morrow night this actress will make her last appearance.

California Theatre.

The fine tragedy of "Julius Cæsar," with its beautiful pictures of ancient Rome, will be performed to-night for the benefit of Lawrence Barrett. On this occasion Mr. Barrett will appear as Marc Antony, John McCullough as Cassius, and Henry Edwards as Brutus. It will be presented at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow night will be played for the last time.

The Alhambra.

The beautiful music and fine singing in the first part of the entertainment given at this house is much admired. In the interlude Welch and Rice are capital in song and dance; amusing acts are performed by Billy Sweetnam, Add Ryman, E. N. Slocum and Lew Simmons, and the very amusing burlesque of "Divorce" terminates the evening's entertainment. There will be the usual matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

This house has done a capital business throughout the week. The attractions are so numerous that all are pleased. Gregory and Talbot, the Reynolds Brothers, Marie Gougain, Johnny Tuers and the female swimmers will all appear.

American Theatre.

G. H. Foster, Harry Devee, Chris Matthews, Lou Somers, May Leroy, Eva Silva, Rose Vincent, Fanny Webster and a score of other favorites will appear to-night in a great bill, and the burlesque of "Julius Cæsar" will be produced.

J. B. Vinson's Benefit.

The programme for the complimentary benefit tendered to Mr. Vinson at the Metropolitan Theatre on Sunday evening, is a very attractive one. A great number of volunteers will appear. The bill in full appears on our first page, and presents an unusually good and varied programme of attractions.

The Aimee Opera Bouffe Season.

The box plan for the French season of Opera Bouffe at the California Theatre was opened yesterday, and such was the rush that nearly all the seats in the dress circle were taken for the first night in a few hours. The troupe is by far the best organized one that ever visited San Francisco, and the season, doubtless, will be the most brilliant we have ever had here. "La Perichole" will be given on Monday and Tuesday nights; "La Grande Duchesse," on Wednesday and Thursday, and "Barbe Bleue," on Friday and Saturday.

Platt's Hall.

A capital house assembled last night to welcome back the young violinist, Master J. Theo. Planel. The concert was a decided success. Master Planel proved by his admirable performance on the violin that he has made good use of the time he has devoted to study in Paris.

Union Hall.

The masquerade and fancy dress party last night by the junior classes of the dancing academy of McCarty, Bros. and Sisters was a very pleasant affair and was largely and fashionably attended.

California vs. California.

A base ball match between the nine in front of the footlights of the California Theatre, and the nine behind them, for it appears the theatre supports two clubs, will come off this afternoon at the Recreation Grounds. There is quite a revival going on in base ball matters at present.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A Boston Drummer.

Merchants in Pittsburgh keep cannon in front of their doors to keep Boston drummers away. But Yankee ingenity will overcome almost every difficulty. One dark night one of these drummers called down and loaded one of these canon with his goods. The next morning he stood opposite and yelled "Ya! ya!" at the man who owned the store until the man got mad, and fired the cannon off, sending the drummer's samples into the store opposite. That was his little game. He entered and demanded samples, and actually sold the man a bill of goods from these samples before he left the store.

Young ladies now usually carry two umbrellas on the promenade—one in the hand, a dainty thing of black lace and carved ivory, and the other for rain, being slung to the waist by two chains a la militaire.

New York Dry Goods Store.

Tobacco.

The English Anti-Tobacco society has issued a manifesto, which contains even less argument than King James' Counterblast, and will, of course, produce even less effect. The A. T. S. calls tobacco "that enemy to health, that dishoner to the Creator, that derogator from purity and sobriety, and that chief factor of disease in the present day." Until this document enlightened us, we were not aware that the Creator could be dishonored. Like everything else, the weed is an enemy to health, if used to excess. The assertion that it is the "chief factor of disease" is to absurd to require refutation. It is simply a bit of frantic declamation designed to prop a weak argument.

An Old University.

The University of Oxford, England, will celebrate its thousandth anniversary this year. Popular tradition assigns King Alfred the Great as its founder, about the middle of the ninth century. It is pretty well known that popular tradition lies in naming King Alfred the Great as the founder of Oxford University. The story held good for a long time, but has been disproved during the last ten years so thoroughly that it is scarcely worth telling.

The Fleeting Nature of Girl Love.

Two young girls at a boarding-school, devotedly attached to one another, finding that at the close of the term they were to be separated, concluded to take poison and die together rather than to live apart. It was accordingly done, but discovered by the teacher, powerful antidotes administered, and the girls lived. Each accused the other of treachery, and after a dreadful quarrel they separated the most bitter and deadly enemies.

If anything could account for Mr. Robert Hall, of Utica, N. Y., emerging from the second story of his boarding house without going through the formalities of the stairs, it was the presence of his four wives.

Advice to Housekeepers.

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

Ward's Statue of Shakspeare.

The N. Y. Tribune says:

Ward's Shakspeare is no thin-blooded, pale, slender-limbed man of mind, wasted by the action of thought, but one sturdy, robust, broad-shouldered and firmly knit. He stands firmly on his feet, and easily, as if it were no fatigue to stand. His limbs are strongly modelled like those of a man who walks abroad in the world of Nature and society, and finds himself more at home in the street than in the library. A volume in the right hand indicates his calling as a man of letters; his left arm placed a-kimbo gives an air of leisurely meditation.

Mr. Ward's conception of Shakspeare, and it is legitimate, is evidently that of a man of the world, in the best sense that can be given that much-abused term. That is to say, a man who is no recluse, no idealist, no dreamer, no speculative philosopher, who constructs the universe out of materials that are extant in the depths of his consciousness, but a man who lives in the world, observes it, studies it, reflects on it, takes it just as it is, and tries to get at the moral laws that make it go on. He is first of all, an observer, no theorist, no moralist, no apologist, no scholastic philosopher, no preacher; but a creature endowed with extraordinary powers of impartial discernment; a healthy person, therefore, well organized and equipped for practical emergencies, at home in all scenes, and hospitable to all characters. The power of this frame indicates endurance, of participation in the common affairs of life; the elegance of it tells of familiarity with people of culture. He is not awkward. He has no thought of his clothes. Some will be surprised at the apparent youthfulness of the figure, and will judge it to be a mistake that so few traces of thought are indicated in the lines of his face. But this, too, may be explained on the theory just mentioned.

A Widow to Beware of.

A lady of Milwaukie has recently experienced the "Death do us part" with her seventh husband, and she is now a fresh and charming widow of 34. She was first married in 1855, at the age of 17, and her husband died two years afterward. She married her second husband in 1859, who lived but six months after the marriage. In 1861 she married again, and her husband enlisted and was killed in an action in Virginia. During the war she married twice, and both her husbands were killed. In 1866 she married again, and the husband died in 1867. In 1870 she was again in the oft-trodden pathway to the altar, and about two months ago she returned from the well-tracked pathway to her husband's tomb. Her experience of mankind ought to be valuable.

An employment office in Chicago advertises for any number of girls to fill situations in families, promising them from three to ten dollars per week wages, and "carriages waiting at the door to take them to their places."

Foreign and Domestic Drugs.

Assayers, Bakers, Confectioners, Hair Dressers, Dyers, and all manufacturers needing druggist's articles, will find it to their advantage to examine the cash price list of Stroh, Schmidt & Co., importers, (successors to Hug & Schmidt) 535 Commercial st., one door below Montgomery. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitchmen on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in the management of their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the war straight into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course is very nature of their case rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have replaced the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of the class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and the more part of them of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $28 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 86, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, 1 Singer, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$36 for the Empire, and $20 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "so do transit glor a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading second hand, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of tired-out bachelor men. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strappin young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipes of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest resembling more that of boarding days when the brave tars, despising long range, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—(New York Tribune April 18.

Fourth of July Musicians.

About three hundred musicians will be idle on the Fourth of July in San Francisco unless they get engagements in other cities. The Committee offer them $12 each for the day's work; they demand $15. The bands on the Fourth under these circumstances will be composed of the tag-rag and bobtail of the profession. Up country, music commands a higher price than is offered here. The following appears in the Stockton Independent:

The Stockton cornet band has been engaged to play at Modesto on the Fourth of July. The price paid the band is $20 to each member for playing in the day time, and $10 for playing at the ball in the evening.

Thirty dollars for a day's work is good pay, but the Fourth of July comes but once a year—a fact which the San Francisco Committee do not take into consideration.

A Horrid Place.

Oakland must be a horrid place. Here is an advertisement which appeared in Wednesday's News:

BEWARE OF HER!—Anybody having any dealings with Mrs. M. Heyman had better be cautious about the bargains made with her. She is a woman who wants more than is bargained for. J. B. BAXTER.

Oh! Baxter, we are ashamed of you. Don't you ever get more than you bargained for? How can you be so ungallant as to put a lady in the papers because she drives a close bargain? The ladies of Oakland can't love Baxter any more after such conduct as these.

M. G. Upton.

M. G. Upton, who wrote most of the editorial notes of the Alta, having retired, the daily papers kindly give him notices of this kind: "M. G. Upton has retired from the editorial staff of the Alta." They could say a good deal more but they kindly refrain. One says he has retired "after writing for that paper over ten years." We are not so kind as our contemporaries. We say M. G. Upton has retired and we look for a marked improvement in the Alta in future. That's what the other papers don't like to say.

Some Programmes.

The quantity of paper required for the Boston Jubilee programmes seems almost fabulous. The estimate is five tons.

Writing versus Trade.

In journalism, as in every other art, the many fail, the one succeeds. Writing for the press—as numerous literary aspirants would be wise to remember—is a pursuit quite distinct from trade. A man may be a trader whose heart is not in his vocation. Arithmetic and shrewdness have nothing to do with the emotions. They are of the head, and not the heart. But no man can write well whose heart does not reinforce his head. The article which is written with a view to the money which the writer expects to get for it is usually fitter for the waste-paper basket than for publication. It may, possibly, rise to the dignity of padding; it will never rise to the dignity of potential thought or persuasive feeling. There are, it is true, certain exceptional natures in which the money motive arouses all that is enthusiastic. A certain Hebrew once sat to Allston for his portrait, and, when his countenance was observed to wear a beatific expression and the artist asked him what he was thinking about, he replied: "I was thinking what a lot of money you will get for that picture when it is finished." This wild, unnatural joy over a heap of dollars, however, is not the spring of ideas; and persons moved by no higher impulse toward writing than a desire for pecuniary gain may take it for granted, in advance, that they will fail as writers, and that their energies had better be expended in some other direction.

A Heathenish City.

What a heathenish place that San Jose must be. Last night the "Witty Sociables" (we never heard of that tribe of red Indians before) gave an amateur entertainment in which they "illustrated Dickens in a manner startling to behold," as we learn from the Mercury. Previous to the entertainment the following "special" appeared in that paper:

Any gentleman in possession of an ancient swallow-tail coat will confer a favor by leaving it at this office for the use of the Dickens delineations to come off on Friday evening. It will be carefully used and returned in good order.

We don't know whether or no there was a swallow-tail coat found in San Jose, but most likely this garment, which is a mark of civilization, is unknown there.

Patent Lightning.

An Eastern paper speaking of Joe Jefferson's failing vision, says:

It is not improbable that this disease of the eye has been aggravated by a patent imitation lightning used in the performance of "Rip Van Winkle." It will be remembered that when the disconsolate Rip is turned out of the house by his indignant wife, he stands for a moment in the open doorway, while the lightning of the storm plays directly in his face. The light used is intense in its power, and strikes directly on the eye.

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 649 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "Boydell's Illustrations to Shakspeare," in two vols., mammoth folio; "Bartlett's Illustrations of Scenery in America, Scotland, Italy," etc., in five vols. quarto, elegantly bound in morocco; "Murphy's Arabian Antiquities of Spain," in Atlas folio; "The Dusseldorf," "Munich," "British" and "Royal Galleries," and other Picture Galleries—largest and best editions; "Lord Kingsborough's Mexican Antiquities," a colored set in nine folio volumes—the most expensive work ever published in England. Etc., etc. *

The Last New Song.

Mary bought a Hoosier Trap
And set it on the shelf,
And every time she took it down
You know how it is yourself.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 to 2,500 persons. Over 650,000 in use; 250,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. G

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This

The Peace Society.

Mrs. Emily Pitts-Stevens belongs to the Peace Society. Apropos of this society we find the following in the Boston Courier:

A private letter from a friend in London, dated May 31st, contains this paragraph: "Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is here, her object being to enlist the active support of the women of England to a crusade against war. I regret to say that thus far she has not met much support, but there is assuredly something assuredly novel in the idea of a lady crossing the Atlantic for such an object. She attended the Peace Society's meeting on Tuesday, but did not speak; although a country-woman of hers, Kate Field of your city was specially invited to take part in the proceedings of a benevolent dinner on the following morning."

I am Here.

At a recent woman suffrage meeting in London the hall was so crowded that when the speakers arrived they could not get in. Mrs. Prof. Fawcett and others climbed in by a ladder at a window, back of the stage and when she came to speak, said: "We are told that women have not as much energy as men. I deny it. A moment ago I was out side this room in the thick crowd of which was Mr. Arthur Arnold. Mr. Arthur is still in the crowd. I am here." The little woman was roundly applauded.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
The 'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. No Fancy Prices.

It is not necessary in these days to give fancy prices for the best brands of cigars. At the Custom House Cigar Store, 518 Battery street, the following brands can be obtained at the subjoined low prices: Espanola, $4 50 per box; Estrella Figs, $3 50 per box; El Rodo, $2 50 per box. These cigars are made of Havana tobacco, and are warranted equal to those imported. The store is directly opposite the Custom House. S

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Lawrence Barrett had a crowded house at his benefit last night. To-night "Julius Cæsar" will be played for the last time and Mr. Barrett will close his engagement, which has been a most successful one At the close of the third act last night, Mr. Barrett, in response to a general call, appeared before the curtain and expressed himself under lasting obligations to the public for its generous support and most heartily thanked Manager M'Cullough for his "noble efforts," both personal and professional, to render his engagement a success. This sentiment was warmly responded to by the audience. Tonight Mr. McCullough will appear as Brutus and Henry Edwards as Marc Antony. "Julius Cæsar" will be played at the matinee to-day. On Monday the incomparable Aimee and her brilliant troupe of operatic artistes will commence a short engagement.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE. — The usual matinee performance will be given to-day, and this evening the bill which has been performed before delighted audiences during the week will be presented. Among the amusing features are the finale of Smith's Mule, the Rival Policy Agents and In and Out. The screaming burlesque of Divorce concludes the entertainment.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Miss Maggie Mitchell will appear at the matinee performance to-day in "Little Barefoot," and in the evening in the same piece, closing her engagement. To-morrow evening, J. H Vinson will have a benefit and present a splendid entertainment, the full programme of which appears on our first page. On Monday, Joe Murphy will commence an engagement and display his versatile powers to an audience, whose numbers will only be limited by the capacity of the theatre. Seats may be secured for Monday by application at the box office to-day.

BELLA UNION.—A splendid entertainment is given at this house by the company comprising such stars as Arthur Gregory and George Talbot, the Reynolds Brothers, M'lle Marie Gaugain, Johnny Tuers, J. H Larkin and Carrie Armstrong, and many other favorite artistes. The bill which has drawn crowded houses during the week will be repeated this evening.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—The great attraction at this house is the production of the burlesque of "Julius Cæsar," in which Chris Matthews, Geo. H. Foster, Harry Howard, Harry Devoe, Clara Starr, Louise Somers, May Leroy, Fanny Webster and the entire company appear. This is only one performance among the many which make up the entertainment.

BENEFIT TO J. H. VINSON.—To-morrow night J. H. Vinson, the veteran actor and stage manager, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit. He offers a great bill on this occasion. The performance will commence with Boucicault's drama of "Grimaldi, or the Life of an Actress." In this Miss Carrie G. Birdsall will make her first appearance on the stage in the character of Violet; William Barry, the ever-popular comedian, who has lately returned from an engagement in Oregon with G. B. Waldron's company, will make his reappearance on the San Francisco stage as Wapshot; J. H. Vinson will play Grimaldi, and the other parts will be in good hands. After this will come a laughable olio, in which the Christ Americus Troupe will appear in their entertainment. Miss Maggie Moore will sing a ballad, and Frank Rea will sing "Let us speak of a man as we find him." The evening's entertainment will conclude with the farce of "Bad Dickey," in which Lew Rattler, Charley Dickerson and Jake Wallace will appear. Every one volunteers for this occasion, and Mr. Vinson has enough friends outside the profession to ensure him a crowded house, even if a less attractive bill were offered.

CITY GARDENS—S. F. O. I. C.'s PICNIC. To-morrow the festival and picnic of the Independant Order of S. F. O. I. C.'s will be held at these popular gardens. A grand open air concert will be given by the band from 12 to 2 P. M Herr Schlam has been engaged to give exhibitions in magic and sleight-of-hand in the Grand Pavilion, from 2 to 3 At 3 o'clock, the racing and athletic sports will be commenced on the level ground near the Lake. At eight o'clock the prizes will be awarded in the Grand Pavilion, the whole to conclude with a grand ball. Dancing in the lower pavilion all the afternoon. For full programme, which is published in FIGARO only, see advertisement in another column.

NEW TALENT FOR THE ALHAMBRA.—Manager Maguire has telegraphed to Mr. Wetherill, manager pro tem of the Alhambra, that he has engaged Dave Wambold, Cool Burgess and Charles Sutton for the Alhambra. They are probably on their way here as they are engaged to put in an appearance on Monday, July 8th. Dave Wambold is known as the splendid tenor singer of the New York San Francisco Minstrels, and all old Californians will recollect him as holding the same position in the Birch and Backus troupe here before they went to New York. Cool Burgess is as quaint as his name, and ranks as one of the best humorous and Ethiopian delineators on the stage; he is great in big shoe dances and eccentric business. Charles Sutton is a good comedian, good song and dance man and general performer. Ainsley Scott has also been re-engaged, and will make his reappearance at the same time. These additions to the Alhambra troupe will make the company a very strong one.

CLOSE OF A DRAMATIC SEASON.—With to-night's performance at the California Theatre, the dramatic season will terminate after nearly three years of uninterrupted success; during the whole of which time the theatre has never been closed for a single night, Sunday's excepted. One season has succeeded another without the loss of a night's performance. No other theatre in the United States can present a simular record. The last two engagements, that of the Majilions and Mr. Lawrence Barrett, have been the most successful ones of the present year. After the forthcoming short season of opera bouffe by the Aimee Troupe, the doors of the theatre will be necessarily closed to make the long contemplated enlargement and remodeling of the auditorium portion of the house.

BENEFIT OF MISS FANNY GIBSON.—Miss Fanny Gibson who so long held her position as a public favorite while performing with the Emerson Minstrels, will on Wednesday next receive a complimentary benefit, when she will appear in some of her most attractive specialties, and present a very fine bill. Miss Gibson's talent and versatility are well appreciated by the public; they will seize this opportunity of proving it by giving her a bumper benefit.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The wonderful Cigar Boat will be on exhibition here to-morrow. First time of Callie Curtis in his velocipede sensation acts on a wire 25 feet from the floor, with trapeze performances by the brothers and the Limber Boy. On the Fourth, the famous Borer Guard will celebrate, and fireworks.

BENEFIT OF OWEN MARLOWE.—An extra matinee will be given at the California Theatre on Wednesday week, for the testimonial benefit tendered to Mr. Marlowe An immense bill will be presented.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—"A sniff of the briny" will do more to preserve the health than doctors' stuff, and a dinner at the Cliff House would set a consumptive on his legs again. The road will present a gay appearance to-morrow.

FOURTH OF JULY MATINEE.—There will be a Fourth of July matinee at the Metropolitan Theatre.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. To-morrow there will be, in addition to other attractions at this popular pleasure resort, a great acrobatic and gymnastic entertainment by the Lascelles Brothers, all stars in the profession. The standing attractions of the museum, menagerie, skating, boats on the lake, gymnasium, etc., draw many visitors during the week, and doubtless on Sunday thousands will enjoy a day in the country, trip by boat and rail and a fine entertainment, the whole cost of which is covered by four bits, the admission to the Park and all the amusements being 25 cents, while a return ticket costs only another two bits.

JOE MURPHY'S "HELP."—This play has been reconstructed, new scenes and sensations introduced, and will be produced with an entirely new programme of songs dances, etc.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

PETALUMA.—Frank Wilton with Miss Ellie Wilton and company opened at the Theatre on Thursday, the 27th, in "A Victim of Circumstances;" Friday, "Fanchon;" Saturday, "A Tale of Blood;" Monday, "Still Waters Run Deep;" Tuesday, "Medea;" Wednesday, "The Father's Legacy;" Thursday, "Retribution." A matinee will be given on the Fourth.

QUINCY.—The ladies of Quincy will give an entertainment at the Town Hall on Monday evening, July 1st. It will consist of vocal and instrumental music, tableaux vivants, dancing, etc. The proceeds of the entertainment will be appropriated to the payment of the indebtedness on the Hall.

MARYSVILLE.—San Francisco Circus performs on July 2d.

GRASS VALLEY.—The Berger Family performed on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The Union of the 26th gives them a half-column notice, from which we take the following:

Hamilton Hall was filled to repletion last evening to enjoy the second of the richest musical treats ever given in Grass Valley. The character of the entertainments given by the ladies and gentlemen of the Berger Family are, beyond cavil, the most chaste and graceful we have ever had the pleasure of spending an enjoyable hour in listening to; and the old saw, "laugh and grow fat," received additional force from the outward and inward manifestations of the happy and joyous audience.

SAN JOSE.—Miss Edith O'Gorman lectured at the Opera House on Thursday evening to a well pleased audience.

STOCKTON.—The San Francisco Circus gave their splendid performance on Wednesday and Thursday evening, chartering a steamer in order to fill an engagement with the public. A model circus!

SACRAMENTO.—The San Francisco Circus performed here last night, will give entertainments this afternoon and evening, and will appear for the last time on Monday..... The Bee says that W. J. Cogswell will bring up a company to give a performance on the Fourth of July at the Metropolitan Theatre.

DENVER.—The California Minstrels, Charley Vincent, Frank Sparrow, Cogill and Cooper, and others were announced to appear at the theatre on the 25th. They were announced modestly too:

Chaste, Refined, Elegant and Amusing; patronized by the elite of fashion of the Western Cities, and known everywhere they have appeared, to be the Ne Plus Ultra Combination of the Pacific Coast.

CARSON CITY.—Piper's Opera House company played on Tuesday and Wednesday evening's to good houses.

OAKLAND.—The Lascelles Brothers will appear in a gymnastic entertainment at Badger's Grand Central Park to-morrow.

PORTLAND, O.—Vivian was billed to make his appearance on June 24d if the steamer got in in time. "Normie, or the Foster Sisters," Vivian's specialties, and "The Shoemaker" formed the bill announced.

SALT LAKE.—Charles Wheatleigh commenced an engagement of six nights on the 24th, opening in "A Victim of Circumstances" and the comedietta of "Forty Winks." Mr. Wheatleigh appeared in both pieces, supported by James M. Hardie and the Salt Lake Theatre company.

VIRGINIA CITY.—W. C. Crosbie took a benefit at Piper's Opera House last night. Next week Lawrence Barrett, supported by members of the California Theatre company, will commence an engagement.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York the season of English Opera at Bryant's Opera House closed on the 15th .....At the Olympic Geo. L. Fox took his benefit and "Hupty Dumpty" received its 1001st representation in New York. The entire troupe will make a year's tour of the country, commencing in Boston, going as far South as New Orleans and as far West as San Francisco. New dresses have been made and new scenery painted, giving to the piece an entirely new appearance..... Fifth Avenue Theatre is closed for renovation.....Edwin Adams in "Enoch Arden" at Booth's Theatre.....Johnny Thompson drew fair houses at Wood's in "Our Colored Brother".....The Dramatic News says: "Charles Foster's new drama of "The Swamp Angels" was produced at the Bowery Theatre on Monday evening last. The name and some of the principal incidents are taken from the interviewing of the Lowery gang by the Herald correspondent. The author, however, has given full play to his imagination, and in consequence has introduced scenes and incidents which can only be classed as impossibilities, and which must have astonished the correspondent. We cannot cannot see why Mr. Foster should prostitute his abilities in this manner or what end is to be served by writing such stuff. The piece is full of blood and thunder, and has drawn full houses. ....."On the Jury" is being played at Wallack's .....Mrs. James A. Oates in "Fortunion" at Union Square Theatre.....Sam Sharpley's Minstrels doing well. ....The panoramic play of "Chicago" lately brought out at the Theatre Comique is decidedly realistic. One of its scenes is a cow stable with a mechanical cow, a kerosene lamp, which the cow kicks over, and immediately after there is a scene of Chicago in flames. After the fire there is a life-like representation of Jas. Fisk, Jr., driving a six in hand express wagon, and soliciting contributions.....The Georgia Minstrels have Lina Edwin's Theatre.....Robert Stoepel, of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, will be musical director of the Grand Opera House next season, and Harvey B. Dodworth will occupy the same position at the Fifth Avenue Theatre.....William S. Gilbert, the well-known English dramatic author, arrived in New York in the last trip of the Cuba. He will make a trip of the watering places and other places of interest, and will be present at the Peace Jubilee in Boston....The Lydia Thompson Troupe will open at Wallack's Theatre on July 22d. The company will be entirely reorganized.

The New York Dipatch says:

Mr. Geo. Coes, the able and efficient stage-manager of the Union Square Theatre, retired from that position on the 13th., and will henceforth travel with the Vokes Family, acting as their advance agent. During his long stay in this city, Mr. Coes has been universally popular, both with the public and the profession, and his return again as stage manager of one of our leading theatres, a position for which he is in every way capable will be hailed with satisfaction.

Mr. Daly has engaged Miss Mary Stuart (sister of Stuart Robson) for the Fifth Avenue Theatre for next season. This is the lady who created a sensation as Miggs in "Barnaby Rudge."

It is said that Mr. B. N. Pike purposes building a new theatre on the corner of Twenty-third street and Broadway, New York.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau is at Long Branch, where her husband has just completed a handsome residence.

Walter Bray, Kansas City, June 13th.

Madame Lopez and children, gymnasts, Smith's Opera House, East Saginaw, Mich., June 17th.

Bonfarti, the danseuse, returns shortly to Italy with a fortune of twenty or thirty thousand dollars which she has made in this country.

Emerson's California Minstrels, Chicago, 17th, two weeks; St. Louis, July 1st, one week; Louisville, 8th, one week; Cincinnati, 15th, one week; Pittsburgh, 22d, one week; Park, Brooklyn, August 19th, one week.

In Philadelphia at Mortimer's Varieties the business is poor and to increase it they are trying gifts of hams, causing people to make jokes about "ham fatters."

A. D. Davies, first ventriloquist of the world, is now, in conjunction with Sargent, illusionist, performing to crowded houses at the Eleventh-street Opera, Philadelphia, and is advertised for the National Theatre, Washington, July 1st; Museum, Boston, 8th.

An opera House large enough to accommodate 3,000 people will be commenced in Little Rock, Ark., next month, to be finished by Christmas.

A new Opera House is to be built in Piqua, Ohio, this Summer.

A Cremona violin, made in the 15th century, was sold in New York, last week, to a Cincinnati banker, for $1,500.

Harry Hawk, late an esteemed member of the Brooklyn Theatre company, has been engaged by Furbish & Wilton to travel through the New England States.

Of the prominent members of the Opera Bouffe who lately visited this country, we notice that Celine Montaland is at the Theatre du Chatalet, Paris; Lea Silly is at the Menus-Plaisirs; Rosa Bell is at the Folies-Marigny, and M. Hittemans is at the Varieties.

The New York Mercury says:

Our Brooklyn correspondent writes us that Chas. Melville, the level-headed business manager of the Tony Denier Troupe, tells him that the Mercury is the best show paper in the country, and that he would forfeit two of his daily meals rather than be without it. Virtue has its reward.

Bah! There are scores of people in California who'd rather give up their meals altogether (and live on whisky) rather than be without FIGARO.

There promises to be a dearth of first-class stars next season. Lotta has declined all offers, and will be in Europe, and Edwin Booth, J. E. Owens and L. P. Barrett, Edwin Adams, and others, perhaps, will head travelling companies of their own Jefferson is now confined with a threatened loss of eyesight, and may not soon recover.

F. S. Chanfrau seems to be managerially regarded as one of the most promising stars for the next season, if not the most so. His services are in very eager request.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers has leased a house for the Summer at Mt. Pleasant, in the suburbs of Westchester.

Carlotta Le Clercq, with her agent, W. M. Canning, arrived in New York, on the 15th, from California.

Amy Stone, Seventh-street Opera House, Philadelphia, June 17th.

Joe Proctor and company opened at the Opera House, Providence, 17th.

Owen Fawcett and W. Crisp are to try "Divorce", with a travelling company.

Miss Lizzie Price is not going to lead the Museum in Philadelphia, next season, as reported.

One Charles Heyman forged a check in Chicago recently upon the First National Bank, for $5,000, and cut stick for England with an unnamed ballet girl from McVicker's Theatre. The authorities at Queenstown have received a telegram regarding him from this side, and he will be arrested there.

Mrs. Lau a Le Clair Phillips is engaged for the Boston Globe Theatre for next season.

Mr. Frank Mayo is playing in "Man and Wife," at the Academy of Music, Chicago.

The Mejiltons have formed a combination with the Lauri Family.

Prof. Sylvester and Miss Angelique Schott reopened the Brooklyn Opera House on the 17th with their original entertainment.

The Dramatic News under date of the 12th says:

"Schneider" was rendered the first part of last week at Hooley's Opera House, but, we regret to say, was withdrawn, to give place to a miserable production, entitled "Nobody's House." Whatever induced Johnny Allen to take off "Schneider," (which by the way is a very amusing production) and substitute the nonentity mentioned above, we cannot say. One thing is evident—that he did not increase his business by it. Johnny Allen, Little Mac and Alice Harrison are a strong team, and should drop "Nobody's House."

Mr. O. W. Tayleure advertises that the engagements for the second starring season of the beautiful and brilliant Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau already extend beyond the Christmas holidays. He is open to offers from first-class managers after Jan. 1. He considers that Mrs. Chanfrau's late season exceeded in success that of any lady star with two exceptions. She will produce a new society comedy and a strong emotional from the French, in connection with her specialties of last season. To one of these, "Explanation," another act of deep interest has been added. The success of Mrs. Chanfrau's sterling piece proves a healthful state of dramatic taste throughout the Union. Mrs. Chanfrau will be the first star next season at the California Theatre, San Francisco.

Rumor asserts that Mr. W. J. Florence has been engaged by Mr. Augustin Daly as stage manager of the Grand Opera House.

The New York Mercury under date of the 14th, says:

Manager John McCullough, of the California, was reported on Friday, from San Francisco, as dying.

Anyone looking at John McCullough in the character of Brutus, would be convinced that he has not much fear of death just at present. He was unwell at the time specified, but soon got over it.

J. W. Wallack will play in "The Bells" at Booth's during August.

Anna Dickinson is to lecture on Horace Greeley through the coming campaign, and give him fits for allowing his paper to sneer at woman suffrage

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Lydia Thompson, now in England, will return and appear at Wallack's on July 25. It is said that Miss Rose Coghlan and Miss Rose Beverly have been added to her troupe.

Mr. Oreswick, who has been welcomed back to the London stage with great cordiality, appeared lately at the Surrey Theatre as Ethelwold in "Ambition," adapted from the French play of "Catharine Howard," by Alexander Dumas.

The grand choral concert in London under the direction of Gounod, the composer of "Faust," came off with great success. There were some twelve hundred singers in the chorus, and the occasion was honored by the presence of Queen Victoria.

Mrs. John Wood is still announced as lessee of the St. James Theatre, London. Mons. Raphael Felix's Parizian comedy company at present occupy the house.

General Tom Thumb, Commodore Nutt and Miss Minnie Warren are at Hengler's Grand Cirque, London.

Mr. Harry Leslie is playing in "The Virginian Mummy" at the London Alhambra.

Mr. Howard Paul is at the Hotel du Louvre, Paris.

M. Capoul is at Her Majesty's Opera House, London.

What H. Greeley

THINKS ABOUT THEM.—WHILST HE WAS sojourning in one of our Eastern cities he stopped at a first-class Hotel. In the morning he stated that he never slept so well before. When the landlord informed him that M. MURPHY made all his SPRING MATTRESSES, "then said Greeley, "never change your UPHOLSTERER." "Alas!" said the landlord, with a very heavy sigh, "he is now in SAN FRANCISCO, No. POWELL, near Market street, where he MAKES and REPAIRS SPRING MATTRESSES, and on the plan he has adopted for tying Springs will make them last for years." my30 1m

Miss Annie Adams.

The following letter from Miss Annie Adams, the famous serio-comic vocalist, explains itself. We hope that before long this very popular artiste may be induced to visit California:

DEAGLE'S VARIETIES THEATRE,
ST. LOUIS, June 20, 1872.

Miss Annie Adams, the serio-comic vocalist, presents her compliments to the Editor of the San Francisco FIGARO, and having noticed the paragraph in the issue of the 8th June, begs to say that she has made no engagement in California, and she is not aware there is any other lady of her name in the same line.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. No Fancy Prices.

It is not necessary in these days to give fancy prices for the best brands of cigars. At the Custom House Cigar Store, 518 Battery street, the following brands can be obtained at the subjoined low prices: Espanola, $4 50 per box; Estrella Figa, $3 50 per box; El Bodo, $2 50 per box. These cigars are made of Havana tobacco, and are warranted equal to those imported. The store is directly opposite the Custom House. S

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeisted, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. P

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. FLUSH TIMES OF THE DRAMA.

We have been handed by Mr. J. H. Vinson, one of the managers and lessees of the old American Theatre on Sansome street in 1852, a much-worn manuscript giving an account of one week's expenditures and receipts. As a memento of the pioneer days of the drama in this city it is worthy of preservation:

Beautiful Books.

Among the rare and costly works lately received at the great book emporium of Horace H. Moore, 609 Montgomery street, near Merchant, are "Boydell's Illustrations to Shakspeare," in two vols., mammoth folio; "Bartlett's Illustrations of Scenery in America, Scotland, Italy," etc., in five vols. quarto, elegantly bound in morocco; "Murphy's Arabian Antiquities of Spain," in Atlas folio; "The Dusseldorf," "Munich," "British" and "Royal Gallery," and other Picture Galleries—largest and best editions; "Lord Kingsborough's Mexican Antiquities," a colored set in nine folio volumes—the most expensive work ever published in England. Etc., etc.

Advice to Housekeepers,

Economy must be practised in every household at the present time; the late stock panic has lightned the purses of many of our citizens and compels them to select the cheapest and best stores of the city to obtain their supplies from. To purchase their household utensils, such as stoves, tinware, crockery, glassware and kitchen hardware in general, they go to S. Sylvester & Co., 908 Market st. and 7 Ellis st., where special attention is also paid to making and repairing roofs. Q

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything, the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting

A Rocky Mountain Criticism.

The Denver Daily Times of the 21st June has the following gushing notice of the Queen of Opera Bouffe:

The theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity last night to witness the first appearance of M'lle Aimee, as La Grande Duchesse, upon the Denver boards. No wonder. The opera had paid a visit to the Rocky Mountains. The grandeur of nature and the perfection of art were in close communion. The opera—not the grand opera, but the opera comique, or rather bouffe—of Offenbach's peculiar style, which has made M. Offenbach very rich and M'lle Aimee very popular—was in Denver. Aimee was here also. Nobody before had seen Aimee or the opera, at least not in Denver. It created as much sensation here as the cholera would in Paris. Everybody expected to be charmed with her, but M'lle Aimee did more than charm them. She enchanted with her music—she dazzled with her eyes—she captivated all by her grace and wit—and now and then by an opportune display of a marvellously pretty little foot, which seemed to disdain the slipper which encased it, she drew the attention of her audience from her appar to her nether charms. Much of the libretto (which was rendered in French) of course was lost on those who do not understand the language; but in versatility and grace of action, in the pantomime of motion and expression, and above all in a thorough conception and impersonation of her role, it was all the same to those who heard it whether the libretto was in French, English or Italian. It was the Grand Duchess of Gerolstein—it was Aimee, the accomplished artiste, the superb looking woman, whose superior acting as well as singing, and whose Spanish wit and beauty formed the chief attraction.

That is a better written notice of the fascinating Aimee and her performance than will appear in any of the San Francisco dailies while she is here. That Rocky Mountain editor has some appreciation of true art, and that phrase, "The grandeur of nature and the perfection of art were in close communion," is a very neat one.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game.
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE UNDERSIGNED DESIRES TO CALL public attention to the Law Forbidding the Discharge of Firearms within the inhabited portions of the City and County of San Francisco.

This law makes no exception as to the Fourth of July, and experience has shown that the frequent and indiscriminate shooting on that day is productive of no good and much harm, several persons having being severely injured—some losing their hands, some their eyes, and some having received bullets in their persons which might have produced fatal results, and evil disposed persons having taken advantage of the general license and fired bullets into the houses of those to whom they were inimical.

Therefore, for the safety of life and property and for the comfort and security of the inhabitants of this city the prohibition of the discharge of firearms will be strictly enforced.
